TWO HOMES WRECKED BY BLAST

Today

Short and Good.
13,000,000 Years Ago.
6 Billion Pounds Yearly.
More Reading and Thought.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S Christmas Day message had all the necessary good qualities. It was short, only 31 words. It wasted none of the few words on regrets or wailings about conditions.

Mr. Hoover uttered the formal hope for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, and will do all that he can to make the latter real.

There is hard work ahead for everybody, and whining on Christmas would not make it easier.

IN NORTHERN ALBERTA engineers of the Canadian government have discovered the oldest preserved trees in the world. Their branches were waving over strange animals, including unsouth half-developed men, fifteen million years ago, when our continent was connected with Asia.

That makes our giant redwood trees, "2,000 years old when Christ was born," seem very young.

HERMETICALLY sealed in bitumen sands, safe from the destroying air, the wood was perfectly preserved, with some of its leaves, and the insects that were attacking both, when all were buried together.

Dr. Bailey, of Harvard, proves that one of the trees is a Japanese variety.

Those old trees, growing on a huge continent that included North America and Japan fifteen million years ago, make our few days and little troubles seem less important.

THERE IS trouble on Henry Ford's gigantic rubber plantations in Brazil, where Ford agents are developing six million acres of tropical land. It is interesting to think how many pythons, jaguars and monkeys will be disturbed by tractors and ploughs that are going day and night, working under floodlights in the cooler night hours.

INCLUDED AMONG other inhabitants are some human beings that resent being disturbed, and the Brazilian government sends police by airplane to make them realize that Ford, bringing "American living conditions and wages," should be made welcome.

Planting trees always means looking ahead, usually to the next generation. But with rubber it is not so slow. The trees that Ford has already planted in Brazil will yield, ten years hence six thousand million pounds of rubber a year.

RUBBER WAS Brazil's monopoly until a few years ago. Then Brazil began growing coffee, taking the world trade from Java, and a clever individual in England successfully moved the rubber growing to Joppa, where it was then unknown. Now Ford promises to bring the world's rubber production back to the South American continent.

ACCORDING TO Bacon, "reading maketh a full man." British statistics prove that hard times create more reading. Books of all kinds, including worth while books on science, biology, astronomy, technology, etc., have increased in number of publications and in total sales.

When life is easy, the average man does little thinking. In trouble, he thinks hard, and for thinking he wants printed information on which sound thought is based.

TWENTY BILLION dollars in gold might help the world considerably. Twenty million earnest thoughts would help it more than any gold. One single accomplishment, based on thought, the production of STEAM POWER, paid all the debts that Napoleon saddled on the nations and gave industry such impetus as never had been dreamed of.

THE FIRST DAY of 1930's last week is past. Six days left to get ready for 1931. In any minute of the six days an idea might come, with power to change the destiny of men for all time.

An idea is born in a second. Time develops it, and will power makes it real. All progress is in thought and will.

GEN. HINES, veterans' administrator, has prepared figures to interest veterans of the big war.

Some of them will live 55 years longer. Mortality statistics show that the last will go probably in the year 1985. Some of their widows will last until 2058, which will be 128 years from now.

THOSE LAST widows, as young women, will marry very old pensioned veterans, and continue drawing their pension for many years.

The government has already spent five thousand million dollars on veterans' relief. By the end of 1940 it will have spent thirteen billions, three thousand millions more than it lent Europe in the war.

Fighting is expensive for all concerned, especially for soldiers that sacrifice health and opportunity.

POPE PIUS, greeting the cardinals on Christmas Day, expresses his belief that fears dominating the world so universally are excessive and that the predicted tempest among the nations may not come, meaning that the nations will not indulge in another war.

He asked the prayers of the faithful for Mexican Catholics, also for those that "die and suffer in Russia and Siberia," and for the missionary martyrs in China.

His Holiness complained of Protestant proselyting in Rome itself, describing it as impudent, an offense to himself and contrary to the Italian law.

TWO STORES HELD UP IN DAYLIGHT

Wylie Ave. Pawnshop, East Carnegie Grocery Robbed; Holiday Banditry Continues

Banditry continued in the Pittsburgh district today as two daylight holdups of business houses were reported to police.

Two armed men entered the pawn shop of Abe Lippard, 623 Wylie avenue, this morning, forced the proprietor to the floor with a revolver and scooped up diamonds and cash totaling approximately $10,000, Lippard reported.

The thieves were described as young and well-dressed. Lippard found one of them waiting for him when he opened the store. He purchased a watch, and when Lippard went to the safe in the rear of the store, the bandit's confederate entered, Lippard said, and staged the holdup.

TAKE $750 CASH

From the cash drawer they took $750 in cash—Lippard's holiday receipts. They then took a valise from a table, and put a tray of diamonds into it and fled.

Police were notified and a search for the men was being made in the downtown.

33 DIE AS QUAKE RUINS TOWN

SALTA, Argentina, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Thirty-three dead and more than 70 persons injured were counted today as the toll of earthquakes over the holidays, which destroyed La Poma, small Andean village.

A relief expedition arrived in the little mountain town Christmas Day after a 24-hour march and found the survivors of Wednesday's quakes, terror-stricken by six new tremors, camped among the debris of their homes.

QUEBEC, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A minor earthquake, apparently centered near Baie St. Paul, was felt yesterday afternoon through a wide portion of the province of Quebec, Chicoutimi, in the East, and Montreal in the West, both reported slight tremors, while many other places, including Murray Bay, sent similar reports.

Machado Deports Italian Writer

HAVANA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—President Machado today ordered the deportation of Aldo Baroni, news editor of the Diario de la Marina, for his part in the publication of objectionable articles, which resulted in suspension of the paper last week.

Baroni, an Italian, was expelled from Cuba during the administration of President Menocal, but was permitted to return under a general amnesty decree. He is now imprisoned at the Cabanas fortress.

NYE TO SCAN G.O.P. BANK RECORDS

By PIERCE MILLER.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. Bank records of the Republican National Committee that might have a bearing on disposition of the $40,000 "special account," opened for the "convenience" of Executive Director Robert H. Lucas, have to all intents been impounded, it was learned today.

One of the last acts of Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, chairman of the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee, before a holiday truce was declared in its investigation of the anti-Norris Nebraska campaign furore, was to subpena records of both the regular national committee account and the special account in the Commercial National Bank here. This action was taken, Nye explained, to prevent return to committee officials of canceled checks drawn against the accounts and still in the bank's possession.

KLAN INVOLVED

Lucas, from his home in Kentucky, denied thinly veiled charges that the klan was used by him in his fight on Norris.

Members of the committee, however, pointed out that some of the literature was identical with that used by the klan in the 1928 campaign against Al Smith. All was printed by the klan organ, and one poster in particular, which was denounced in the Senate as "scurrilous," depicted a bar-room scene.

PRINT SHOP INQUIRY

There was indication the committee will delve into the books of the Independent Publishing Company, which prints the Fellowship Forum, the Klan publication, to learn the extent to which its print shop was used for turning out other literature used by the Republican National Committee or Lucas.

Meanwhile, Senator Norris said today he did not "suppose anybody seriously thinks I will lead a third party movement," but reserved until later detailed comment on the letter he received from John Dewey, of the League for Independent Political Action, suggesting that he leave Republican ranks and form a third political party.

Telephones Dec. 26, Talks on Christmas

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Although John Hicks didn't place a long-distance call to relatives in Sedalia, Mo., until December 26, he was able to speak to them on Christmas Day. Hicks was in Australia across the international date line. Telephone company officials here said Hicks' call was the longest Christmas message on their records.

Fisher to 'Receive' New Year's Day

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Gov. Fisher will hold his annual public reception at the executive mansion from 3 to 5 o'clock on New Year's afternoon, January 1, he announced today. He will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tatnall Brown, Jr., of Haverford, and Frank Gorman, secretary to the Governor.

Ruins of Two Braddock Houses After Blast and Fire

BOMB HINTED IN BRADDOCK EXPLOSION

Dwellings Swept by Flames; Filling Station Burns as Auto Hits Fuel Pump

Two explosions followed by fires caused damage estimated at $28,000 in the Pittsburgh district last night and early today.

Two frame houses at 605 and 607 Margaretta street, Braddock, were damaged $8,000, according to Police Lieut. Edward McDonough, when a blast blew out the fronts of both residences early today.

FIRE FOLLOWS BLAST

Both buildings were damaged badly by fire. Windows of several nearby houses were broken by the concussion.

Police at first believed the blast in Braddock was caused by gas, but today they were working on the theory that the explosion may have been due to a bomb.

The dwelling at 605 Margaretta street was tenanted, according to police, by James Benardo, his wife, Nellie, and three small children. They were not at home at the time of the explosion. Police today were endeavoring to learn the name of the family next door.

TRIO FLEE HOSPITAL

A woman, carrying a baby in her arms, and another child, aged 2, all in scanty attire, ran out of the dwelling in 607 Margaretta street following the blast. They were taken to Braddock General Hospital at direction of police, but were taken away by an acquaintance before their identity could be learned, police and hospital attaches said.

Mrs. Benardo was at Ward's Restaurant, 722 Braddock avenue, where she is an employe, at the time of the explosion. Her husband was at work in a nearby store. Their three children were visiting their grandmother.

A blast and resultant flames caused when an automobile ran into a gasoline pump at the Cities Service Company station, Baum boulevard and Amber street, caused damage last night of $20,000, according to Fire Chief Fred S. Beckett.

The heat from the service station fire at Baum boulevard and Amber street, was so intense that it melted two ornamental lamp

Babe Ruth's Shooting Is Nipped by Wife

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. Babe Ruth evidently wouldn't mind if Babe got away soon for some hunting. Gazing wistfully at a nifty tree he fixed in the house for the kiddies, he sighed:

"If we only had an air rifle now we could go into the other room behind the piano and neatly pick those glass balls off the tree."

And up spoke Mrs. Ruth:

"There will be no shooting around the house."

Poincare Reported Progressing Well

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Raymond Poincaire's physician said today the patient was progressing satisfactorily and a consultation of doctors had been postponed until tomorrow. The war-time president suffered a vascular spasm last week.

DAVIS PRIMARY QUIZ NEAR END

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Completion of the investigation of the campaign funds spent on behalf of Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, during the first week after Congress reconvenes January 5 was promised today by Chairman Nye, of the Senate campaign committee.

Samuel M. Vauclain, chairman of the board of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, was treasurer of the Davis-Brown campaign committee in the Pennsylvania primary, is to recover a subpoena calling for his appearance before the committee during the first week of the reconvened session, Nye said.

In addition to hearing Vauclain's testimony, the committee, Nye stated, will "urge" Senator Davis to appear to give further explanation what portion of the more than $1,000,000 which Nye says was spent in the primary on the entire ticket was expended in Davis' individual behalf.

Barthelmess Keeps Child From Mother

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The Daily News says that Richard Barthelmess, screen actor, refused to send his 8-year-old daughter, Mary, to her mother, Mary Hay, his divorced wife, for Christmas.

Miss Hay, the News says, made extensive plans for the child's visit, which she expected in accordance with a recent agreement, but Barthelmess informed her by telegram that Mary would not arrive until New Year's.

SINCLAIR LEWIS' WIFE STRICKEN

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Mrs. Sinclair Lewis, former newspaper woman, whose husband recently won the Nobel prize for literature, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis here early today.

Lewis and his wife, the former Dorothy Thompson, who recently came here from Stockholm, attended a party last night. Mrs. Lewis was seized with violent pains early this morning and a physician was called in immediately.

She was taken to the Mommsen Sanitarium, where Prof Huebner, of Berlin University, performed the operation.

Free Verse Adorns Mrs. Hoover's Gifts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Employes of the White House have ash trays and jewel cases made of wood taken from the White House when it was remodeled two years ago. Accompanying each gift was a bit of free verse by Mrs. Hoover telling how a pine tree on the hills of Maryland became a portion of the storied structure and how the gifts, via waste basket and fire, eventually will go, free smoke before free wind, to touch again the hills of Maryland.

Franco to Seek Haven in Antwerp

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Commander Ramon Franco, trans-Atlantic airman and leader of Spain's recent abortive air force rebellion, sailed from Portugal today for Antwerp, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Lisbon.

Franco flew to Portugal when his revolutionary attempt failed. Liberated by the Portuguese authorities, he was given a passport by the Uruguayan consul general.

Prince Louis Bans Monaco Legislature

MONACO, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Both branches of Monaco's national legislative body were dissolved by Prince Louis today and replaced by a special delegation which will assure the government's permanency.

Prince Louis has met with considerable political opposition of late, culminating in a hostile demonstration upon his return from abroad a few days ago.

Newspaper Party for Poor Proves N. Y. Has a Heart

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

An old bedraggled ballad sings about being in the heart of New York, the city without a heart.

They say there's a teardrop for every spangle on Broadway.

They claim that even your own town is the city of broken hearts and busted fenders.

But you get a different view of New York and any other big town on Christmas Day.

We went down to the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, where the New York American distributed 15,000 Christmas baskets. Over 400 tons of food.

There were over 150,000 pounds of potatoes alone. Every basket contained 30 different items. Food, toys and candy.

When you see the folks going after those baskets you get a lump in your throat that makes you wish you were a giraffe so you could appreciate it more.

It means food for 85,000 people and enough left over to choke the biggest wolf that ever scratched the front door.

Anybody who contributed to the American's Christmas and relief fund was able to eat his own dinner with a huge contentment that could have made

Grease Paint Kills School Girl Actress

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Rita O'Bryan, 16-year-old high school student, was dead today, 24 hours after she put the grease paint on her face preparatory to playing the leading role in the Coxsackie High School senior class's annual Christmas play.

Septic poisoning, caused by the grease paint penetrating a small abrasion on her face, was the cause of death.

Miss Robbins to Wed T. Coffin Yarnall III

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Col. Charles B. Robbins, former assistant secretary of war, today announced the approaching marriage of his daughter, Miss Anna Marcella Robbins, to Thomas Coffin Yarnall III, of Chicago.

The wedding is scheduled for this spring. Miss Robbins made her debut in Washington in 1928.

ROCKNE DENIES HE'S DEAD

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, was informed by long-distance telephone today that rumors were current in Boston that he had died.

Like Mark Twain, however, the gridiron maestro took the occasion to point out that the reports were greatly exaggerated, asserting:

"I am feeling great, and will be back in Chicago in about a week."

Leslie Howard Ill, Show Fails to Go On

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The unwritten law of the stage, "the play must go on," failed to work here last night for the first time within the memory of the oldest dramatic critics in Chicago.

Leslie Howard, star of "Berkeley Square," appeared before the curtain in a dressing gown and announced the play could not continue because of his own illness. Laryngitis stopped the show. He was enthusiastically applauded.

Diamond to Leave Hospital January 1

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Jack "Legs" Diamond has completely recovered and will be released from a Welfare Island hospital on the first of the year, it was learned today. Diamond was shot four times in his hotel room here October 12 and authorities have attempted vainly to find out who did the shooting.

Kelly Claims Congress Reading Championship

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A claim of being "the most-read" member of Congress has been put forth by Representative Clyde Kelly, Edgewood, Pittsburgh.

With an average of five books a week, Representative Kelly figures he has read something like 260 volumes a year or a total approximating 3,600 during the seven terms he has served in the House.

Biography and history are Kelly's favorite subject, but his reading includes almost everything that is written.

The Representative says he is able to read a page at a time of a book on lighter subjects rather than a word or line, and in that manner gets the most out of his books in the minimum time. On other themes he spends much more time, often reading some books a second and third time.

'Abe Martin's' Creator, Kin Hubbard, Dead

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Kin Hubbard, 62, widely known cartoonist for the Indianapolis News, and creator of "Abe Martin," died in his home here at 4:30 a. m. today of heart disease.

Hubbard had been in poor health more than a year. He recently had been at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., for treatment.

Hubbard moved into his new $50,000 home in the North Side here only last spring. He was a neighbor of Meredith Nicholson, the author, who was one of the first to hurry to the Hubbard home when news of the artist's death became known.

Hubbard, who had been connected with the News here since 1904, was born at Bellefontaine, Ohio, where his father founded the Bellefontaine Examiner, a newspaper which still remains in the Hubbard family.

Mr. Hubbard's full name was Frank McKinney Hubbard, but he preferred the shorter name of "Kin." He was a close friend of Will Rogers and Chic Sales.

EXTRADITION OF THREE IN PERRY BANK HOLDUP STARTED

TWO MISSING SUSPECTS SOUGHT

One Caught in Akron Has Confessed Part in Holdup, Police Say; Given Hearing

Extradition proceedings were under way today for the three alleged Perry State Bank bandits, in New York police custody now, and a nation-wide search has been instituted for the two other members of the gang yet at large.

Emil Grayshock 19 of Akron, O., who, with Lewis Francis, 19, also of Akron, was arrested in a suburb of Akron Wednesday morning while they slept with a loaded revolver between them, has confessed, Detectives Walter Monaghan and Joseph Leith said, to his part of the bank robbery December 13, in which more than $5,000 was stolen.

PAIR HELD

Grayshock and Francis were held for further investigation at a hearing today before Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court.

Immediately upon their return to Pittsburgh with Grayshock and Francis, the detectives learned from Francis that $110 of the bank loot and a revolver stolen in the holdup were hidden on the farm near his home. Taking Francis with them, Monaghan and Leith sped back to the Akron suburb, where they recovered the money and revolver, they said.

CONFESSES GUILT

Confronted with this evidence, Grayshock, who had declared he was innocent, "broke," detectives declared, and admitted participating in the robbery of the Perry bank.

Grayshock, Harry Hoover, Eddie Pushney and Benny Lipkovitz—the latter in a New York Hospital with a bullet wound inflicted by a New York detective—and a youth named Sitro and Mike Melville were indicted by the December grand jury, which was recalled last Wednesday.

GARNER BACKS CASH BONUS TO VETS

House Soldiers' Bloc Wins 92 Adherents; Democrat Seeks Optional Provision

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. Backers of immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus gained a powerful ally today when Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader of the House, declared the payment would be just, and have a stimulating effect upon business.

The "soldiers' bloc" of the House, urging the plan, now has 92 signatures to a petition to force consideration of bills to this end by the Ways and Means Committee. A renewed effort will be made to add others to the movement when Congress reconvenes.

GARNER URGES OPTION

Garner, in a formal statement, urged the cash payment be made optional, and expressed the opinion that not over 60 per cent of the veterans would abandon their 20-year insurance certificate for payment in cash. He said:

"I believe that not over a billion dollars, in addition to funds now in the hands of the Veterans' Bureau, would be required to provide for those who would immediately avail themselves of this program.

"The Treasury is borrowing money at one and three fourths to one and seven-eighths per cent. I doubt if the Treasury ever again will be able to obtain money at such a low rate for the discharge of this obligation to the World War veterans."

FAVORS ORIGINAL RATE

Garner suggested the original settlement value, $1 a day for service in the United States and $1.25 for service abroad, be paid the veterans, together with interest at the rate of 4 per cent. Veterans now forced to borrow on their certificates at 6 per cent interest should be reimbursed to the extent of the difference between a 4 and 6 per cent rate, he said.

JUDGE HOLDS STRIFE ENDS MARRIAGE

Reno Jurist Deems It Futile To Attempt to Prolong Unions Despite Discord

An interview with Judge George A. Bartlett, of Reno, Nev., another of a series in an unusual discussion of divorce laws, is published today. It presents his own views, formulated from his experiences in 11 years on the District Court bench of Nevada.

By JUDGE G. A. BARLETT.

I have spent 11 years listening to the stories of unhappy men and women. The one conclusion I have been able to form definitely is that when love ends, marriage ends.

The law, at its best, cannot do much in that situation. All it can offer is an opportunity to make a new start. It cannot insure happiness, even then.

Of course, I am frequently criticised. That is to be expected. Long ago, however, I made up my mind not to follow precedents, but to make them. All I hope is that other judges will follow on in an effort to relieve people from their unhappy unions.

CAN'T PROLONG UNIONS

No court can keep two persons together if they do not care for each other. And I do not believe any court should try to. Discord, which makes either party to a marriage contract unhappy, should suffice to end that contract.

When I encounter, as I do, one party to a marriage contract who insists upon trying to force the other party to continue in the bond of marriage I try to point out to them that a power higher than the court has already dissolved that marriage. They may call it God, call it fate, call it circumstance—it does not matter by what name it is known. All that I can possibly hope to do for them both is give each an opportunity to find happiness under the law.

CONDEMNS SEPARATIONS

I have no patience with these decrees of so-called separate maintenance. A man and a woman living under such a decree are neither free nor are they united. Misery and immorality can only follow. That, to my mind, is a miscarriage of justice, the same as is the doctrine that when both parties are guilty of misconduct, no decree shall be granted. That is damnable. It ties two mismated and unhappy persons together without comfort and without hope.

All marriages are trial marriages. And most of them end happily. Human happiness is the most precious thing in the world and its reservation requires something better than unyielding doctrines and inhuman standards.

CAUSE OF IMMORALITY

Marriage in which either the husband or the wife finds only frustration and discontent, with no possible escape because of stupid laws, is one of the greatest causes of immorality in the country. The law is still inclined to treat love and affection and loyalty as property. It will never work. People today are becoming too intelligent to accept any such an idea.

The law must advance in these matters, or be condemned to utter contempt by all thinking people.

NEW FIRM LOW ON GARBAGE BID

Competition in the city garbage and rubbish removal contracts appeared today when bids were opened for removal of waste matter in 1931.

The Modern Service Company, a new concern, underbid the Allegheny Garbage Company and the American Reduction Company, both under the same management.

According to Attorney C. B. Prichard, secretary-treasurer of the new concern, it is capitalized at $1,000,000, and if awarded the two city contracts, will be ready for business on January 1. C. A. Bardolph, president of the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, is president, and F. LeMoyne Page, vice president.

Controller J. P. Kerr and Dr. Maits, of the Department of h opened the bids.

the North Side, the Alle- Garbage Company bid a ton for the removal of garbage and $7.82 a ton for rubbish. The Modern Service Company bid $6.49 for garbage and $7.44 for rubbish.

For the city, as embraced in the old property lines, the Modern Service Company bid $6.21 for garbage and $7.42 for rubbish. The bids of the American Reduction Company were $6.58 a ton for garbage and $7.82 for rubbish. The bids of the new company were for a three-year period. The others were for one, two or three years.

posts on the property and destroyed the mechanism of four pumps.

Attaches of the station told police and firemen the automobile which hit the exploding pump was driven away before the driver's identity could be learned. Gasoline was spilled, and a spark from the auto exhaust was blamed for the blast.

Fire spread rapidly to the other tanks, and then to the service station itself.

HOME DESTROYED

Five companies from Natrona, Natrona Heights, and Brackenridge battled flames which destroyed a two-story frame structure in Outlook street, West Natrona, early today.

A Christmas party was in progress in the headquarters of the Young Men's Club, occupying the the first floor, when the fire was discovered, and guests were compelled to flee.

The family occupying the second floor as living apartments was away from home.

The fire started on the second floor, according to police, who estimated damage at $10,000.

RADIO STORE BURNED

Fire early yesterday in the Feigenbaum Radio Store, 5818 Forward avenue, resulted in a loss of $20,000, firemen said. The cause was undetermined.

Fire in a two-story frame building at 6409 Frankstown avenue, occupied by the clothing store of Morris Hershman, who lived above, damaged the building and store $2,000. The fire started in the rear of the store while Hershman and his family were absent.

Fire starting in the basement of a two-story brick building at 3347 Parkview avenue damaged the building and contents $1,500. The first floor was occupied by Dr. Thomas Birris and his wife, and the second by Daniel Pappas, his wife and two children.

Weather Conditions.

A disturbance appears over Eastern Tennessee and extends northward to the St. Lawrence Valley, and another is centered over Manitoba. High barometer lies off the Middle Atlantic Coast, the southern plains and over the plateau section. The eastern disturbance is producing cloudy weather over most of the eastern half of the country and rain or snow over much the greater portion east of the Mississippi. The rains were light except over Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky, where moderately heavy rain or snow fell. Temperatures are generally above normal.

River Conditions.

The rivers are at tionary and mostly frozen above Pittsburgh. Stage at Pittsburgh is 9.8 feet; Dam No. 4, 9.0; Dam No. 6, 7.5, and Dam No. 12, 4.2.

RED 'PLOT' SEEN IN BANK RUNS

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The State Banking Department announced it had traced to Communist sources a run of 1,000 depositors on a bank last Saturday, the run being stopped only by the prompt intervention of Joseph A. Broderick, State Superintendent of Banks.

The name of the bank or its location was not disclosed.

Some officials believed there might be a connection between Communist rumor mongers and some brokers engaged in short selling operations on bank stocks. This, the officials said, would be in line with the rumored Communistic campaign to disorganize the country's financial structure.

Silver Gray Fox Abandons Freedom

FREEPORT, Me., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A silver gray fox, valued at $1,000, has had his taste of wild life in the great open spaces and doesn't like it.

The animal disappeared from the fox farm of Henry Moreshead a week ago. Yesterday it was found in the fox yard.

Orange Groves Hit By Christmas Frost

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The United States Weather Bureau reported today unheated orange groves of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys were badly damaged last night by frost.

20 CLERGYMEN FRAUD VICTIMS

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Twenty clergymen were defrauded of $150,000, the United States district attorney's office charged today, by a company whose officers were indicted last week for mail fraud.

Among the clergymen listed were the Rev. Anthony Schaeffer, pastor of a Catholic church at Clay Center, Kan.; the Rev. E. Zapf, Lutheran pastor of Chicago, and the Rev. M. F. Cowle, of Darby, Pa.

Clark W. Parker, 68, a trustee of the Church of the Strangers in New York and alleged head of the promotion scheme, was indicted with his son and 15 others last week by a federal grand jury in connection with sale of stock in the Automotive Royalties Corporation. Assistant Federal Attorney Tompkins declared that the corporation dealt in an automobile invention described by the promoters as "marvelous," and that in 1929 gross stock sales were $36,698,000.

Corn Borer Pest Reduced in State

HARRISBURG, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania is the only state infested with the European corn borer which has been able to show a reduction in the rate of infestation between 1925 and 1930, Secretary of Agriculture C. G. Jordan said today in his report to Gov. Fisher. The average number of horers per 100 plants in the infested areas was reduced to 0.68 in 1930, as compared with 1.19 in 1925, and a maximum of 5.49 in 1927.

3 Failed Kentucky Banks' Heads Sued

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Margaret W. Long, of Boston, and her trustee, George W. Cushing, filed suit in Federal District Court here today against directors of the Bancokentucky Company, the National Bank of Kentucky and the Louisville Trust Company demanding $4,100,000 damages and charging fraud.

Recapture Convict Free for 3 Months

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Riley Varney, fugitive from the state penitentiary, was captured today by state police at his home on Pigeon Creek. Varney escaped from the penitentiary in August after serving about two months of his sentence.

Hurley Hats Run From 'Toppers' to War Bonnets

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Sombreros from Texas, derbies from London, fedoras from Italy and silk hats from Fifth avenue hang side by side on the hatrack of the Secretary of War.

Each week he adds at least one new hat to his extensive collection, which includes several Indian bonnets.

The War Secretary chooses his headgear each morning from a row of nearly a dozen hats at the door of his home. On several occasions guests there thought the row indicated a large number of other guests were present, only to find that each hat had the initials "P. J. H." in the band.

AWAIT DECISION BY MANSFIELD

State Senator W. D. Mansfield, who has been rumored as Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot's candidate for president pro tempore of the Senate, probably will make a statement of his position today.

State Senator Frank J. Harris, after making his announcement Wednesday that he is for Senator Mansfield, was asked:

"Does this mean that if Senator Mansfield is not a candidate you are for any candidate who will have Pinchot's backing?"

Harris replied:

"It does not. It means that I am for Mansfield."

That Pinchot's battle against Augusts F. Daix, Jr., is going to be a close fight is admitted by political observers on both sides.

The date for the caucuses of the Senate and the House was announced in Harrisburg today by Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican State Committee. The House caucus will be held Monday evening, January 5, at 8:30 o'clock, while the Senate will meet at 9.

Business Good, Bank Pays 2nd Dividend

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Because its business in the last six months was so far ahead of the usual, the First National Bank of Middletown today declared a second extra dividend of 1 per cent on its stock, and will pay a total of 4 per cent on January 1. The bank also announced that its surplus increased $25,000 in the period.

Church Association Meets in Reading

READING, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The twenty-ninth annual 10-day convention of the Inter-denominational Holiness Association will open in Ebenezer Evangelical Church here tonight. It will continue until Sunday, January 4.

City Uses Woodpile To Aid Jobless

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Independence opened a municipal woodpile today as an unemployment relief measure. The project was financed by receipts from a charity football game.

Of the 29 men who appeared for work this morning, five arrived in their automobiles.

Suspect in Cheating Of Girl Arrested

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Thomas Welsh was under arrest here today in connection with the mulcting of $300 from Anna Malone last November 25, by a trio who posed as federal prohibition agents.

Miss Malone identified Welsh, Tony Alexander, charged with being one of the trio, is under $1,000 bail and the third man is believed to have been Dominick Logan, former Mt. Carmel pugilist who was killed recently in Columbia, Pa.

Parkersburg 'Y' Executive Dies

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Elliott Harvey, former president of the Parkersburg Young Men's Christian Association, died today from pneumonia. During the World War Harvey served as a Y. M. C. A. worker with the Italian army and was decorated for bravery by the Italian government.

Truck Driver Flees After Killing Man

Greensburg Store Robbed of $795

Deutschland Sails With Diekema's Body

CHERBOURG, France, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The liner Deutschland, bearing the body of Gerrit John Diekema, late United States minister to The Netherlands, sailed today for New York. Mrs. Diekema was a passenger aboard the liner, which is due in New York on January 1.

Caterpillar Club Gains 141 New Members

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The most exclusive club in the air—the Caterpillars—which has neither officers nor dues, has gained 141 new members in the 13 months since November, 1929.

Records compiled by the New York Sun from Army data list 326 fliers who, when danger threatened, took to their silken parachutes and floated safely to earth from unmanageable or fuelless airplanes.

Charles A. Lindbergh is a pioneer member. He jumped to safety from an unmanageable mail plane months before he flew to Paris.

Judge Seeking Chicago Mayoralty as Gang Foe

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, dreaded foe of gangdom, today opened his campaign as a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor.

In a statement announcing his candidacy, Judge Lyle pledged himself to a "finished fight on gangland." The anti-crime crusader promised to complete as mayor the campaign he started as a municipal judge against racketeers, gunmen and gangsters.

Judge Lyle will oppose Mayor William Hale Thompson and Charles V. Barrett in the race for world's fair mayor of 1933. The judge declared:

"I am absolutely certain that organized crime can be reduced to a minimum and gangsters driven out of Chicago. The mayor is the key to the solution of the crime problem. Such hoodlums as Capone and his underworld semi-political criminal allies should be totally annihilated."

Holidays Promote World Amity, Coolidge Writes

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 26.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

Customs occasionally survive their usefulness but not for long. When they cease to contribute to human welfare in some way they will be discarded. If an institution prevails over a long series of years, the conclusion is inescapable that it is a benefit to humanity.

Calvin Coolidge

We can safely apply this principle to the holiday season. The reason that it continues with undiminished virility is not only because of its religious significance but because the human race feels the need of its elevating and soul-satisfying activities. The holiday season is a great moral power in our lives. It makes better men and women in the world.

While it would be destructive to attempt to live in holiday fashion all the time, we always need more of the spirit of good cheer and good will. If we could probe deep enough into the hearts of men we should find that the present difficulties in the world are not material but spiritual. A surplus of avarice and hate has been produced when the nations needed more forbearance and generosity. The holidays are helping each of us to supply some of this universal demand.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

BURMA RIOTERS KILL POLICE

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Protracted rioting broke out today at Weyma in the Tharawaddy district of Upper Burma, India, where rebellious villagers murdered Fields Clark, a government engineer, and battled military police.

Central News dispatches from Rangoon reported four military police killed in the clash and many wounded. The rebels were driven into the hills with severe losses, the dispatches said.

The government is rushing reinforcements.

Trouble has been brewing in the Tharawaddy sector for some time, with native opposition to tax levies becoming daily more pronounced.

50 Horses Guests At Christmas Luncheon

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Fifty horses were invited guests at high noon yesterday at a Christmas tree party and luncheon.

George R. Sousa, Augusta's humane officer, sent out invitations several days ago to the horses of the community to come and enjoy his Christmas party. Fifty accepted.

It was a self service affair, each horse taking his own nose bag filled with oats, corn and hay from the tree. It was pretty tough not to be permitted to nibble from the tree, but the guests stood the ordeal well.

Many of the owners who brought their animals to the luncheon themselves had found the matter of eating recently a problem, but other provisions had been made for them and they too enjoyed a full meal with all the holiday fixin's.

DOHERTY DEBUT HOLDS CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Washing of silk hats and ermine wraps, jewels, and diplomatic decorations prepared today for a night-after-Christmas event of rare proportions even in the cosmopolitan capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, of New York, will present to society their daughter, Miss Helen Lee Eames Doherty, at a ball stupendous in its size and lavishness of arrangements.

New York's 400, coming by special train, and Washington's highest officialdom will join in the holiday festivity for Miss Doherty. Vice President Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and the Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley head a guest list numbering almost a thousand.

For the debut, Mr. and Mrs. Doherty have taken over the entire first floor of the Mayflower Hotel with its several large ballrooms. A small army of waiters, cooks, caterers, decorators, and furniture movers have been employed.

LITTLE HOOVERS SEE SANTA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(Universal)—Peggy Ann and Herbert III, grandchildren of the President and Mrs. Hoover, were tucked in their tiny beds last night firmly convinced there is a Santa Claus.

Jolly Saint Nicholas himself, his eyes twinkling above his red cheeks, had come out of the White House fire-place. He had called Peggy Ann and Herbert III, by name, had given them presents galore, and then had mysteriously vanished.

When the President and Mrs. Hoover came down to breakfast their two grandchildren came with them. Little Joan, still under a year old, was brought down by a nurse and placed in a crib in the state dining room. Just as they had finished eating there was a jingle of bells and Santa himself came out of the chimney, heavily laden with a bag. He was just about the size of one of Mr. Hoover's secretaries.

Citizens to Arm In Los Angeles Crime Orgy

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Following a Christmas carnival of crime unparalleled in the city's history, District Attorney Buron Fitts today launched a vigorous war on gangsters, holdup men and petty crooks.

If necessary there will be a return of "frontier law" here with groups of armed citizens recruited from citizens who know how to shoot straight and fast, the officers indicated.

ITALIANS READY TO SPAN OCEAN

BOLAMA, Portugese Guinea, West Africa, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A fleet of 14 Italian seaplanes reposed on the calm Atlantic waters here today ready for their great adventure.

As soon as all preparations are made and weather conditions are right, 12 of the planes will strike out across the open ocean for Natal, Brazil, on the first trans-Atlantic flight of such a large air squadron. From Natal they will fly to Rio de Janeiro and possibly to Buenos Aires.

The distance of about 1,800 miles is to be patrolled by a number of Italian destroyers and other naval vessels which will be ready to race for any locality where one of the planes' wireless may indicate the ship is coming down.

The planes flew here yesterday from Villa Cisneros, Rio de Oro, arriving at 4:30 p. m., local time. The take-off for Natal is not expected until next week.

JOHNNY JONES, SHOWMAN, DIES

DELAND, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Death came to Johnny J. Jones while Christmas light twinkled, removing from the midway one of its best known impresarios.

The carnival man died while his show folk celebrated the holiday before their annual swing around the country. He had been in ill health a long time, but was forced to his bed only last Tuesday. He died of euremia.

Born at Arnot, Pa., 56 years ago, Jones had been a showman 35 years, the last 27 of which he had owned his own carnival, known as the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows. This city has been its winter quarters five years.

He came from a family of circus folk, 14 brothers and sisters. Only three sisters survive, besides his widow and a son, Johnny J. Jones, Jr. Funeral services will be held here Sunday.

BOYS DISCOVER FLEAGLE GOLD

HOLLISTER, Mo., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—School boys near here have been playing marbles with gold nuggets. Authorities believe the nuggets were found near the home of Jake Fleagle, western bandit, who was shot to death at Brandon, Mo., several months ago.

The boys refused to divulge the location of their cache. Clyde Chapman, a railroad station agent here, said his son was one of those who found the nuggets. A test proved the nuggets were gold.

At the time Fleagle was killed by officers, there was much speculation here as to a cache in which it was believed he had hidden loot taken in a number of robberies.

Chapman said there was as much as a double handful of the nuggets in possession of the boys.

BANDITS ROB PAWNSHOP

dits shortly after he opened his store at 717 Island avenue, East Carnegie, early today, Fred Haufnagle, grocery store proprietor, was held up and robbed of $1,250.

Following the robbery, Haufnagle was backed into the cellar of the store and locked in, where he was found a short time later by his small daughter.

Two Negroes were arrested after a chase of several blocks by Police Lieut. James Hoban and Patrolman Frank Getty, who, they said, witnessed the Negroes attempting to hold up Isadore Forecrein, of 1798 Cliff street, in Bedford avenue near Manila street. They gave their names as Will Gibson, 25, of Miller street, and Walter Broadway, 30, of Hazel street.

Three armed men held up H. W. Rose in his grocery at 809 Lincoln avenue and robbed him of $15. A short time later three men held up the drug store of W. H. Bittner, Warrington and Beltzhoover avenues, and robbed the cash register of $50.

An armed man held up the Standard Gas Company station at 3500 Bigelow boulevard and robbed the cash register of $30.

11 BREWERIES LOSE PERMITS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Samuel O. Wynne, industrial alcohol permit supervisor for New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, said today that out of 48 breweries operating in the district this year he would grant 35 permits for 1931 and disapprove 11. Two applications were pending.

Of 36 breweries in Pennsylvania applications of 31 will be approved, four will not be approved and one is pending.

All of the plants are required to apply for new permits for 1931. The breweries whose permits will not be renewed may appeal to Wynne and then to the courts. The supervisor said he could not give their names and locations.

SLEET TIES UP BUS TRAFFIC

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Motor bus transportation in highways of Central West Virginia was tied up completely for several hours this morning because of ice, sleet and rain that made roads slippery and dangerous. All schedules were reported delayed and some were canceled for a time.

The Salem bus leaving here at 6 a. m., slid into a ditch on the West Side tunnel hill and remained there several hours. No one was hurt. Other buses were reported stalled and abandoned. A Pittsburgh bus of the West Virginia Transportation Company could not climb a hill at Gypsy and special chains were taken from Clarksburg so that it might continue slowly on its way.

The ice was thawing under rain at noon, but the roads still were slippery. Many motorists experienced difficulties, but no injuries were reported.

CLARK ORDERS RADIO SURVEY

Public Safety Director James M. Clark today let a contract to the Radio Corporation of America for a field survey preparatory to installing a police radio system for apprehension of criminals.

The company will erect a temporary broadcasting station in the Mt. Washington Police Station and test sending messages to several cars equipped with receiving sets as they cruise through city streets. The test will require two weeks, Clark said.

The cost is not to exceed $800.

Experts have agreed that Mt. Washington is the best site for the broadcast, but Clark wishes to be certain before installing a permanent station, he asserted.

THEATER MAN'S MOTHER DIES

Mrs. Sarah F. Bodkin, 85, mother of Thomas V. Bodkin, New York theatrical man and former boxing promoter, died early this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James E. Elliott, 260 Shaler street, Duquesne Heights.

She was born in Galway, Ireland, and came to America at the age of 22. She married Patrick J. Bodkin, who died in 1897. She was a member of St. Mary's on the Mount Roman Catholic Church. She leaves five sons, Mr. Bodkin of New York, Patrick J., Lawrence J., Stephen A. and D. A. Bodkin, all of Pittsburgh; one daughter, Mrs. Elliott, and six grandchildren.

Admiral Campbell Leaves Canal Zone

Sugar Fire Causes $800,000 Damage

TRACY, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Fire last night swept through a warehouse of the Holly Sugar Company here, containing 160,000 sacks of sugar. Company officials estimated the loss at $800,000.

Pair Smothered As House Burns

MANSFIELD, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. John Schrink, of this place, were smothered to death early today by a fire which destroyed their home. Firemen believed that the fire awakened Schrink and that he went to the kitchen either to give an alarm or to obtain water with which to extinguish the flames when he was overcome by smoke and later succumbed before the firemen arrived.

New York's Orchid Bill Tops $100,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—New York's Christmas bill for orchids was $100,000.

Twenty-five thousand of the fragile blossoms were sold by florists and last-minute prices in some shops went to $12 an orchid.

Governor Wounded in Spain Revolt Dies

HUESCA, Spain, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Gen. Manuel Las Heras, the military governor of Jaca, died today of wounds received in fighting the recent mutiny here. He was 50 years old.

Nurse Finds Dying Patient Her Mother

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Miss Charlotte Gay, 18-year-old student nurse, had to work Christmas Day. A doctor said:

"Another automobile accident. Hand me those bandages, Miss Gay."

As the nurse reached for the bandages she looked at the patient. It was her mother. An hour later Mrs. Henrietta Gay, 48, died in her daughter's arms.

Escaped Slayer Hunted in Texas

SALEM, N. J., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Information that Charles Fithian, convicted murderer who escaped from jail here Monday, may be in Texas, has been received by authorities from a former jailmate of the man.

Fithian is 24. He and Peter Giordana, 21, were sentenced to death for the murder of William MacCausland, paymaster at the Salem Glass Works. He escaped six hours after sentence of death had been passed upon him, climbing through a ventilator and over the roof of the jail.

Still Hopeful For Showboat

Capt. W. J. Menke was still hopeful today that the curtain will rise on his showboat, Goldenrod, tied up on the Allegheny river wharf at the foot of Stanwix street.

Scheduled to have opened last week, the boat has faced complications in getting a city permit approved by both Mayor Charles H. Kline and Director Edward G. Lang. Application of city laws regulating theaters and not applicable to showboats has caused delays, Capt. Menke related.

He expects to visit city officials tomorrow, however, in another quest for a city permit.

Child's Slayer and 4 Escape

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Five prisoners, including J. H. Parker, awaiting execution for the murder of his small child, escaped from Ware County Jail here today by sawing bars in their cells and jumping from a second-story window.

A sheriff's posse had found no trace of the fugitives at noon.

Parker's wife and baby were found buried in a field near his home several months ago. He was tried on a charge of murdering the child and was convicted and sentenced to die in the electric chair January 9, 1931. The charge of killing his wife has not come to trial.

Lindbergh Notes Strides Made by Aviation

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Aviation has come a long way since a young fellow from Missouri took off from Roosevelt Field four years ago next May and flew to Paris, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh believes.

The world's best known flier talked today of aviation as it was five years ago and as it is now; of low wings and high wings; of engines and speed and radio—topics that are the very breath of life to him.

He said this:

"We have had more progress in the development of aircraft in the last five years than could have been foreseen at that time.

"In 1925 a good cruising speed was 90 miles an hour. Today we have planes of the same class with cruising speeds as high as 140 miles an hour. The air mail De Havilands we used in 1925 had a carrying capacity of about 400 pounds. Planes today of the same horsepower cruise at least 20 miles an hour faster and carry from three to four times that load."

Col. Lindbergh has no particular flying plans for the new year. He said he does not expect to attempt this winter an air tour of South America—a flight he has long had in mind.

In the course of this fanning bee on aviation Col. Lindbergh revealed that his Princeton, N. J., farm and its "landing field" have become rather widely and inaccurately known, especially the field, which is being termed an airport.

That's rather a flossy reputation, he thought, for a cow pasture where an airplane can land, but which in no sense of the word is an "airport" or an aviation field.

Sift Youth's Death At Home of Girl

COMPTON, Cal., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—An investigation into the death of Loren Wilcox, 28, who came to California a month ago from Columbus, O., was being made today.

Wilcox was found dead on the front porch of the home of his asserted sweetheart, Miss Marjorie Daniels, 19. A revolver was found near his body. Although it is believed Wilcox committed suicide, authorities were questioning Miss Daniels and her relatives.

Edward K. Bottle, Book Inventor, Dies

ELMIRA, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Edward K. Bottle, 64, inventor of sales book specialties and a stockholder in the American Salesbook Company of Niagara Falls, died late last night of a heart attack.

ANTI-DRYS HIT HOOVER VIEWS ON CRIME

Association Insists U. S. Court Congestion Due Entirely to Prohibition

By FULTON LEWIS.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Citing President Hoover's assertion that "only a small part" of the present flood of felonies can be traced to prohibition as "misinformation," the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment today charged that "the congestion in federal courts is due solely to prohibition."

In an exhaustive treatise on the subject of prohibition's effect on courts and prisons, the association said:

"Eighty-eight per cent of those sentenced in the Federal courts for violation of the prohibition laws are put in the class of misdemeanants, and not felons.

"It would be just as sensible to try to estimate the number of murders in the United States by looking for them in the records of convictions for misdemeanors."

POLICY OF COURTS

The treatise pointed out that the practice in Federal courts is to send only those persons to state prisons and penitentiaries who have committed felonies, and under the Federal penal code only persons sentenced to more than a year are considered felony prisoners. The report said:

"Therefore the number of persons sent to state and Federal prisons and penitentiaries is only a small proportion of the number of persons sentenced for violation of liquor laws."

A much truer key to the situation appears in the records of criminal courts, it was stated, which show that more than four times as many criminal cases were terminated in the Federal courts in 1929 as in 1916. Because of this increase, it is stated, five Federal prisons now hold nearly twice as many prisoners as they were designed to accommodate.

INCREASES COMPARED

That this increase in criminal cases is almost entirely due to prohibition is shown, the report said, by the fact that the increase in normal cases from 1926 to 1929 was only 3.9 per cent, against a total 51 per cent increase. The report added:

"Prohibition cases now account for two-thirds of all criminal cases in the Federal courts and are almost solely responsible for the crowding of Federal court calendars.

"In the first year of prohibition only 5,095 such cases were tried in Federal courts, while 56,455 were heard in 1929.

"Civil prohibition cases—padlock injunctions, liquor confiscations, and the like—have increased from 92 in 1920 to 12,938 in 1929."

COST ESTIMATES

The reports said reliable estimates place the cost of adequate prohibition enforcement at $100,000,000 a year, provided jury trials could be entirely eliminated in all cases.

With jury trials, however, the cost would be $350,000,000,000, it was stated. This estimate includes the entire Federal enforcement program except expenditures of coast guard and customs service, which would be roughly an additional $20,000,000.

2 BOYS SAVED FROM TAR PIT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Trapped for hours in a natural tar pit in the Baldwin Hills, Southwest Los Angeles, two small boys were saved from suffocation when the searchlight of a passing electric railway train disclosed their heads and shoulders protruding from the blackness.

The two boys, Buster, 5, and Jackie Loowe, 3, sons of John Loowe, had been presented with a tricycle for Christmas. They ran off the south end of Hauser boulevard into the pit.

Shortly before midnight Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Boyd heard faint cries. They looked around them but could see nothing. As they were on the verge of continuing on their way home, an electric train rounded a curve, its big headlight flashing over the pits. Two terror-stricken faces were bathed in light for only an instant but Boyd and his wife saw them. Buster and Jackie were dragged from the pit and taken to a hospital.

2 Held After Man Is Killed by Auto

FREDERICKTOWN, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Thomas Watkins, 42, of Vesta Heights, was struck and killed by an automobile on State Route No. 88 near here.

Constable Fred Anderson later arrested Melvin Carter, 19, and Robert Ray, 19, both of Clarksville, and charged them with violating the traffic laws. The officer said he found the bumper of their car near the spot where Watkins' body was found.

Two Men Arrested In Razor Slaying

FREDERICKTOWN, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Herman Cover, 45, was cut to death with a razor during a quarrel in a rooming house. Constable Fred Anderson arrested Tony Faggli, 45, Loraine Pierrpi, 41, and Louie Micheli, 42, owner of the rooming house. One of Pierrrpi's fingers was cut off. Officers said that Faggli did the cutting. No charges have been placed against the trio.

MRS. HEARST'S PARTY THRILLS CHILDREN

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Of course they aren't exactly glad they are crippled, but more than 1,000 of New York's crippled children were happy to find that their crutches and braces and wheel chairs had the magic power to open the doors of a gorgeous theater and give them admittance to one of the best Christmas parties in town.

It was Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's annual Christmas theater party for crippled children, given this year at the Hollywood Theater. Theater and program were loaned by the Warner Brothers, who for more than a dozen years have co-operated with Mrs. Hearst in her annual pleasure-planning for cripples.

BUSES CARRY GUESTS

It was a lovely party. Six buses called at the various institutions for the little cripples. The ride in itself was an adventure, as the children seldom get to ride anywhere. The buses were marked "special" and the drivers were especially picked and were especially kind to the happy children on their way to a special party.

The picture was also special. It was Marilyn Miller in "Sunny"—the first New York showing.

The children appreciated every bit of the gay, laughing picture. They laughed with it, often and out loud, not missing the point of a single situation. And they quite fell in love with Marilyn.

TOYS DISTRIBUTED

In addition to the feature picture, there was a Universal News weekly, "Congo Jazz," a Looney Tunes animated cartoon, a Robert Ripley "Believe It or Not" novelty, and the Vitaphone kiddies in "Showing Off."

On the buses and back in the hospitals a generous supply of toys was distributed among the children—dolls, sewing kits, and toy furniture to the girls; baseballs, harmonicas, guns and toy cannons to the boys.

POOR CHILDREN FIND 'SANTA'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—(Universal.)—Their arms loaded down with Christmas cheer, hundreds of Los Angeles boys and girls whom Santa Claus appeared to have overlooked earlier in the day, gathered around the Examiner's huge Christmas tree at Washington and Hill streets.

They passed smilingly in a long line, receiving candy, ice cream and toys from a dozen volunteer St. Nicks. Tons of candy and thousands of ice cream cartons were opened as the line grew longer. Uniformed police officers and passing motorists pitched in willingly to hasten the distribution of Christmas joy among the youngsters.

For the boys there were baseball and football equipment, games and trumpets, for the girls there were dolls—rag dolls and big mamma dolls—skipping ropes and baby carriages.

It was estimated that more than 3,000 children had partaken in the Examiner's twentieth annual Christmas party.

COTTON TRADE ACTS TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

Institute Head Sees Hopeful Future After Overhauling Of Industry's Methods

By W. S. COUSINS.
Financial Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 26. — Decided progress was made this year in dealing with the cotton textile industry's problems, and constructive forces are at work in the industry to a greater extent that at any time since the late war,

George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., in thus presenting for International News Service today the platform of anticipated improvement in the cotton goods trade, points out that the industry has "undergone a general overhauling in fundamentals and this, coupled with the increasing tendency of mill executives to avoid overproduction, affords a basis for reasonable confidence in the future."

MILLS SEEK BALANCE

Mr. Sloan said:

"The mills have shown a determined evidence of willingness and ability to balance production with demand. Latest available date show, first, mill inventories of cotton gray goods 25 per cent lower than at the close of 1929, and lower than at the close of 1926; and second, the aggregate of both sales and shipments exceeded production during the first 11 months of 1930.

"That inventories were reduced under the difficult conditions in 1930 is proof of the discrimination with which mill executives are interpreting the statistical reports and is an indication of the increasing degree of sound merchandising manifest in the industry.

"Likewise mill executives are devoting greater attention to the subject of cost procedure as a guide to intelligent sales policies. Indeed at its present rate of improvement this should soon become one of the outstanding industries with respect to cost methods."

NIGHT WORK QUESTION

Mr. Sloan said the question of discontinuing night employment of women and children is receiving special attention at the year-end. Already, he said, Mills representing 22,600,000 spindles, or 72 per cent of the industry have announced their purpose to discontinue night employment of women and of minors under 18 years of age before March 1, 1931. He continued:

"This night work proposal was a sequel to another recommendation submitted to the industry last February, when a group of 19 leading mill executives undertook to promote greater uniformity in running time by discouraging long working hours.

"Wide fluctuation in the rate of production and employment has been the source of ever recurring distress in many mill villages. Thus early in the year there developed a general recognition and observance of the principle that the maximum running time for labor and machinery should not exceed 55 hours for the day shift and 50 hours for the night shift where employed. Significance of this recommendation is appreciated more fully in mill centers accustomed previously to aggregate day and night operations ranging from 110 to 138 hours weekly.

SEEK LARGER EXPORT

"Efforts to enlarge export markets were undertaken during 1930 through the formation of the Textile Export Association of the United States. New facilities for arbitration among important groups are being developed through the organization of the general arbitration council of the textile industry. Moreover, 1930 saw new impetus given to research activities through the organization of the textile foundation by the government in collaboration with the various branches of the industry.

"The present demand for cotton yarn and fabrics leaves much to be desired, although such a condition can only be temporary with an industry whose products are indispensable to modern civilization. Nevertheless, there are a number of bright features in the present market situation especially in respect to the sustained demand for styled cottons.

ADVERTISING HELPS

"Trade and consumer advertising in 1930 helped to maintain a nation-wide interest in the fashion importance of cotton. Increased activity along national advertising lines in being strongly advocated by the Cotton Textile Institute for 1931.

"The cotton textile industry of the United States has undergone a general overhauling in fundamentals during 1930 and this, coupled with the increasing tendency of mill executives to avoid overproduction, affords a basis for reasonable confidence in the future."

Vanderbilt Grave Attacked by Thieves

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Police today were without a single clue to the identity of three vandays who failed in an attempt to gain entrance to the Vanderbilt mausoleum in a Staten Island cemetery. Damage done to the mausoleum as the men hammered at bronze doors in the entrance was estimated at $3,000. The structure cost $300,000.

Police believe the vandals planned to steal the coffin of Commodore Vanderbilt or one of his kin in order to extort a ransom from the Vanderbilt family.

OBITUARY

Cooper Funeral.

Funeral services for Charles C. Cooper, 56, executive director of the Kingsley Association, and former president of the National Federation of Settlements and of the University Extension Society, will be held in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church at 4 p. m. tomorrow. Interment will be in Walton, Ky. He died yesterday in Kingsley House, 220 Larimer avenue. He was born in New Orleans and began his career as a social worker in 1905 with the Union Bethel in Cincinati, and became executive director of Kingsley House five years later. He was a sponsor of the Hungry Club, and had served as its secretary since 1913. He was a member of the Shadyside church, the advisory board of the Children's Aid Society of Allegheny County, the Junta, the national council of the Foreign Policy Association; the Polygon Club, Quiz Club and Fellowship Circle. Besides his widow he leaves three sons, Benjamin, Wade and Jonathan Cooper; a daughter, Harriet Cooper; two brothers and three sisters.

William H. Weigle.

William Henry Weigle, 74, well-known furniture dealer in Homestead, died yesterday in his home at 115 Ninth avenue, that borough. He was born in Fayette County and for the last 16 years had resided in Homestead. He had been in the furniture business 13 years. Mr. Weigle was a member of Lodge No. 1043, I. O. O. F., Lodge No. 130, Knights of Pythias, Lodge No. 287, Knights of Malta, and of the First Presbyterian Church of Homestead. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Clara M. Dixon Weigle; a son, James E. GIFT OF BLOOD SAVES BOY

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A 16-year-old Rossville orphan, Edgar Chapman, lived today because of the Christmas gift of a pint of a stranger's blood.

It came in answer to a radio appeal after physicians decided that a blood transfusion alone could save his life from the effects of a difficult operation.

Hundreds answered, men and women, old and young, scores were tested and finally the blood of E. D. Milligan, 20-year-old resident of Chicago, was found satisfactory.

'Granny' in Tears Over Meeting Royalty

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Granny Peters has lived all her 77 years in the mean streets of London's East End—and her cup runneth over.

For she has met the King and Queen, had a cup of tea with the Queen and Princess Mary, shaken hands with Princess Beatrice and now she has shaken hands and had a talk with the Prince of Wales.

The Prince, visiting a settlement, saw a movie of Granny being presented to the Queen.

He said: "I'd like to meet her."

Wept Granny: "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

SPELLING TRAPS PLOT SUSPECT

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Police announced they had frustrated an attempt to extort $12,000 from R. A. Long, millionaire lumberman, and had obtained a confession from Charles Leonard Duncan, 23.

Police said Duncan demanded the money and threatened Long with death. They said Duncan was arrested near a spot where he had directed Long to leave money.

A misspelling of the word "curbing," making it "curbon," trapped the prisoner, authorities said. The word was mentioned in two letters received by Long. When Duncan was arrested he was directed to write the word, and spelled it "curbon," police said.

Picture Hunter Brings Cheer To Children

OMAHA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A department store doll made it a merry Christmas for eight motherless Omaha children.

Mae, 7 years old, was watching it longingly through a window when a newspaper photographer passed by. He snapped her picture as "a good one for Christmas" and then investigated to find that the child was numbed with the cold and dressed in rags.

Store employes found a new outfit for Mae. Then they filled a big packing box with clothing, Christmas foods and toys for the seven other brothers and sisters.

Winter Coats Regrouped

A wide choice of style, fabric and fur, in the coats for women . . . Dressy models in black, browns and blues, trimmed with krimmer, fitch, squirrel, caracul, skunk, beaver and kit fox.

$60

While most of the women's coats are in black trimmed with black fur, there are many in brown, green and shades of blue with harmonizing furs. In many cases there is just one coat of a kind.

The misses' coats include such formal fabrics as Norma, kashmirita, basha and velour du nord, with various furs.

$80

Some of our very handsome women's coats in this lot, many of them individual garments, richly furred and well-styled. A good choice of colors and black, with contrasting or matching furs.

The misses' coats at this price are chiefly one of a kind, fine coats, mostly trimmed with handsome black furs.

Another Group—Another Sale!

Alaska Seal Coats

$295

Real Alaska seal coats had always been classed as semi-prohibitive luxuries, until we created the fur sensation of the season by bringing them out at this price, in a sale last month. We sold out in less than a day, have been filling special orders ever since, and only now have been able to get a group sufficiently large for this repeat event.

This will positively be the last allotment we can get this season to sell at such a moderate price, so those who have been waiting for this announcement will certainly take it as red letter news.

As in the previous sale, each skin bears the U. S. Government stamp—firm, velvety skins which uphold the title of Alaska seal as the Aristocrat of Furs, the most enduring as well as one of the most beautiful furs. . . . Every coat is made to Horne specifications of style, matching and workmanship. All are in the new longer length, with semi-fitted silhouette and great flattering collars.

In black and lovely logwood brown . . . Sizes for women and misses, 14 to 44.

Wife Shot, Police Chief in Custody

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Elmer Butta, 35, police chief of Pringle Borough, was in custody of state police, and his wife, Alice, 27, was in serious condition in Mercy Hospital with a bullet wound through the stomach, suffered when the police chief's revolver discharged while he was placing it under a dresser. Both Mr. and Mrs. Butta declared the shooting was accidental.

Grain Firm Head Dies After Operation

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—J. C. Gage, president of Alberta Pacific Grain Company, died last night after a brief illness. Mr. Gage had rallied several times from a critical condition developing from complications after an operation for ulcers yesterday, however, he lapsed again and failed to rally.

He was 54 years old.

Johnson, Lawyer, Author, Dies at 71

ABERDEEN, N. C., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—James McNeill Johnson, lawyer, author and poet, of Aberdeen, died in a hospital here yesterday after a long illness. He was 71 years old. His literary works included "A Thousand Years of Royalty," "Free Verse and Paraphrase," and "Talleyrand and Firefly."

Gen. Pershing Visits Sister for Holidays

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Gen. John J. Pershing arrived here from Washington, D. C., to spend the Christmas holidays at home with his sister, Miss May Pershing. Gen. Pershing said he expected to return to Washington after New Year's Day. His son Warren, a student at Yale, was with him.

BIND 3 PRIESTS STEAL $2,000

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Pretending to be Christmas callers, two youths invaded the rectory of St. Adalbert's Catholic Church last night, bound three priests and forced a fourth to give them $2,000 taken in offerings at services yesterday and Sunday.

After taking the money, they ordered the Rev. C. I. Gronkowski, the pastor, to sit down, gave him a cigar, lit it for him, and said:

"Now, stay here a few minutes until we're gone."

The priest said he was chatting with two friends from neighboring parishes and the Rev. Joseph Birda, Jesuit missionary from Toledo, O., when the front doorbell rang. The maid ushered in the men, both of whom were well dressed. They drew revolvers, and bound the three priests. Then one of them compelled Father Gronkowski to enter his office, open a vault where the money was kept, and hand it over. The priest called police five minutes after the pair had left.

SOVIET FACING MONEY CRISIS

WARSAW, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—A serious financial crisis caused by the creeping inflation of Soviet currency has caused acute alarm among Moscow government officials, it was indicated today in reports from the capital of Russia.

Warsaw newspapers quoted Isvesta, the official government organ, as admitting the inflation crisis.

It was reported that the salaries of government administration officials and those of scientific institutions had remained unpaid for the last two months, with all industrial investments halted.

The government, according to the reports, was advocating the "three ruble theory," giving the workers' money a higher purchasing power than that attached to rubles held either by peasants or officials. It was feared, however, that this would intensify the growing antagonism developing between the rural and urban centers.

LAUNCH UPSETS, THREE MISSING

SAUSALITO, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Three men were believed to have drowned here late last night when a launch capsized, throwing its 13 occupants into the cold waters of Richardson's Bay. Ten were rescued by a ferry's life boats.

The party was on its way from Sausalito to the yacht Janidore, owned by Isadore Zellerbach, San Francisco capitalist. Sam Bowman, a member of the Janidore's crew, was the host. All members of the party lived in Sausalito.

Authorities said the launch was overcrowded.

2 LOST FLIERS FOUND DEAD

MONTREAL, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—From the frozen hinterlands of Quebec came word that the bodies of two fliers lost since October 9, 1929, had been found.

A telegram received from J. A. D. McCurdy, president of the Curtiss-Reid Aircraft Company, from Arthur Lizotte, said Indians had returned to Roberval and reported finding the bodies of Pilot W. W. Cannon and Mechanic Leonce Lizotte north of Lake St. John. They brought with them parts of the plane's wings. The men disappeared on a flight from St. Felicien, Quebec, to Chibougamau.

Pierre Begin, a trapper, said he and companions had found the skeletons of the fliers and a quantity of merchandise. They said they would be able to guide searchers to the spot.

RUSSIA TO TRY 'KIND' COURTS

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—"Friendship courts" are the newest legal experiment of the Soviet government. These courts are to be tried in factories of the Moscow district. They will not exercise the power of fining and imprisoning "offfenders," but will be for the purpose of disciplining and reforming workers who are addicted to carelessness, inebriation, loafing and other such habits.

The economic authorities, in their battle to bring to a successful conclusion the famous five-year industrialization plan, have determined that all waste effort shall be eliminated as far as possible. Most of this waste, they have found, is due to the laxity of the undisciplined workers themselves.

Mrs. Bok's $50,000 Swells Relief Fund

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A Christmas gift of $50,000 was presented to the unemployed of Philadelphia by Mrs. Edward Bok, widow of the famous editor.

This is the largest individual gift thus far in the campaign for $5,000,000 to relieve distress among the unemployed. Announcement of the gift was made by Horatio G. Lloyd, chairman of the Committee for Unemployment Relief. This and other gifts announced today brought the total for the campaign well above $600,000.

Auto Kills Girl, 9, As She Shows Gift

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Nine-year-old Dorothy Schmidly stood on the sidewalk displaying her most cherished Christmas gift, a new dress, to several little girl friends.

Two automobiles collided. One skidded along the ice near the curb, struck the sidewalk edge and toppled over on the child, killing her.

Three Nations Plan Sea Air Mail Line

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—An Atlantic air mail service, by way of the Azores and Bermuda, is being negotiated between the Imperial Airways and American and French companies, it was learned here. The project will be undertaken jointly by the three companies sometime next summer.

Reichstag Inquiries Place Blame for War

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—In three separate reports submitted by various members of a Reichstag committee investigating the "exact" causes of the World War, responsibility was fixed on Serbia, Austria-Hungary and Russia particularly. The latter's hasty mobilization was pointed out as the fatal blunder.

Picturesque Party Given Debutante

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The most picturesque debut of the season has been that of Miss Natalie Mae Coe, granddaughter of the late Henry H. Rogers. A hotel ballroom was transformed to represent Cherokee plantation, near Charleston, S. C., old home of Mrs. W. C. Coe, the debutante's stepmother.

Fails to Find Fur Coat, Tries Suicide

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Because her husband's Christmas gift wasn't a new fur coat she had been expecting, Mrs. Aline Hall, 22, today was in a hospital here, recovering from an attempt to take her life, police said.

Mrs. Hall was taken to the hospital late yesterday after swallowing poison.

According to police, Hall had been promising his wife a Christmas surprise. Search of their apartment revealed a new fur coat, which, however, went to Mrs. Hall's mother-in-law, police said, while she received a canary bird.

Disappointed, she swallowed poison.

SMITH NAMED FOR ABILITY

The selection of E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad in charge of operations in the Central region with headquarters in Pittsburgh, as co-receiver for the Seaboard Air Line Railway Company, was a signal recognition of his executive ability and his accomplishments since coming here less than three years ago, according to talk in railroad circles.

Smith's departure December 31 to enter upon his new duties is regarded as of a temporary nature, as he has been "loaned" for his task as receiver and will be on an indefinite furlough from the Pennsylvania Railroad. His successor here is expected to be named soon.

Railroad men say that Smith, who was 45 in September, is the youngest administrative head of a major railroad in the country.

LOUISE LERCH TO SING HERE

A former Pittsburgh choir singer, Louise Lerch, now a Metropolitan Opera star, will be the soloist at the second concert of the season by the Pittsburgh Symphony Society Sunday night in Syria Mosque.

Miss Lerch

Miss Lerch is a native of Allentown, Pa., but made her place in the musical world as a soprano in Pittsburgh church choirs. It was while here that she attracted the attention of Mme. Marcella Sembrich, who trained her for opera, and she was immediately engaged by Gatti-Cazzana for the Metropolitan. Miss Lerch calls America the music center of the world after achieving triumphs before the most critical opera audiences in Europe.

New York Really Has Heart

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

him pick his teeth with a crowbar.

And it doesn't stop with Christmas. It continues right through the year.

Any person who says a big city is a cold place must have brought his own ice with him.

We must continue our unsolicited investigation of Commissioner Doran's new governmental cocktails.

It will have just the opposite effect.

It's only the bad eggs who want that stuff.

And when a law-breaker inundates his personality with garlicky whisky it's an added attraction.

He may not be saying it with flowers.

But he sure will be a walking bouquet.

Taking it all in all, or leaving it alone, which is much better, we would say that Commish Doran's plan of sinking country stores with bonded warehouses is doomed to a tasty failure.

He could drop bad eggs robust garlic, rubber boots, Chinese fireworks and motormen's gloves into alcohol.

And the boys would never notice the difference.

They would just smack their lips, sing Sweet Adeline and stagger past some very important buildings.

You can change the drink, alter the taste, but you cannot change the craving.

You can pour vinegar on the clover, acid on the honeysuckle and chloride on the rose. But the bee will get used to it.

Instead of treating the alcohol why not treat the ultimate consumer? Giving alcohol a bad taste is simply making medicine of it.

And dropping eggs into alcohol looks like the old Delmonico recipe for a rum omlet.

But to the boys who are about to become addicted to the new bonded highball all we can say is to keep cool and remain out of the hot sun.

It may have a very low fusing point.

JOHN D. CHEERS WITH DIMES

ORMOND, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP).—Spreading cheer with an abundance of shiny new dimes, John D. Rockefeller found Christmas happiness on the golf course.

A dozen or more spectators, golf professionals and attendants at the course, caddies and just about everybody he happened to see were rewarded by the aged philanthropist with the traditional dimes.

Rockefeller does not celebrate Christmas this year until Saturday night, when there will be the annual party at his home, The Casements.

Near perfect weather and the Christmas spirit, both of the players and the gallery, brought Rockefeller into a jovial mood and he halted at times, as a new face would appear, to give another of those famous dimes.

STOLEN PEARLS FOUND IN SHOP

HAVANA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Secret police have unearthed in a pawnshop a pearl necklace said to be valued at $50,000, which was stolen last year from Mrs. Catherine Davis Daws, of Glen Head, L. I., while on a visit to Havana.

The necklace originally contained 126 pearls, from which was suspended a pear-shaped diamond pendant.

After being stolen the necklace was divided into two strings, and one pearl mounted in a scarf pin, the diamond pendant has not been recovered. Both sections were stated to have been pawned for $900 by Aruro Valdes Prado, who was arrested.

HISTORIAN DIES IN TRAIN RUSH

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—J. Olin Howe, 56, historian and political economist and for many years a familiar figure in Washington, fell dead in the Christmas rush at the Grand Central Station as he was about to take a train to his ancestral home in New England.

Howe for many years was a congressional secretary in Washington, associated with the regime of Congressman George Lilley, of Connecticut. He was a well known figure at political conventions. At various times he was connected with the news bureaus of the Boston Transcript, Springfield (Mass.) Republican and the New York Tribune.

At the time of his death he was a member of the international advisory board which has just completed a collection of prints and documents recording 5,000 years of man's conquest of the air.

GRATEFUL MAN PLAYS SANTA

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—There is a Santa Claus, and to thousands in Dallas his real name is J. Rude.

Many years ago Rude left New York City, a very sick man, for Denver, where he eventually regained his health. Out of gratitude, he began holding parties on Christmas Day at his store in Dallas, to which all the city's poor and needy were invited to come for clothing.

Nearly 7,000 were given clothing yesterday, 3,000 more than last year. Barefooted boys and girls, old men and women, Mexicans, Negroes and white folks were at the store early in the morning, and the throng did not disappear until afternoon. Fifteen policemen maintained order.

2 CHILDREN DIE IN HOME BLAST

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A Christmas tragedy resulted at Montgomery, near here, from a father pouring gasoline on a kitchen fire in mistake for kerosene. The dead are: Betty Jane, 4, and her sister, Anna Louise, 6, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tilburg.

Anna Louise died almost immediately and Betty Jane succumbed several hours later in the Muncy Valley Hospital at Muncy.

The explosion interrupted a happy Christmas celebration in the home. Tilburg and his wife were badly burned, the latter as she attempted to dash through a blazing stairway with a baby in her arms.

One child was saved in grasping the trousers of a fireman who entered and thus was dragged to safety when the fireman went out. But for this act the fireman would not have known the child was there, the smoke and fumes were so dense.

DEATH, ILLNESS HITS SING SING

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Death stalked Warden Lawes' Christmas at Sing Sing prison; death and sudden illness.

During the night three of his prison keepers—John Hyland, John Wetcott and Henry Darrett—were stricken and removed to the hospital for emergency operations; the first two for appendicitis, the last for rupture.

Yesterday, after a night of worry over the illness in his official family, the warden sent the butler to the guest room to call Maurice Conway, a 70-year-old bachelor, to dinner. He thought that Conway, who has been a frequent visitor to the warden's home over a period of many years, had overslept.

Conway was found dead in bed.

PAIR FIGHT OVER GUN, MAN SLAIN

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Christmas held only tragedy for May and Anna, 7 and 4, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Yodok, of Mocanaqua. Their father was fatally wounded when a revolver for which he and his wife struggled discharged.

The dispute started when, the mother told police, her husband returned home and beat her. She said he obtained a revolver and, beliving he intended to shoot her, she struggled with him for the weapon.

Mrs. Yodok is in Nanticoke State Hospital with bruises said by her to have been inflicted by her husband before the shooting.

Gives Man Lift; Finds Car Stolen

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 26.—Robert Loar, of Bridgeport, gave a weary pedestrian a lift in his car. After a few miles he stopped to see a friend and when he came back both car and the man he had befriended were gone. Police were notified and Jason Lemasters, 35, of Coalton, was overtaken, arrested and brought to jail here charged with stealing the automobile.

Pastor Heeds Call To Williamstown

WILLIAMSTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 26.—The Rev. O. R. Hoskinson, lately pastor of the Valley Church at Parkersburg, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church here and will assume his new work January 1. He will succeed the Rev. Charles Walker.

Garment Factory To Work Full Time

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 26.—Announcement was made by the Buckhannon Garment Company, of Buckhannon, that its factory there would resume operation in full, employing 100, January 1, after being operated part time since last August, owing to poor business.

Man Surrenders In Stabbing Of Friend

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Floyd Grass, 21, of Culloden, attended the funeral of his friend amid helped to dig the grave in which the friend was laid to rest, then he came to Huntington and surrendered to Sheriff P. H. Tyre.

Thomas Howards, 21, died of stab wounds received after a party. Officers said Grass and Howards, who had been friends from boyhood, left the school and started to scuffle in the snow. Howards received knife wounds which caused his death.

After he had paid his last tribute to his friend, Grass gave himself up.

LIQUOR VESSEL SHELLED, TAKEN

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—With huge stern battered by three one-pounder shells, the British ship Audrey B., of Lahave, N. S., loaded with 2,000 cases of liquor, was brought into the local harbor, the tow off a Coast Guard patrol boat. Later she set out, towed by the destroyer Nemaha, for New York, with her crew of 10 men.

She was captured in Fort Pond Bay, at the tip of Long Island. Coast Guard officers said the vessel had been lying in the vicinity of the 12-mile limit several days. Early yesterday a Coast Guard vessel went after her. Her attempted flight was checked, officers said, when three shells were fired into her stern.

CAROL SINGERS HIT BY AUTO

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—An automobile drove headlong into a group of carol singers at Newfane, Niagara County. Six were injured severely and a number of others slightly.

The singers attended a midnight service and were marching to homes of shut-ins to continue a song service. On Burtid avenue members of the party were forced to the curb by a speeding truck. As they stepped back toward the center of the roadway, a touring car ran into them.

The severely injured are: Leon McKnight, 17; Christine Goodridge, 16; Ruth Guard, 16; Lucille Simpson, 16; Molly Collins, 16, and Gertrude Culverwell, 16.

$150,000 Damage In Canadian Fire

BRANTFORD, Ont., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Fire swept through two stores in the downtown section causing damage estimated at $150,000. Calls for assistance were sent to Hamilton and other nearby cities and a fire crew made a record run from Hamilton. Late last night the blaze was placed under control.

RCA Radiotrons"

Says
McMURDO SILVER
President
SILVER-MARSHALL, INC.

"Radio owners cannot be too often warned against careless vacuum tube buying. Exhaustive tests by our engineering staff have demonstrated that RCA Radiotrons have the quality which provides the best insurance of the fine performance built into every Silver Radio. RCA Radiotron quality and dependability safeguard against interference, weak signals, fading and other troubles caused by inferior tubes. We say to all owners of Silver Radio: 'Don't gamble with your radio enjoyment by using inferior tubes when genuine RCA Radiotrons are easy to get anywhere.'"

RADIO ENGINEERS ADVISE:

Replace all the vacuum tubes in your radio set with RCA Radiotrons at least once a year. This is the only sure way to maintain good performance and minimize disagreeable noises and other troubles caused by inferior tubes. RCA Radiotrons will give you the maximum in selectivity, sensitivity and tone quality.

WORLD RADIO FEATS ENGINEERED BY FORMER PITTSBURGHER

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

Santa Claus filled radio's Christmas stocking to the brim yesterday. We cannot recall in seven years of radio writing any single day that has been crowded with more scintillating events except the welcome given Lindy. Ringing of chimes in the old Spanish cathedral at Manila, the jargon from Japan, enchanting guitar music from Hawaii and the grand finale with London actually converted the front rooms of nations into studios.

We should be particularly proud of these feats because a Pittsburgher engineered them. Charles W. Horn, formerly of KDKA, now of the NBC operations staff, was the spirit behind the experiments.

Charley used to corner us at radio banquets and unravel yards and yards of technical language about the possibilities of broadcasting. We always came out wound up in kilocycles, rheostats and other gadgets . . . gasping for air and wondering if it would all come true. It sounded much like Jules Verne.

The first of Mr. Horn's predictions became a reality yesterday. The second, that of synchronization, the theory first advanced to us in 1924, is but months away. The third, that of practical television, is prophesied for the year 1933.

Horn is 38 years old. When not busy with wavelengths he's into playful mischief. We recall a few of the jokes he played on local boys at the RMA convention in Atlantic City last June . . . . such as having Louis Hamburg heralded as "Bobby Jones" in a ritzy hotel. Lou, who once made a hole in one at Schenley, had an army of admirers following him for several hours.

Christmas Eve, Herb McGee gave a resume of WCAE accomplishments and took a few pats on the back for the station. When he turned the dial to New York a tenor was singing "What Am I to Do Without You."

* * *

Like the Beau Brummel who stepped into our house yesterday just as a character barked from the loudspeaker, "Hello, "Hello, Handsome." And not Handsome." And not noticing the radio, accepted the compliment with a blush and a thank you.

* * *

Georgia Backus of CBS is always up to something. Now it's "Behind the Words"—a radio experiment in mental telepathy, scheduled for WJAS tonight at 10:30. It's something on the order of "Strange Interlude" but we can't guarantee that it will be as shocking.

QUESTION A DAY:

How much hosepower is there in a large broadcasting station? Please give us a comparison of power used by a radio station and the power used in our homes.—C. W. M.

Answer—Well, a 500 watt station uses less power than is required to operate the electric iron in your home. That's less than one horsepower, 746 watts. W8XAR at Saxonburg is to use 400,000 watts or 540 horsepower—enough to drive about six high powered motor cars. All the broadcasters in the United States put together use less than 2,000 horsepower.

"BY THE WAY . . ."

Those New York chimes sound 141 times a day, by actual count of Mr. Snoop and Mr. Peep . . . Virginia Kendrick, Knoxville's titian songbird, is home from Curtis Institute for the holidays, 10 pounds heavier . . . Bill Munday grabbed a flyer for the Pacific Coast last night after Christmas dinner in his Georgia home . . . He's to do the Tournament of Roses battle New Year's day for WCAE fans . . . Vernon Dalhart of "Wreck of the '97" fame comes to WJAS Monday, January 5, with Adelyn Hood in an 8:15 feature . . . Gene and Glenn raised $12,437 for Cleveland poor people in their WCAM broadcasts . . . Columbia is prepared to start television tests February 1 . . . "Hello World" Henderson is reducing his power from 20,000 to 10,000 watts . . . Mrs. Marion H. Nesbit, secretary to Floyd Gibbons is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hackett, of Regent square . . . KQV distributed toys to 150 kiddies yesterday and also presented a fine holiday program . . . Walter C. Evans, big chief of KDKA, denies published reports that the station at Saxonsburg is to use 1,500,000 watts . . . Provision has been made for 400,000 watts and no more, says Mr. Evans . . . Countess Olga Albani and Will Donaldson take the place of Jessica Dragonette and the Cavaliers on WCAE at 8 tonight while Jessica and the boys entertain in Washington, D. C. . . . Sophie Braslau, contralto, and Florence Easton, soprano, sing over WJAS next Friday night at 10 . . . WCAE has canceled the Bobby Jones feature Wednesday nights because of a local sponsored program . . . We have a real announcer in Tom Cooper, the new voice at WCAE.

The Loudspeaker By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—There will be more hoopla to the last football broadcast of the year, the East-West all-star game in San Francisco tomorrow, than to any contest that has echoed through the parlors this fall.

Ernie Smith, who not only knows his football but possesses a vast assortment of adjectives and a knack for shuffling them excitingly, will describe the game for those who go down to the arena in armchairs. The 15-minute period between the halves will not be given over to the usual dull analysis of tackles and passes, but will serve to introduce James Rolph, mayor of San Francisco and governor-elect of California, and various coaches and gridiron stars.

There ought to be—and probably will be—a capacious ear for the ceremonies. Smith should satisfy those listeners seeking football thrills and Rolph should be welcomed by those ear-cuppers interested in hearing the most colorful figure in Pacific Coast public life today. They say Rolph's personality is not unlike that of Jimmy Walker's—jaunty, witty and graceful, that he has the same gift for choosing the right words at the right time.

On New Year's Day in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena the final football game of the season—and when the broadcasters say "final" they mean it—will be played. Bill Munday will bring his drawling Georgia accents to a description of the Washington State-Alabama contest. Beginning in the late afternoon the game should attract the majority of those revelers whose throne song several hours before was "Here Comes the Sun."

It was as an announcer at the Georgia Tech-California game in the Rose Bowl in 1928 that Munday first attracted the attention of radio listeners. He attracted them, you may recall, by his vivid and unusual phrases, quite as much as by the drawl of his voice. He called a huddle "that crap-shootin' fowmation," and a nation listened and asked for more.

I would like to see Monday get back some of his earlier form. He has the picturesqueness of language, he knows football from every angle, he has one of the most pleasing voices in radioland. The broadcasters should take the bit out of his mouth and let him air his observations unrestrained.

HOLLYWOOD, GOTHAM COMMENT; NEW FILMS REVIEWED

Marion Marsh to Portray Heroine Role Opposite John Barrymore

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Fusion Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 26.

A Christmas present that any actress might dream of has been given to Marion Marsh in her assignment to play Trilby opposite John Barrymore's Svengali.

Miss Marsh has been under contract for Warners for some time, but she attracted no special attention until the Belasco Theater here borrowed her for the lead in "Young Sinners." Her work in this production was so good and her appearance so attractive that Warners eventually decided she was the answer to an especially vexing problem of casting.

Dolores Costello

It is said that the young actress' resemblance to Dolores Costello was one of the important reasons why she got the part. At first, it was widely rumored that Dolores might return to the screen to play Trilby herself.

One hears that Miss Marsh's real name is Marilynn Morgan, and that she changed it because of a sister and two brothers working on the screen.

The young actress will work under the direction of Archie Mayo, who was responsible for that fine gangster picture, "The Doorway to Hell," and for "Illicit," soon to be released.

AN ACHIEVEMENT

Two actors were talking in the lobby of the El Capitan Theater.

"What have you been doing?" asked one.

"I worked two days last week," said the other, "and I'll be working tomorrow."

FOR AULED LANG SYNE

Gary Cooper

The pair of them, it seems, have been scarcely on speaking terms since they stopped going out together about two years ago.

Since then Gary has devoted his time to Lupe Velez and Clara has amused herself with several beaux.

Incidentally, this gangster story will be Clara's first opportunity in some time to play a dramatic role.

IS VETERAN

A man with a past is Hector V. Sarno who has been signed by M. G. M. to play a dive-keeper in "The Secret Six." Sarno had the distinction to play in the first picture ever made in New York City. Later he came to California with the first of the companies. During his time, he has been director as well as actor. And he has acted in some 2,000 films. His new role is a result of a private showing of an old two-reel version of "East Lynne" in which he appeared.

LATEST GOSSIP

"Trader Horn," a picture of many tribulations, has been previewed in San Francisco and Montecito, and fine reports come in. . . . Christmas Day was the fifth wedding anniversary of Esther Ralston and George Webb . . . Ben Turpin acted as traffic officer in a jam outside a church in Beverly Hills. Do you remember Ben in his Mack Sennett traffic-directing days? . . . Buddy Rogers has five automobiles: two town cars, a phaeton, a 16-cylinder roadster and a Ford.

COMING STAGE BILLS VARIED IN THEME

In "Made in Hollywood," next week's Nixon bill, the newest comedy of the legitimate stage to treat of the life of Hollywood, the theatergoer will have an opportunity to witness movie stars in the making. The author, Donald Davis, should know something about it as he is a talkie director.

Although "Bad Girl" was presented in New York without featured players, a star in the person of Claiborne Foster has been engaged to play the title role during the Chicago engagement. The company will play New Year's week in the Shubert Alvin en route westward.

Mark Swan is the author of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," the farce to be presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt next week. There will be a midnight performance at 11:30 New Year's Eve, and matinees New Year's Day and Saturday.

PLUMBER GOES GOOFY OVER PRINCESS IN ENRIGHT

Charles Farrell, who climbed the steps to paradise and Janet Gaynor in "Seventh Heaven" and who, as a dead man, rode around in railroad trains in "Lilliom," is now out in the Enright as a young American who goes goofy over a princess. His picture is titled "The Princess and the Plumber."

Mr. Farrell is sent to Europe to inspect the heating plant in the royal flat and this leads into the romance.

Maureen O'Sullivan, who was one of the girl friends in that imaginative film, "Just Imagine," plays the heroine. H. B. Warner, Joseph Cawthorn, Bert Roach and Lucien Prival are in the cast.

Dick Powell, registering his usual happy smile, is presenting the revue, "Yachting Party," on the stage. The comedy lads, Moss and Fry, are prominent. A variety of song and dance is offered, with Mr. Powell and the girl ensemble contributing their share of these. Other entertainers include Gordon and King and Miriam and Jean.

OTIS SKINNER BRINGS BAGDAD BEGGAR TO WARNER

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Otis Skinner, veteran stage actor, came to the Warner screen Christmas Day in the film version of his stage success, "Kismet." The title word means fate. And the drama has been accorded the usual fate that meets screen adaptations.

It has been embellished with a lot of elaborateness. There are parades of pomp and power. There is a harem that looks as big as the Pitt Stadium. But it is a lot fascinr.

Don't get the wrong idea, though. "Kismet" is big, dramatic and worthwhile.

The scene of it all is Bagdad and the principal character is Hafi, a beggar. Mr. Skinner gives a strong and effective study of this fellow, under whose rags beats a reverenful heart.

DRAMATIC SCENES

Take the moment when he murders the son of an old enemy. With forceful delight he jabs the dagger into the unfortunate one. Then he throws him into a pool —the same pool in which the fair harem damsels are wont to bathe. He pushes his head under water. He watches for the bubbles. Twice they appear. The water calms. "In hell so soon," he comments.

It is a great scene.

Another of numerous dramatic episodes comes near the close. Beggar Hafi has been banished from Bagdad. He beats his breast But the effectiveness of his acting art is marred. His dispairing cries of "Allah! Allah!" are registered by the sound apparatus as "oo-wah! oo-wah!" Which makes the times out of joint. There were no Amos and Andy in Bagdad.

THE ROMANTIC ANGLE

The picture has its romantic angle, concerning the love between the beggar's daughter and a young caliph. This is the same caliph who orders his prospective father-in-law out of town. But the never-darken-my-door-again gesture isn't as mean as it may appear. Not so many reels before the father tried to murder the young man.

Supporting cast is efficient. Loretta Young makes an attractive-to-look-at heroine. David Manners, Sidney Blackmer and Mary Duncan have prominent roles. And Ford Sterling, as a merchant, proves beyond suspicion that even good old Bagdad was not above the slapstick.

"Kismet" is an entertaining picture. And an Otis Skinner appearance is always something to see.

'TOM SAWYER,' FULTON AND SHERIDAN FILM, JUST GRAND

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

There is a grand picture for all kiddies whose sizes are anywhere from eight to 80 in the Fulton and Sheridan Square. It is the talkie version of Mark Twain's immortal story of boyhood, "Tom Sawyer." It is grand for two reasons. First because it is fine entertainment and, second, because an old favorite of all the kiddies of the ages above-mentioned comes back with a bang and dominates the proceedings.

That fellow is Jackie Coogan, who reveals himself to be as likable as he was as an infant prodigy of the films and as capable an actor as one could expect from a boy of his age.

JACKIE GROWS UP

He is the Jackie of old, with a new face reflecting the happiness and inborn mischief of carefree boyhood, instead of the wondering wistfulness of early childhood. The picture itself represents the best treatment Mark Twain's story has ever received and Jackie is in the midst of it all in the title role.

He meets all the requirements that imagination places on the character of Tom Sawyer, the alert, full-of-life, barefoot, impish, harum-scarum boy, whose belief in the virtue of a dead cat as a wart cure, gets him into great adventure.

SUPPORT ALSO GOOD

Every scene in the beloved book is depicted with realism, and every character is shown just as one would wish. Junior Durkin, as Huckleberry Finn, gives Jackie his principal support with an excellent characterization. Mitzi Green, whom we know as a precocious mimic, has not the least trace of sophistication and gives a portrayal of Becky Thatcher that will make everybody love her.

There is another Jackie in the picture — Jackie Searle — who makes a big hit as Sid, the tattletale brother of Tom—Sid, the goodie-goodie boy. Jackie does his Sid so well that everybody detests him, and cheers when Aunt Polly slaps him finally instead of saving it up for Tom, who usually receives that punishment.

Once again—it is fine entertainment.

Freedom

I will bow out without the least regret.
I feel no shame that you are done with me;
The years are far too fleet for lads to fret
Because a maid is shy of constancy.
If I am but a trifling episode
In your young life—then it is time to go,
And who can tell what lies beyond the road
That I must take—since you have willed it so.

Shed not a tear that our affair is done—
I know a lad will come to comfort you;
Forget the heartbreak and recall the fun
When days were long and skies were tinted blue;

Why, freedom is a keen and sweet sensation—

—Young Man of Manhattan.

Gag

One of the better prize ring yarns was agreed about the town by Don Eskew, whose profile is exactly like ours, poor chap. It's the one about the sure-thing manager and the leaden handsaps.

The sure-thing manager was preparing his third-rater in the dressing room. The right glove was weighted with 200 yards of loaded wire-tape, cement-soaked gauze, and part of a horseshoe.

"Your right, your right!" yelled the manager, "swing your right!"

"Swing it yourself," almost

Sidewalk Philosophy

"Ironies? Well, lemme tell you something. Everything knock is a boost!"

"Yeah, I know. That's why Heflin is so popular!"

Don't We All?

They credit Al Phillips with the one about the woman who wondered what veteran actors talk about in their clubs all day. She telephoned the Lambs and asked that question of one of the old attendants.

"Tell me, please," she urged, "just what do those men sit around and talk about all the time?"

"Clothin', lady," was the reply. "They jes 'sit there and rearrange their prejudices."

In Fewer Words

A Morris Gesture

In response to our query: "Now that Andree has been found—what's become of Morris Gest?" along comes this reminder from a Pittsburgh clown. He recalls the bitter feud between Gest and George Jean Nathan, the critic.

Nathan, it appears, had given a Gest production a severe scolding, and a friend asked Gest what he thought of the sour notice.

"I never pay any attention to him," said the producer; "he's a low-life!"

The friend, who also knew Nathan, ran to him, and repeated what Gest had said.

"I do not believe Mr. Gest said that," Nathan replied stiffly; "low-life is a two-syllable word."

Gratitude

He is better described as one of two brothers who got rich quick peddling laughing soup in the Times Square belt. Last year he returned to his home town in Italy. The villagers made much over his visit, for he was, indeed, a local boy who clicked in big-time style.

He learned that once a week the town's women washed their soiled things in a river. To do so they knelt in the mud. The bootlegger decided to leave a monument behind him. He furnished the town with a cement pavilion, costing about $5,000, so that the women could wash their linens and not get themselves all goond up in the mud.

When Mussolini heard about it he had the lad decorated.

But if he should return there today they probably would hang him.

Most of the women, who had been unacquainted to fancy cement pavilions, are now water-on-the-knee sufferers!

Oop!

Take it from our Washington spy, when the social set down there throw a party they no longer use the initials "R. S. V. P." on their invitations. Instead they use "M G I C." As a warning.

Meaning: Mrs. Gann is coming.

Scene

A dozen customers, all heroes and patriots, jumped up from their ham and eggs to slug a smart-aleck cashier in a Broadway restaurant the other night, when he gave the "out-going thumb" to a veteran panhandler, who came in with an expectant look.

In response to the protest, the cashier chirped this smoothful:

"That guy didn't come in here to bag a free feed, you dopes! He wanted me to change his silver coins into bills. I do it for him every night. I ain't got the time tonight. Last night it took me half an hour to count his 56 dollars in dimes and quarters. He'll be back later and I'll count up for him. Sit down. Your wheat cakes is gettin' cold!"

Ouch!

They were telling the old and new jokes that Wilson Mizner used to convulse listeners with, and the one that registered heavily was this:

In Hollywood, a very ritzy extra would sit around the studio (when she wasn't assigned to do something) and kept staring over people's heads. No one could get her to talk. She merely stared.

"Say, lissen!" Wilson thundered one day, "how is anyone gonna tell when that dame's dead!"

Nifty

Izzy Elinson says the trouble with the world is that it is crowded with too many "It" and "Rum" fiends.

Novelette

They are sensitive, it appears, about having their names revived with the story. At any rate, one of the women is better known in New York's operatic sector, and the two men are partners of a Miami store.

After being married for 15 yrs.—life wearied the two couples. Business was dropping swiftly and their dispositions had soured. One night they all sat down to talk over matters, and they arrived at a most unusual decision.

They swapped wives! In the legal manner, of course. As a result, the men are still partners, the women still are devoted pals, and fortune has been most kind since the change in spouses.

So much so that when a Miami bank collapsed this week their shop was one of the very few on Flagler street that was not caught in the crash.

Call to Yule Dinner Reveals Man Dead

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 26.—Monoxide carbon poisoning claimed the life of John W. Cox, 26, steel worker, in his garage, where he had been repairing his car, running the engine with the garage doors shut. Members of his family found him dead when they went to call him for Christmas dinner.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

He'll Do a Lot for Your Sake, But Don't Ask Him to Surrender His Manhood!

Why does Stan want to "save his face" before the other men? Why won't he acknowledge that Sarmintha has "made a man of him" and that he stopped drinking for her sake?

Why, instead, does he say—when the boys kid him: "No, I just decided to cut it out. Didn't agree with me. What? Quit booze on account of a woman? I should say not! No woman can boss me around!"

Can he love her and act that way? Wouldn't he be proud to admit what she's done for him if he really cared?

Stopped for Her

In short, how do men get that way? Sarmintha wants to know. So has many another lady! Don't laugh. It's serious. For unless she gets wise to herself, another perfectly good love affair is going to go haywire.

"Dear Sally:

"You're great stuff when it comes to handing people some advice, and that's what I'm looking for. So here I am.

"Don't you think that if a fellow really loves a girl he won't be ashamed to own up in front of his friends to the fact that he really gave up drinking for her sake?

"I've gone with Stan for several months. He used to drink an awful lot, but during the time we've gone together, he has been drunk only a time or two, and that not lately. And he claimed to me that he stopped drinking on my account. But to his boy friends he says that 'no woman could stop him from drinking' and that he just quit because he wanted to.

Questions His Love

"Do you think that he does love me? Or is he only kidding me and trying to make me think that he does? Or has he too much 'pride' to admit to his boy friends that I was responsible for his giving it up?

"No, I don't want you to think that I am selfish, and want him to go bubbling around about how much influence I have over him, and all that. And I'm happy to think that he doesn't drink any more, whatever the reason. But what keeps me guessing is whether he loves me or not, because if it wasn't on account of me that he stopped drinking, why does he lie to me, and say it was?

"Gee! I don't know whether it's his pride that won't let him admit the truth to his friends . . . or whether he is just stringing me along, and it worries me terribly.

"He treats me wonderful, and he doesn't go out with anyone else. But I just can't understand his lying about this, if he really loves me.

"SARMINTHA."

Why won't he admit you're his boss? Why does he try to save his face before other men?

Because he's a man—and no man who has the spunk of a gnat is going to let other men think that a lady runs his life.

He Deserves Honors

As a matter of fact, he probably didn't cut out drink just to please you. He tells you he did . . . to flatter you. And you may have been his inspiration. But he, himself, did the job for the sake of his own self-respect—and he, himself, deserves all the honors.

Does he love you? Evidence all points that way. But take a tip from me, sister. He won't love you long if you keep up this kind of a wheeze. There's more than mere silliness in your peeve. There's stupidity, and a desire to run the show. And no real man is going to stand that from any woman.

It's just plain conceit on your part to want him to "lose face" with his cronies, just to show what a Big Shot you are with him.

Snap out of it! Stop suspecting him, and study him instead. Study man nature and man life. And study your own place in that life. If you don't—it's the air for you, kid!

Naturalness and Ease Great Part of Attractiveness, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

One reason that actresses are so attractive is that they study themselves and make the very best of what looks they have.

Not all actresses are beautiful, but they give the impression that they are because they make it a study to be at their best.

Even the most beautiful show girls, it must be remembered, appear for only a few minutes at a time. Were they to stand around for hours in the elaborate costumes which must be posed in they would look tired and not so beautiful.

It is almost impossible to look lovely an entire evening in gowns which must be worn with a gesture.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, December 27

According to the lunar transits affecting the affairs of this day, there should be much activity and social, domestic or affectional liveliness. The general gaiety of the annual holidays will probably be accentuated, with many pleasurable engagements, romantic developments and friendly contacts. But there may be need for restraint in the matter of reckless or indulgent excesses.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year in which the personal or purely social interests may engage the attention, although there may be some moderate business activities. Social, domestic and affectional matters and friendships are uppermost, and these should not be complicated by a proclivity to rash and impetuous acts or speech.

A child born on this day may be quick and energetic, ready with swift tongue and rash acts, but at the same time should be friendly, gracious, and enjoy great social popularity.

Task of Spiriting Noel Away Calls for Haste

The downstairs telephone at the farmhouse is in a small alcove off the hall which has a window opening on the porch. The shades were down at this window as they were all through the house, and we saw no glimmer of light through it. The ringing had ceased but we could hear no voice through the window. But when Dicky had unlocked the door and drawn me into the hall we saw the glimmer of a flashlight lying on the telephone stand and heard Katherine's tones, low and even.

"No, Mr. Veritzen, as I have told you before, I cannot take the responsibility of telling Noel you wish to see him," she was saying, and I caught at Dicky's arm in a sudden weakness born of the release from fear that the telephone message might have concerned some harm to Mary.

"Steady! girl," Dicky whispered, and I whispered back the assurance that I was all right, then listened tensely to Katherine.

"Yes, I realize that you are his father," Katherine went on, "but, forgive me, I also realize that the boy is over 21, and is not under your guardianship any longer. My position is that of a nurse who has been engaged to take care of him by the friends who have been looking after him. My responsibility is to them, and to no one else. I am sure your good sense will lead you to see this. I can only repeat that I will not awaken Noel tonight with any message from you. If you come here tomorrow morning, before he leaves, I shall be glad to put the decision up to him."

Dicky gave a delighted chuckle at Katherine's aplomb, when she knew that the next few minutes would see Noel on his way to New York. I pinched him in alarm, for I know how often sounds near a telephone receiver can be heard by the person at the other end of the wire. The next instant, Katherine's reply to something Mr. Veritzen had said, told us that he had indeed heard the chuckle.

"I'm sorry, but you are mistaken," she said. "No one laughed and—please forgive my seeming rudeness, but I really must not talk any longer. Come in tomorrow morning. Good night."

She hung up the receiver and spoke evenly:

"He was calling from Southampton," she said, "so we can show a light for a few minutes. I've been running around with a flashlight until I feel like a second story worker."

"Southampton!" Dicky exclaimed jubilantly, and my heart echoed his triumphant little paean. "Then we have beaten him out after all. But, girls, that car will be here in 10 minutes or thereabouts, so stir yourselves. Madge, you can give Katherine the low down on your way to Noel's room. Shall I waken Dad, and tell him what old Harry has doped out?"

"Please do," I said, stifling my inclination to run myself to my father's room. But Katherine already had drawn me toward the stairs and as we ascended, I rapidly told her of Harry Underwood's plan to outwit my employer.

"Harry sure knows his parsnips, buttered and sugared," she commented. "If Noel doesn't make a balloon ascension when he hears he's the prize of a steeple chase. Just wait here, for a second or two, will you? As his nurse, I'm a privileged character, you know."

She turned the knob of Noel's door, and entered softly, leaving it ajar. Then I heard her voice.

"Noel, time for your medicine."

It was the most logical way to rouse him, and her wisdom was justified when Noel's voice absolutely unworried, though a bit petulant, said, "Have I medicine at this hour? I didn't——"

"No, you haven't," Katherine returned with a little laugh, and if you did have, I hope I'm too good a nurse to waken you out of a sleep like yours to give it to you."

"Then what?" The boy's voice was stronger now.

"DID I DESERVE THE SHAMEFUL SCARLET "A"?"

The INTIMATE confession of a girl who dared to live for LOVE

IN the little town where I resided, they divided people into two classes. Those who lived on one side of the tracks were good and holy. Those who lived on the other were bad and sinful. I lived on the sinful side.

Reared in poverty and neglect, I would go the primrose way, they said. They said that I would become a wanton, a creature of the night who lured men with eyes that tantalize and kisses that burn.

They said that the hot Tartar blood that raced in my veins would send me to my shame—that the wild gypsy strain that was my heritage would bring me to the gutter. They all but branded me with the historic Scarlet A, the mark of shame.

So they came to "save" me, three of these holy women from the other side of the tracks.

They offered to take me to their homes and let me black their boots, while I learned from them how to be good.

I cannot tell you how close their narrow ideas, their smug conceit, came to making me the very thing they were fighting to save me from being. They treated me as though I were a butterfly on a pin. They tried to probe my soul. They tried to probe my mind.

Not one of them guessed that all I wanted of life was love. That love was my food, my drink, my very being. That for love, true love, satisfying love, I would scale any height, dare any law, defy any convention!

Because I was young and because I was beautiful, these women loosed against me the tide of their nasty suspicion. One of them accused me of flirting with her husband. Another branded me as a wanton because I smiled upon her son.

How I hated these women! Behind their complacent faces lurked nasty suspicion, vile jealousies, petty slanders, cruel deceits to which I would not deign to stoop. Yet these were the women who were my self-appointed saviors.

Then like a blinding light came the love that I had been seeking. A love that burned like a pure white flame. Holy. Constant. Everlasting. Out of that love my little Laurel was born.

Now about me fell the sneers and the jeers of the townspeople. My name was on their lips. Righteous men and women put me on the rack and subjected me to torture in an attempt to wring from me the name of the man I loved. They wanted it that they might ruin his life as they were trying to ruin mine.

What was I to do?

Remain in the town and rear my child, or flee like a coward? Should I reveal the name of my lover and risk his happiness, or keep it secret till we could marry? Or should I give him up entirely, devoting my life to my music and my child?

These were some of the problems that faced Sonia Wycoff, the lovely daughter of an English gentleman and a wild gypsy mother, who rose from the mire to fame as a great operatic star.

Read how she faced and solved them in "Her Miracle of Love." It is the intimate, merciless, true confession of a woman who had the courage to think for herself and endure years of shame and humiliation, for the sake of her own soul and a love that was beyond belief.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Heredity a Factor in Varicose Veins

Varicose veins have considerably troubled mankind ever since the days of Noah. Of course, it is an ailment that has become more common since his time. No doubt we may attribute this increased prevalence to our modern manner of living.

DR. COPELAND

Whenever the word "varicose" is used, it refers to an unnatural swelling. That is exactly what we are dealing with in varicose veins. The veins are unduly large, appear swollen, and there is stagnation of blood in the affected vessels. The poor circulation is due to the loss of elasticity in the walls of the veins.

The condition is most commonly seen in adult women, particularly after child-birth. It is sometimes met in male adults, particularly in men whose work requires long and uninterrupted standing.

The veins of the lower extremities and rectum are particularly liable to attack. In the latter region it is spoken of as "hemorrhoids" or "piles." It may do so, but it very rarely involves other parts of the body.

No one cause can be held responsible for this condition. Some persons, even under the same conditions of living, are much more liable than others to the formation of varicose veins. On this account, the ailment has been considered hereditary. Undoubtedly this factor plays a role in the condition.

As I have suggested, persons whose occupations demand long continued standing are more prone to the condition. This is especially so if they happen to be overweight, or even moderately stout. There is a loss in the tone of the vessel wall. Consequently its tissues relax because of the natural weakness and, with additional weight to support, they soon stretch.

People with varicose veins should never wear tight garters, or other constricting clothes. If constipation is present it should be corrected. Avoid standing as much as possible. When resting after a day's work, the feet should be elevated on a couch or chair.

The use of the rubber stocking is of doubtful value. It soon loses its elasticity and when worn after that, happens, it does more harm than good.

For mechanical support your physician will bandage your legs with a "figure of eight" dressing. After you have watched him apply it a few times, you will have no difficulty in applying the bandage yourself. For this purpose it is considered good practice to use an elastic gauze bandage. Such bandages are not only elastic, but they can be washed and kept clean.

Recently the so-called injection treatment for varicose veins has been used with great success, I am told. By those who apply it this method is considered preferable to the operation which is sometimes indicated. The injection of certain medicaments into the varicose vein causes its disappearance. The procedure is simple, painless and, rightly applied, is without danger.

Needless to say, this ailment is one that requires the personal and skillful attention of the physician. Under his direction you may hope for relief.

Answers to Health Queries

Daily Reader. Q.—How can I remove freckles?

A.—Freckles may be made less noticeable by applying equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide.

"NERVOUSNESS." Q.—What do you advise for neurasthenia?

A.—Try to build up the general health and this will benefit the entire nervous system.

W. C. Q.—What proportion of peroxide and ammonia should be used to bleach the skin?

A.—This would be very drastic treatment for the delicate texture of the skin. Try using equal parts of lemon juice and peroxide, and if the preparation is drying, it might be wise to use a good cold cream after each application.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Unattractive Detail of Table Deportment

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to pick up a chicken bone? I have heard that it is correct. Am I right or wrong? G. R.

It is not proper—because it is not "neat and tidy"—to pick up a chicken bone in your fingers. It is obviously a most unpleasant operation for the person sitting opposite us to witness. It soils our napkins; it soils our fingers, and altogether it is one of those unattractive details of table deportment to be avoided.

It is easy to manage this with your knife and fork, and that is what we must do if we wish to be classified as "polite at table."

Correct Hosiery

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly advise me as to what kind of stockings to wear with a white chiffon evening dress. I want to wear silver kid slippers, but do not know which would look better—white stockings or silver or flesh. L. A. R.

By all means wear white stockings, white chiffon stockings, for they will best preserve the unity and harmony of your costume. Then the line will not be broken.

Calling Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the only unmarried girl of the family left. My calling cards have heretofore been just Miss Graham. Is that still proper, or should they have my first name, Nancy, or Miss Nancy, or just Miss Graham, as formerly? READER.

Just as you wish about this. It is the privilege of the eldest daughter of a family, or, as in your case, the only unmarried daughter, to have her visiting cards engraved with only the "Miss" before the name. Or, she may, if she prefers—and most girls do now—use her first name also. I think that, in most cases, the card has a more attractive appearance with the first name also. And usually a name sounds better with the first name used.

The Gentleman's Place

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a husband and wife and a woman friend are walking on the street, where should the husband walk, in the center or on the outside? READER.

Whether with one lady or with two ladies a gentleman walks on the side of the pavement nearest the curb.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Twice a year tartar should be removed from the base of the teeth. If these little barnacles are permitted to gather they produce cavities and injure the gums.

After half a dozen permanent waves, the hair should be reconditioned. Begin treatment a month before the new wave is to be given. Twice a week apply hot olive oil to scalp and hair, permitting it to remain on all night. Next morning there must be a rousing, vigorous shampoo with several alternating soapings and rinsings.

Finger waves and marcels will never go out of fashion for the reason that they are almost perfect imitations of the undulation bequeathed by Mamma Nature. Water waves make naturally curly hair curlier. The steam marcel is popular because it produces a wave that has lasting qualities. The hair is moistened and a half-warm iron is employed.

It is a dreary moment when a woman looks into her mirror and notes with sorrow that her beauty petals are falling. She usually dashes to the shop of beauty repairs. And that's all right, since beautifying methods nowadays are based on good sense and scientific principles. But let her remember that evidences of age are kept at bay by restful sleep, exercise in the open air, a balanced diet, active elimination of body wastes and a tranquil mind.

Dandruff in itself may do no great harm to the glorious crown. But it forms an inviting abode for bacteria that produces serious scalp diseases. Soften it with vaseline or any good oil, permitting the lubricant to remain on the scalp over night. Next morning shampoo the hair. By repeated oilings and scrubbings the scales will be dislodged. Never tear dandruff loose with finger nails. Abrasions result. Sometimes infection.

SIX AT FEAST DIE IN FIRE

WHITING, Ind., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Six Yuletide celebrators were trapped in a rooming house fire and burned to death at dawn yesterday.

The dead are: John Beberk, Tony Kuzesick, Joseph Lucic, John Lucic, Victor Milarcevic and Matthew Stefpick.

Luco Loorinovich, badly burned and with both legs injured, escaped by leaping from a window of the second floor. Another man, Nick Slemick, blackened and burned, was given up for dead, but was revived by pulmotors and though still unconscious was reported by hospital attaches as "still breathing."

The fire broke out as the eight lodgers in the second floor apartments of the building sat together about the festive board.

In a ground floor room where the fire apparently had its origin, the body of a small watchdog was found. Its paws and nose were flattened against a smoke blackened window pane.

Real Estate

The annual report of C. C. C. Stotler, secretary of the Title Guaranty Company, released today, shows that there were 20,012 mortgages totaling $114,173,543.48 placed on record from January 1, 1930, to and including December 22. Purchase mortgages, according to Stotler, numbered 2,158 and represented a valuation of $10,231,587.97. The report also shows that 17,854 mortgages totaling $103,941,955.51 were straight mortgages. Stotler says that this year's report compares favorably with those of former years.

A $130,000 trade deal involving a business block in Wilkinsburg has been closed by George H. Theiss, owner of the Wilkinsburg property, and George C. Heimert, according to the Union Real Estate Company, brokers. The business block is located at 702-04-06 Wood street on 58x130 feet, with a two-story brick building containing three storerooms, six offices and three garages. In exchange Theiss conveyed title to a three-story brick business building at 1435-37 Fifth avenue. The lot fronts 40 feet on Fifth avenue and extends 90 feet along Pride street to Our alley. A. J. Aberman and Joseph Rosenberg, representing the Union Real Estate Company, have been appointed renting agents for both properties.

The annual election of officers and directors of the Building Owners and Managers Association of Pittsburgh will be held next Wednesday. The following nominations have been made: A. H. Clark, president; A. Callender, vice president, and J. H. Wallace, treasurer. Directors nominated include E. C. Bickley, J. W. Bamford, G. E. Evans, P. C. Hodill, L. J. Kiefer, J. C. Weigman and W. C. Zeigler.

Santa in Airplane Visits Lighthouses

PITTSBURGHER EDISON GUEST

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Edison ate crackers and milk for his Christmas dinner, played with his grandchildren and then went into his study to pour over many technical journals.

The family gathered at the Edison estate, "Glenmont." Mrs. Edison personally directed the preparation of the Christmas feast, which was partaken of by Mrs. J. H. Hitchcock, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. W. W. Nichols, of Scarsdale, N. Y., sisters of Mrs. Edison; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison, of East Orange; Mr. and Mrs. John Free Sloan, daughter and son-in-law of the Edisons, of Llewellyn Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, son and daughter-in-law, and their children, of Llewellyn Park.

Priest's Car Stolen, Crash Halts Chase

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Making off with the automobile of the Rev. Thomas Duffy while the priest was celebrating midnight mass in St. John's Church here, Clarence Weston, 30, of Benwood, was captured early Christmas Day when the machine crashed into a house at a turn in the road.

Slain in Attempt To Balk Holdup

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Ennis Neal, 22, pool hall proprietor, was killed and P. K. Durkin, a patron, wounded seriously by two unmasked robbers in the robbery of the pool hall last night. The robbers escaped.

Whims of Capital Leaders Shown By Auto Tags

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Distribution of 1931 District of Columbia automobile licenses has disclosed the preferences and superstitions of a number of those high in official life.

Vice President Curtis was again assigned 111, which he has had ever since his inauguration, and which he feels is symbolic of his victory in the 1928 election. Mrs. Dolly Gann, his sister and official hostess, will have 11.

Representative Tilson, Connecticut, obtained Y-91 because he graduated from Yale in '91.

Representative Williams (Dem.), Texas, insisted upon the lucky number 711 and Speaker Longworth got 66. His wife, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, received 84. According to custom, the numbers from 100 to 110 were assigned to President Hoover.

AVIATION RADIO SCHOOL BURNS

RANTOUL, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Fire destroyed a $11,000 wooden hangar housing the Army Aviation Radio school at Chanute Field here last night with a loss of more than $500,000.

All but $30,000 of the loss was due to destruction of radio equipment, much of which was experimental and rare. Army officers said. Valuable remote control apparatus was ruined. Lieut. R. C. Wriston, acting adjutant, said it will be replaced only with much difficulty.

All buildings and hangars at the field, and 40 planes, were threatened by the flames.

Bank Pays First Quarterly Dividend

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 26.—The Waynesburg Union Trust Company, organized last September as successor to the Union Deposit and Trust Company, of Waynesburg, and in which Mellbank Corporation of Pittsburgh is principal stockholder, has announced its first quarterly dividend, payable immediately.

Greensburg Man May Sell Ford Toy 'Farm'

GREENSBURG, Dec. 26.—Henry Ford may purchase a home-made Christmas display owned by Robert E. Probst here. Probst has worked at the display for many years, adding something new each Christmas. It depicts a complete farm with farmhouse, fences, livestock and vegetation, and even the farmhouse is furnished inside.

Ford recently wrote Probst telling him he desired the exhibit to place in his museum.

AGENT ACCUSED OF SMUGGLING

The arrest followed an automobile accident in which one alleged contraband Chinese was fatally injured. Three others, found hiding in the brush nearby, were taken into custody. Fletcher Amthardt, of Los Angeles, who was riding in the automobile with Schnell and the Chinese, was held on a similar charge.

DULA, TOBACCO MAGNATE, DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Caleb Cushy Dula, 67, chairman of the board of the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, died yesterday at his home of pneumonia. Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday morning.

Born in Lenoir, N. C., February 6, 1864, Dula first went into the tobacco business with his brother, R. B. Dula, in Wrenteville, Md. At 24 he came to New York and became department manager for the Continental Tobacco Company, a subsidiary of the American Tobacco Company. Later he became secretary and vice president.

When the American Tobacco Company was reorganized in 1911, and the Liggett and Myers Company was formed, Dula was elected president, in which capacity he served until 1925, when he became chairman.

KING-RUSSELL OUSTER STIRS WAR THREAT

Power Trust Foes to Find Aid in Senate Which Will Fight New Commissioners

By M. L. RAMSAY.
United News Staff.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—A little, wiry accountant, who knows every financial trick in the power trust's bag, stood in an unwonted limelight today, as center and symbol of the Senate conflict with the new power commission.

As chief accountant, William V. King, of the old commission since its organization 16 years ago, has blocked every attempt to win Uncle Sam's O. K. For hydro-electric plant investments he declares, are running over with "water" and ruinous to electric consumers and taxpayers.

STRIFE PRESAGED

If the removal from office of King and his associate, Solicitor Charles A. Russell, stands, Senate war with the new commission and the Hoover administration appears inevitable. Action to rescind the confirmation of three commissioners is planned on the reassembling of the Senate January 5.

If King and Russell are given reappointments the war is less likely.

King was trained in the hard school of the Interstate Commerce Commission. His figures are a religion. For 10 years he has maintained that the fair return on net investment specified in the Federal Water Power Act means proved net investment, at least until there is an authoritative decision that it means something else.

He has stood pat in the face of intimations that persons high in authority favored accounting "short cuts."

RETAINS HIS QUARTERS

Because he has also been circumspect, has never spoken out of turn, every previous effort to dislodge him, or detour around him, has failed. Even now, despite a notice that his office is "understood" to have been made vacant by the change in commissions, he has not surrendered his quarters. He has behind him many years of civil service status, and there is considerable doubt whether the new law ended his service. He also has powerful Senate backing.

The worst the power companies ever have said of him is that he is "too meticulous." If he was tallying the investment in a constructed plant, they declared, he wanted to "count the bricks."

TELLS OF JUGGLING

King's answer was to tell the Senate, with full propriety as a subpenaed witness, how investments are inflated with lobby fees, Indian pow-wows, and huge sums passed from a power company's left hand to its right hand and then charged up to the public.

He told, too, how they ignored demands for information, locked up their records or failed to keep them, and "in every way imaginable attempted to prevent the application of the commission's rules and regulations."

RUSSELL DRAMATIC

Russell, far better known to the public, is King's antithesis as well as his tower of strength. He dramatized the water power conflict.

He is militant when he thinks militancy is necessary. Coming to King's support upon his own appointment as solicitor 16 months ago, he refused equally forcefully to keep quiet about their manipulations. Several times he has crashed head on into administration policies and legal views sponsored by the department of justice. He has penned vigorous and colorful rulings backing up King's challenges of "water," and some of these reached the ears of Congress.

PHOEBE MACKAY
Plays "Effie Watts"

A COUGH or even a slight huskiness may mean the loss of a lot of money to a radio star. Phoebe Mackay, one of the most popular members of the "Real Folks" cast has found a sure way to keep her throat in condition and prevent colds, and she recommends it to you. At bedtime she sniffs a little "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly into her nose. It spreads a protective film over the sensitive membranes, soothes inflammation, and helps prevent germs from getting a foothold.

If Miss Mackay experiences the slightest tickle or raspiness in her throat, she immediately swallows a spoonful of "Vaseline" Jelly. It's so soothing, and perfectly safe to take internally.

You can hear Phoebe Mackay in the part of Mrs. Watts, the cockney boarding house keeper in "Real Folks" any Monday night at 9:30 over station WJZ or KDKA. And do buy some "Vaseline" Jelly and try her sensible preventive for coughs and colds.

BUCK CROUSE (DARK CLOTHES) FITTING NEEDY MEN WITH BRAND NEW CLOTHES

Some of the 12 men selected by lot from among 2,000 fed at St. Patrick's Church, Seventeenth street, to be bathed, shaved, given brand new clothes and dined at Father Cox's table.

FATHER COX, MR. CROUSE AND THE 12 DRESSED-UP, UNEMPLOYED MEN THEY DINED ON CHRISTMAS

The Rev. James R. Cox with the 12 men he clothed in new raiment and dined at his table while his aides fed others of 2,000 who applied at his church for Christmas food. They look little like unemployed, hungry men without hope that they were.

Christmas Made Merry For City's Poor; Food Aplenty

Although the weather, mild and minus snow, was more of a Thanksgiving than Christmas variety, Santa Claus yesterday lived up to his age-old reputation and spread cheer and comfort to thousands in the Pittsburgh district who for weeks had looked forward to the day of days.

Tons of food, clothing and fuel, tons of candy and toys gladdened the hearts of many children and adults in a manner they had not expected.

PASTOR ENTERTAINS

A group of children of the Fullerton street district were the guests of the Rev. Elias Basil, of St. Ann's Church, Fullerton street, at a Christmas dinner yesterday. The children, recruited from the streets of the hill district, were feted at the parish house.

More than 250 gifts were distributed by the Rev. Mr. Basil to the poor of the district.

Father Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, was host to 12 men, selected by lot, at a Christmas dinner in his home. The men were all clothed from head to foot with new clothing provided by Father Cox. They were taken to a downtown clothing store by Albert (Buck) Crouse, Father Cox's aid, where they were outfitted with the clothing.

Before the dinner to the fortunate 12, more than 1,200 men were dined in the basement of St. Patrick's Church.

SULLIVAN AIDS NEEDY

The fourth of a series of parties was given in 2707 Penn avenue, and more than 1,200 men and women, guests of Congressman P. J. Sullivan, were served Christmas dinners.

The Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives distributed 100 baskets, each containing assorted food products valued at $10, to 100 of the neediest families for Christmas. E. A. Bracken was chairman of the committee.

And the day before, more than 1,000 baskets, filled with substantial foods and Christmas trimmings, were distributed to the poor families of the Sixth Ward.

At the dinner yesterday—from 11 to 4 o'clock—everyone was invited. The admission ticket was an appetite and no purse.

Prior to that children of the schools and institutions were given candy—3,700 boxes—and stockings and toys to each were distributed. A smoker by the Boys' Club was held last Saturday.

A committee of 20 of the Republican Club of the Sixth Ward, with Congressman Sullivan heading it and footing the bill, made the four parties possible.

Congressman Sullivan said:

"We used to furnish a chicken with each basket, but changed this year to pork. There's real meat on those pork roasts."

The Shriners of Syria Mosque solved the century-old problem of children, who constantly wonder how Santa Claus can cover so much ground.

Christmas eve, 59 Santas with truckloads of toys, candy and clothing, visited 82 institutions in Western Pennsylvania. Therein 8,000 children were given what they had asked for.

Joseph N. Mackrell, chairman of the Christmas committee, explained that the children of the institutions, of all race, color and creed, were asked what they wanted for Christmas. They were permitted four choices. These they got, and, in addition, candy and clothing for all.

The institutions visited are as far away as New Castle, covering, with Pittsburgh the hub, a radius of 35 miles. Shriners contributed thousands of dollars for the gifts.

MANY MORE FED

More than 1,500 persons were treated to a Christmas dinner by the Volunteers of America in their hall, 724 East Diamond street, and 2,500 sat down to dinner as guests of the Salvation Army in their headquarters in the Boulevard of the Allies.

Four hundred baskets of food were given away by the Oakland Board of Trade. A house built of canned goods by the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian Church, Bellevue, was torn down and the cans were distributed to the needy. Hundreds of baskets, filled with all sorts of foods, were distributed by the South Hills Council of Republican Women and the Mt. Lebanon League of Women Voters in Mt. Lebanon and Dormont, and by the Brentwood Civic Club.

Officials of the Edgar Thomson Steel Works, Braddock, distributed two and a half tons of candy to children of the district. Food, clothing and toys were distributed by the Thirtieth Ward Republican organization, headed by Lon Mackintosh.

Chicken dinner was served to 300 children of the Holy Family Orphanage, Emsworth, while 100 dinners in boxes were distributed from the Betsy Ross Tea Room in Oakland.

DEMAND GUARD AT CROSSING

Aroused over a grade crossing accident which caused the death of two persons here, Burgess John W. Hunger, of Arnold, today announced that he would take immediate steps to have the Pennsylvania Railroad place a 24-hour-a-day watch at the Nineteenth street crossing in the borough. Early yesterday, Nicholas Alio, 28, of 1927 Woodmont avenue, Arnold, and his wife, Mary, 25, were killed when a freight train struck their machine.

Helen Marino, 20, of 1538 Fourth avenue, and Frank Tigano, 28, of 1306 Stanton avenue, both of New Kensington, were injured in the crash. They are said to be in serious condition in the Citizens General Hospital at New Kensington.

According to Burgess Hunger, the crossing is unguarded from midnight until 6 a. m. He declared today that he would insist that the railroad either place a watchman at the crossing 24 hours a day or lessen the speed of the trains through the borough to 10 miles an hour.

Liquor 'Cure' Story Being Investigated

Explaining the presence of five gallons of moonshine whisky found in his tailor shop by telling police he used it for bathing, as a cure for rheumatism, Abe Perlin, 69, 2504 Wylie avenue, was held in Central Police Station today while police investigated his story.

Perlin testified he does not drink or sell liquor. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg ordered him held.

Mother Bequeaths $15,000 to Children

Mrs. Annie Till, 6363 Jackson street, by her will filed for probate, today, leaves $15,000 to her children and names her daughter, Cecelia Till, as executor.

66 Men Pardoned For Holiday Spirits

Thirty-four men arrested in the downtown district and 32 arrested in the Hill district on charges of drunkenness were discharged by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. Most were habitual offenders.

FATHER GRIFFIN RITES HELD

The last solemn rites of the church he served faithfully for many years were said this forenoon for the Very Rev. Dr. Edward Paul Griffin, pastor of St. Mary's of the Mount Church, in the church on Grandview avenue.

The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the diocese of Pittsburgh, was assisted by many prominent priests in a pontifical high mass at 10 o'clock.

The large auditorium of the church was crowded to capacity as mourning parishioners gathered to pay their last tribute to the revered pastor.

More than 200 priests were present, a dozen of whom aided the bishop in celebration of the mass.

Interment was made in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Father Griffin was 67 and had served St. Mary's of the Mount for 27 years. He was born in Brooklyn and was pastor of several Western Pennsylvania parishes before coming to Pittsburgh. He also was chaplain of St. Paul's Orphan Asylum and Catholic chaplain of the Western Penitentiary for a number of years.

In 1913 Father Griffin celebrated the silver jubilee of his priesthood at St. Mary's of the Mount. He leaves three sisters, Sister Ann Grace, of the Charity order, Convent Station, N. J.; Miss Agnes Griffin, of Elizabeth, N. J., and Mrs. Mary Angert, of North Oakland, Pa.

Tickets Distributed For Newsboys' Feast

Tickets for the second annual newsboys' banquet to be held New Year's Day in St. Stanislaus School auditorium, at Twenty-second and Smallman streets, were being distributed by the Rev. Joseph J. Skibinski, C. S. Sp., at the parish house, at 57 Twenty-first street.

LANDLORD HELD IN STABBING

The stabbing yesterday of Joseph Sirota, 36, a roomer at 34 Wellsford street, resulted today in police holding on a suspicious person charge Walter Dlutowski, his landlord. Sirota is in Montefiore Hospital.

County Detective Thomas Craig was beaten by several men when he attempted to make an investigation of the fight. Riot calls to East End police stopped the melee.

John Mageri, 24, 2018 Forbes street, was in Mercy Hospital suffering stab wounds of the shoulder, chest and hip. He was found in a vestibule at 1406 Fifth avenue, and refused to talk, police said.

John Harris, 29, of 803 Arch street, was in Presbyterian Hospital suffering lacerations of the face.

Attacked by two men on New Homestead Hill, Mifflin Township, Harry Owens, 40, a Negro, of that place, was stabbed above the heart last night, according to West Homestead police.

Burned in Bed, Man Dies of Pneumonia

Pneumonia devoloping from burns suffered December 9, when his bed ignited from a cigaret, caused the death yesterday in St. Margaret's Hospital of Zygmunt A. Chrzanowski, 65, of 6101 Butler street, according to a morgue report.

Man Found Dead Beside Fire in Field

James Morris, no home, was found dead Christmas morning, beside a fire in a field near Dasher and Robinson streets, North Side. He was found by a policeman. Morgue attaches declared death was due to exposure.

Pair Held Here in Quiz On Fatal Fall; Two Others Stumble, Die

Three men were dead today and another had a fractured skull as a result of falls.

Two Mexicans were held by homicide detectives for questioning in connection with the death of Ignazio Morales, 33, a Mexican, of 10 Covington street.

Morales was found dead in a house at 164 Fullerton street, by his wife, who had received a mysterious note telling her her husband was sick and asking her to come to the Fullerton street address.

Those under arrest, Gilbert Torese, of 164 Fullerton street, who admitted writing the note to Mrs. Morales, and Joe Jonzellos, of 801 Clay way, told police, they said, that the victim fell down the steps in the house while intoxicated. The prisoners were held on suspicious person charges.

WATCHMAN KILLED

John E. McLaughlin, 55, of 5205 Keystone street, a watchman at the Phoenix Storage Company, Twenty-fourth and Smallman streets, was found dead in the basement of the plant yesterday, a victim of a fall down stairs, according to the coroner's report.

McLaughlin, who suffered a fractured back, was found at the foot of the steps by Frank Aigner, another watchman, who came to relieve him.

FALL IN BREWERY FATAL

Frank W. Wieland, 36, of 306 Sunnyland avenue, Carrick, a brew master, died yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital from a fractured skull suffered in a fall down the stairway in the Duquesne Brewery, the coroner's office reported. The accident occurred Monday.

After falling down the steps in his home last night, Falco Scuilli, 54, of 40 Boundary street, was in the Homeopathic Hospital with a fractured skull, police said.

SEEK IDENTITY OF RAIL VICTIM

The identity of a man who was fatally injured last night when he fell beneath the wheels of a moving train which he was said to have attempted to board in the train shed of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Smithfield and Water streets, was being sought by morgue attaches today. The victim, about 55, died an hour later in Mercy Hospital.

Maria Graham, 54, a Negro, rear of 30 Apple way, Duquesne, was killed when she was struck by a train while she was walking on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Dravosburg Wednesday, deputy coroners said.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, "Wish" Day is over. Everybody "wished" somebody something, and I guess it's just as well everybody don't know what they were "wished." But generally speaking we do have good cheer in our hearts on Christmas. Course we can hardly wait till the day is over to get back to our devilment again.

Will Rogers

I have a wish that I believe will have hearty co-operation. It's to leaders of industry, prominent men, and even dear old Charley Schwab. Please, on New Year's, don't predict prosperity (either early or late). Don't predict anything. Just say, "I pass." You have had one solid year of being 100 per cent wrong, and we just kinder lost our taste for your predictions. Good times are coming soon, we all feel it, but if you guys say it, it's liable to crab it.

Yours, WILL.

Family of 5 in Hospitals, 3 From Gas Mishap

Christmas brought added misfortune to the home of George Kurtz, 33, of 712 Tripoli street, North Side. The past seven weeks have seen the entire family, consisting of Kurtz, his wife and three children, taken to hospitals.

Seven weeks ago the wife and mother entered the Presbyterian Hospital for treatment. Two weeks ago George, Jr., 7, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Yesterday, while Christmas dinner was being prepared in the kitchen of the home by Leona Walters, housekeeper, fumes overcame Kurtz and his two small daughters, Rosemary, 8, and Helen, 12, as they were taking an afternoon nap. They were taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where their condition was reported good. Miss Walters was unharmed by the fumes.

The other two members of the family, lying on their own hospital cots, were told of the added misfortune.

Resolutions May Point Way to Prosperity

New Year resolutions, favorite butt for the jokesters, this year may provide a sincere effort to start the Pittsburgh district on the road to prosperity and happiness.

For the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, conducting a New Year's Resolution contest, is offering $100 as the first prize and a number of smaller prizes to those who contribute, in a 50-word resolution, the most practical, ethical, far-seeing concept of the new year's needs.

The Resolution Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will care for the papers submitted. Those distinguished Pittsburghers, known for their civic and educational interest, will decide the winners. They are Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education; the Rev. Dr. James F. Carroll, vice president of Duquesne University, and Ralph Munn, director of the Carnegie Libraries of Pittsburgh.

The resolutions that win will be judged on their constructiveness, their ability to fit in with practical accomplishment. The winning resolution should be one which, by its inspiration, would strike thousands of others as the way to progress and happiness for the mass.

The contest will end December 30 at 5 p. m. Send you best resolution to the Resolution Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

KIDNAPED MAN FLEES BANDITS

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The reported escape of an American mining engineer, Hugh M. Craigie, from Mexican outlaws who captured him last Tuesday in the first depredation of its nature in Chihuahua since the 1916 revolution, still lacked details.

Officials of the American Smelting and Refining Company, for which Craigie, 30, has worked since 1924, awaited a clearing up of the report following notification by Mrs. Craigie that she would remain in Santa Barbara until the safety of her husband was assured.

Santa Barbara, scene of the kidnaping, is 350 miles south of here.

Robbery Suspect Wounded in Flight

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A man who police said refused to surrender when he was caught robbing a clothing store here was shot in the right leg by a policeman early today. The victim, Ralph Metzger, Altoona, was not hurt seriously. Bernard L. McCulloch was arrested.

Boy Kills Father With Yule Gift Shotgun

BELEN, Miss., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—A shotgun H. L. Hall gave his son Paul, 12, as a Christmas present was said by authorities today to have been used by the youth to kill his father in a family dispute last night. Police said Hall, a plantation manager, was shot to death after threatening his wife with a stick of wood in the presence of Paul and five other children.

KLINE DEMANDS POSTAL PLANS

Mayor Charles H. Kline has demanded information regarding the street traffic arrangements at the new postoffice building from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Perry K. Heath.

The plans are highly important to the city, Mayor Kline informed the Treasury official. Drastic measures would have to be taken to handle the traffic situation at peak hours, Kline cited in stressing the importance of the Better Traffic Committee being informed on the subject.

MAN BATTLES THUG IN HOME

Surprising a burglar in a darkened upstairs bedroom, Harold Waddings, 28, a son of E. A. Waddings, of 958 24ninth avenue, Brackenridge, struggled with the thug several minutes before the intruder broke loose and escaped. A window was broken during the fight, but Waddings was uninjured, he told Brackenridge police. The family spent Christmas Day with neighbors and the man made his entry by walking in the front door a short time before the Waddings returned home last evening, police learned.

Woman, Narcotic Sleuth, Disappears

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Police were searching today for Mrs. Katherine E. Trower, 41, a former narcotic investigator, who disappeared after being summoned from her home early yesterday clad only in a nightgown, a light coat and bedroom slippers.

Because she aided in convicting many narcotic peddlers her relatives fear she may be the object of revenge.

Christmas Carol Singing Aids 2 Break Jail

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Two bank robbers under 20 year sentences battered their way out of the county jail last night during a municipal Christmas tree celebration in front of the building. The singing of carols prevented officers from hearing the noise inside the jail.

No trace had been found today of the fugitives—Harold Dominisse, 28, and Forest Cook, 23.

Dominisse agreed to plead guilty to robbing the First National Bank at Hay Springs, Neb., September 18, on condition that he be allowed to stay in jail here over Christmas so his wife could visit him.

Methodist Minister, 77, Dead in Altoona

ALTOONA, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The Rev. Marion Joseph Runyan, 77, retired after 47 years as pastor of churches in the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Conference, died last night in Tyrone. He served charges at York, Shamokin, Liberty, Lewisberry, Schellsburg, Huntingdon Mills, Stormstown, Snowshoe and Wallacetown, and retired from the latter church six years ago. His widow, a son and a brother, the Rev. R. W. Runyan, Alexandria, survive.

DEATH PLOTTER SLAIN IN DUEL

BRADFORD, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—In a death-bed confession, Sam Nicolletti, 26, reputed Brooklyn (N. Y.) gunman, told police here just before his death today how his loss of nerve when he was to have consummated a contracted killing of Al Ritchie, assistant county detective, resulted in a gun duel with John Sancore, 22, of Bradford, who was wounded three times.

According to Nicolletti's confession, he was to have received $500 from Sancore when Ritchie had been slain. At the last moment, he said, he decided not to carry out the "contract," and as they stood arguing Sancore whipped out a revolver and shot him once in the back. As he fell, the victim fired three shots at Sancore.

The two men lay side by side on hospital cots. Sancore looked feebly on as police extracted the confession from Nicolletti. When he had gasped out the last few words of the confession, Nicolletti died.

MAIL BUSINESS AGAIN NORMAL

The mail situation in Pittsburgh was reported in good shape today by postal authorities after the large volume of business during the Christmas rush.

Practically all outgoing mail was disposed of late Wednesday night. Postal employes enjoyed a holiday yesterday and this accounted for the accumulation of incoming mail, most of which will be taken care of today, they said.

Most of the 1,400 extra men employed during the Christmas rush have been dismissed, although some will be retained today and tomorrow, after which business of the postoffice is expected to be normal.

County Investigates Death of Woman

Deputy coroners today were investigating the death of Bridget Nicholson, 38, of 1670 Ridge avenue, North Braddock, who died in the Braddock General Hospital shortly after being taken there from a house in Electric avenue, North Braddock, according to the coroner's report.

An autopsy at the morgue disclosed pneumonia and meningitis as the cause. The woman's body was bruised and a rib was broken.

Killing Suspect Held In Westmoreland

GREENSBURG, Dec. 26.—Sought since November 15, Liberetto Rulli, 45, Salem Township storekeeper, was arrested today 10 miles from his home, charged with the murder of Joseph Morendo, in a quarrel over a bill. Rulli fled, and was traced through three states.

Injunction Asked To Halt Gas Suit

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—An application for an injunction restraining the prosecution of creditors' actions against the Twin States Natural Gas Company, of Dover, Del., was filed in Federal Court here today by Joseph E. Nute and William A. Prosser, of Fall River, Mass.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Popular in France

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Robinson Crusoe and Uncle Tom's Cabin—in French, of course—are holiday best sellers here, bookstores found. Jules Verne's Romances and Gulliver's Travels were as popular as ever for Christmas presents.

3 Mississippi Banks Fail to Open Doors

TUPELO, Miss., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The Peoples Bank and Trust Company here and two branches at Nettleton and Rienzi, Miss., failed to open today.

Directors called a meeting to consider plans for reorganization.

SEBASTOPOL, Russia, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Local authorities decided to tear down all the city's monuments to Czarist generals, using the metal for the erection of a huge monument to Nicolai Lenin.

The Road To Roam - In Winter!

GULF COAST

Got a few days? Trade them for a good coat of tan and the health that goes with it. The Gulf Coast is just a day or so away. Roses bloom there in February. People who have learned to live and plan to live a long time, spend days there every winter, resting, rebuilding. Golf courses everywhere; play a different one every day. The Gulf and streams are full of fish. Duck are calling from the marshes. Roads and riding paths beckon. Big, sun-soaked front porches overlooking the Gulf are mighty inviting.

The Popular Winter Playgrounds are Reached Over the L. & N. Liberal Privileges Enable You to Visit Several Places on One Trip. Plan by the Map.

NEW ORLEANS

It's winter in New Orleans. Old Pierre is cutting roses behind the high French wall where he has been gardener for a hundred years or so. Fashionables from the North, South, East and West are watching races on a sun-drenched track. Happy throngs are passing in and out of famous old restaurants, sitting in quaint court yards, seeing historic French and Spanish buildings and relics, hearing strange tongues, seeing new things. Leave Cincinnati or Louisville on The Pan-American one morning; arrive in New Orleans the next. Enjoy the Mardi Gras festivities Feb. 12-17.

SOUTHWEST

FLORIDA

The L. & N. offers splendid service from Cincinnati and Louisville to Florida, details of which appear in separate advertisements. Ask for literature and schedules.

CALIFORNIA

Enjoy open air and sunshine all the way to California. Stop over en route on the Gulf Coast and in New Orleans. Take the L. & N. at Cincinnati or Louisville one day; next morning you will be down by the sunny Gulf. Connect at New Orleans with through trains for the West.

Special low rates to the Gulf Coast, New Orleans and Florida, Dec. 13, 27, March 14, and April 4. Details cheerfully given.

ONE KILLED, SIX OTHERS HURT BY AUTOS IN DISTRICT

POLICE SEARCH FOR HIT-RUN MOTORIST

Driver of Death Car Flees; Girl Hurt Seriously In Saving Sister From Peril

County detectives today were searching for the hit-and-run motorist who killed Tony Raleski, 42, of Sygan, North Fayette Township, while he was walking in the Miller Run road, near Treveskyn, last night.

A motorist and his companion who found the victim took him to the office of a physician in Carnegie where he was pronounced dead.

GIRL SAVES SISTER

Lucille and her sister, Sophia, 16, were standing at South Twenty-seventh and Carson streets last night, waiting for traffic to pass when automobiles occupied, police said, by Matthew Kruska, of Clearview avenue, Duquesne, and Frank Cheska, Jr., of 319 West Eighth avenue, West Homestead, collided. Sophia did not witness the crash but Lucille did. Lucille shoved her sister away, but was unable to get away herself.

The machine overturned and caught Lucille's legs against the sidewalk. The girl, her legs fractured and body lacerated, was taken to South Side Hospital. Her condition was serious.

When a motorcycle he was riding crashed into an automobile driven by John J. Stishak, 28, of 2028 Wayne avenue, Swissvale, at Carson near South Twenty-first street, yesterday, Joseph J. Danas, of 666 Marshall avenue, suffered head lacerations and a broken nose. He is in St. Joseph's Hospital.

AUTO HITS WOMAN

Mrs. Veronica Rutkis, 63, of 6 Kirkpatrick street, was in the Montefiore Hospital with injuries suffered when she was struck by an automobile on the South Twenty-second Street Bridge Wednesday night.

Suffering a fractured leg and bruises when an automobile in which he was riding crashed into a pole in Fifth avenue yesterday, Abe Eskin, 35, of the Morrowfield Hotel, was taken to the Montefiore Hospital. Eskin was a passenger in a machine driven, police said, by E. A. Schrelnick, of 1025 Liberty avenue.

PATROLMAN HELD

Patrolman Howard Ruffner, of 14 Bly street, assigned to the Woods Run Station, was under suspension today after he is alleged to have driven his automobile through a red signal light at North avenue and Federal street late Wednesday and crashed into two other machines on the right of way.

N. W. James, of 2101 Olive street, and Henrietta Schwer, of 520 Chatauqua street, whose machines were struck by Ruffner's car, escaped injury, although both cars were damaged. Ruffner, who was arrested on a reckless driving charge following the collision, will be hailed before the police trial board on a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer, according to Inspector Charles Faulkner.

3 CARS HIT BEACON

A policeman was stationed to guard a beacon light at Sarah and South Fifteenth streets, after three automobiles had crashed against and moved it in three directions last night. Each time the light had moved at least 15 feet and put back in its place by emergency police.

Mrs. Jennie Wintner, 52, of 5734 Wilkins avenue, was treated at McKeesport Hospital for lacerations of the left knee suffered when struck by an automobile in Camp avenue, Duquesne, last night. She was taken home later.

Nick Tomich, 41, of Harmarville, sustained a possible fracture of the leg and lacerations of the face when he was struck by a car in the Freeport road, Harmarville. He was taken to Citizens General Hospital, in New Kensington.

'Second Christmas' Closes 30 Mines

HAZLETON, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Observance of what many people call "second Christmas" today caused suspension of work at 30 anthracite coal mines of the Lehigh district. Other industries were also affected more or less. Work will be irregular at most collieries and other plants until after the first of the year.

Tropic Oil Wells Yield Ice Supply

WESTMORELAND CRASHES KILL 5

GREENSBURG, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The number of dead as a result of holiday accidents in Westmoreland County increased to five today.

Walter Kowalsky, 20, Haydenville, driver of a car that struck a tree near here yesterday, died today. Stephen Opsitnik, 24, Haydenville, and William Nesbit, 22, Forbes road, were killed in the accident, and two other men were hurt.

John Brahosky, 18, Forbes Road, suffered a leg fracture. John Stameyer, 18, Forbes Road, was badly lacerated. Andrew Estok, 17, and Jack Dempsey, 17, both of Forbes Road, escaped unhurt.

A Pennsylvania Railroad train struck the car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alio Nico, their daughter, Helen, and Frank Tigano, at a New Kensington grade crossing. Nico and his wife were killed. All lived at Arnold.

METEOR SOUGHT IN IDAHO

LEWISTON, Idaho, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Scientists were searching today for fragments of the large meteorite which flashed its way across the Northern Idaho skies Christmas Eve, ending its flight in a blaze of light and an explosion which shook houses here.

As yet no pieces of the celestial object have been found nor has the place where it made contact with the earth been located. Residents of Lewiston, Colfax, Grangeville, Bovil and Kendrick saw the blaze of light and felt the shock about two minutes after the meteor's light appeared.

Prof. F. B. Laney, of the University of Idaho, expressed the opinion that the object was a meteor. He pointed out that it may have disintegrated through friction with the earth's atmosphere.

SLAYER OF GIRL ESCAPES MOB

MARYVILLE, Mo., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Raymond Gunn, 30, Negro ex-convict, was arraigned secretly here today on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Velma Colter, young rural school teacher. The prisoner was rushed back to jail at Kansas City for safe keeping.

Gunn, who officers say has confessed beating the girl to death in her rural school room December 16, was brought into court before dawn. He waived preliminary hearing and his case was set for trial next month. The Negro was in the city only 20 minutes.

Officers outwitted persons who had set a watch on the home of County Prosecutor Paul R. Jones in the hope of learning when Gunn would be brought here. To attend the arraignment the prosecutor remained away from home last night.

JEWS PLAN AID FOR PALESTINE

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Invitations are on their way to leading Jews throughout the United States to attend a conference here January 25 to organize a campaign to raise funds for reconstruction work in Palestine, the Jewish Agency for Palestine announced.

The conference expects to answer the Passfield White Paper which aroused a storm of protest when it announced a new British policy in Palestine.

Among signers of the invitation are Felix M. Warbury, Judge Julian W. Mack, Dr. Cyrus Adler, Dr. Stephen S. Wise and Dr. Solomon Lowenstein.

MAN FALLS ILL IN CELL, DIES IN HOSPITAL

North Side Prisoner Held As Intoxicated Until His Condition Grows Serious

Removed from a cell in the North Side Police Station, where he had been lodged several hours before on a charge of drunkenness, last night Thomas McLaughlin, 45, of 815 East Diamond street, was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where he died a short time later, according to a morgue report.

Deputy coroners reported that the victim, found lying in the street near his home, was taken to the hospital and then to the police station. Several hours later he became seriously ill and his removal to the hospital was ordered.

An autopsy at the county morgue disclosed acute alcoholism as the cause, it was reported.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Mother Gives Luncheon For Bud

Now that Christmas is over, and all the pre-Christmas parties, there is a great rush and bustle for pre-New Year affairs. For that matter, there is always a host of entertainments for the school set during the brief holiday and always there are parties for the debs.

One of this season's buds who is being much feted is Carolyn-Claire Snow, daughter of the L. Blaine Snows, of Kinsman road. Her mother is giving a luncheon for her today in the Twentieth Century Club, with sister buds and buds of the past season, as guests. Spring decorations, roses and ferns, are being used.

Mrs. Snow is wearing a princess gown of black chiffon, made very simply, and Carolyn-Claire is appearing in a modish black velvet gown, with a very long and flaring skirt. And she is wearing a corsage of spring flowers.

New parties for the school set will add color to the remainder of the holidays. Among them will be a tea dance Mrs. W. D. Craig, of Beaver, will give tomorrow in the Beaver Valley Country Club in honor of Dorothy Tappan, of Scranton, Pa.

Dance For Bud

Dorothy is a former classmate of Lorille Craig, Mrs. Craig's daughter, at Smith. And among the guests will be a number of Vassar girls, too, classmates of Norma Craig, and many former Birmingham School students. Aiding the hostess will be Mrs. T. W. D. Addenbrook and Mrs. T. B. Wade.

One of the most notable events of the Christmas season was the ball given Christmas eve by the Frank J. Kiers, of Beechwood boulevard, in their home in honor of their debutante daughter, Frances Myler Kier, and her fiance, Baron Jean Pellenc, of Paris. Frances wore white chiffon and sequins, and her mother, red satin.

Colorful Deb Ball

Festoons of silver leaves and silver-tipped poinsettias were used for the wall brackets in the ballroom and the chandelier. A low hedge of Australian pines, decked with silver ribbons, enclosed the orchestra in the reception hall, decorated with silver leaves and a large silver tree, gleaming with emerald green balls. The sun porch was transformed into a grotto where a fortune teller predicted all sorts of exciting things for the guests.

The dining room resembled a Hawaiian garden with palms and southern garlands and chattering parrots and canaries increasing the effect. Small tables were placed about the room.

Before the ball the J. Hartwell Killmans, of Fifth avenue, entertained with a dinner in honor of Elizabeth McKay, debutante daughter of the Thomas J. McKays, of Fifth avenue.

morrow night in the Twentieth Century Club before the Yale Glee Club concert. Her daughter, Margaret Phillips, home from Vassar, and her son, John M. Phillips, Jr., will aid her. The event is in honor of Elizabeth Bauer, of Princeton, and William Keesling, of Los Angeles, house guests of the Phillips family.

Margaret and her brother will give a tea Sunday afternoon for their guests, and on December 31 Margaret will entirtain at a small bridge for Elizabeth Bauer.

The Howard Heinzes, of Morewood Heights, gave a dinner-dance Christmas night in the Pittsburgh Golf Club in honor of Helen House, daughter of the Edward J. Houses. And members of the school set were guests. Christmas decorations were used.

January 5 is the date chosen by Miss Helen O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. O'Donnell, of McKean avenue, Donora, for her marriage to Vincent D. Sweeney, son of Mrs. Anna Sweeney, of Dormont, formerly of Donora, which will take place in St. Charles' Roman Catholic Church in Donora.

Wedding Date Set

Announcement was made of the engagement at a bridge party Thursday evening, December 18, by the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Arthur Smith, in her home in McKean avenue.

Miss O'Donnell is a graduate of Seton Hill and her fiance attended Carnegie Institute of Technology and Notre Dame University.

Christmas Offering Stolen from Church

TURNERS FALLS, Mass., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Vigil light coin boxes in two Catholic churches were robbed here between Christmas services. The amounts were unusually large, due to Christmas contributions.

LEATHER HATS TAKE HONORS IN THE LATEST SPORTS MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Leather is a leader in the sports hat field. For many years women have ordered their milliners to make hats of various leathers, including much suede for authentic sports wear, and patent leather has also found work to do, as it is much liked for pipings and bindings.

But now comes the gay and jaunty hat of bright leather cleverly combined with fabric. And it is smart enough to make the woman who has heretofore scorned such matter-of-fact things as sports clothes go athletic by at least equipping her wardrobe with a leather sports hat of the genre just introduced.

WOOLEN FABRICS remain undisturbed by the onslaught of leather, for every woman has included in her wardrobe such smart little toques of wool jersey in bright, happy colors. These are lovely and comfortable and what more could be asked of any bonnet? Brims are used, but are not much in evidence, as they are expertly rolled and manipulated to form a becoming frame to the face, which is really what a brim should do, particularly in the winter time.

THE DUO OF HATS depicted here represent two of the newest successes. The first model is by Camille Roger and is a sports model made of shiny leather in bright blue. The leather is almost as glossy as patent kid and this is set off by inset strips of matching blue wool jersey. The brim is rolled back from the face at the right side and above the left eye, where it is slashed and somewhat narrower than at the other side. The sketch shows the hat worn with a blue angora pull-over sweater which has a draped scarf collar and is tucked in at the waistline like a blouse.

SAFETY PRIZES FOR TEACHERS

Miss Eleanor F. Naughten, 5506 Bryant street, and Sister Louise Bertrand, O.S.D., St. Lawrence's School, were announced today as winners of the Better Traffic Committee's traffic safety lesson contest for teachers. Miss Naughten is a teacher at Peabody high school.

Accompanying their prizes from the committee, awarded by Walter Rosenbaum, are also the first prizes for public and parochial school teachers.

Miss Naughten's safety lesson, entitled "Let's Go," was in the form of a one-act play, teaching the dangers of traffic. Sister Louise Bertrand's dramatized traffic dangers as beasts preying on little children, controlled by traffic lights.

Other winners in the contest include: Sister Mary Agatha; Sister Sylvina; Sister M. Ambrosia; Laura M. Appel; Lucy S. McCarty; Grace L. Vensel; L. Adaline Walker; Margaret E. Herron; Hedwig O. Pregler; Helen M. Davidson.

North Sider Dies In Doctor's Office

Charles Lewis, 65, a roomer at 862 East Ohio street, fell dead early today, presumably from acute indigestion, in the office of Dr. J. S. Phillips, 614 Chestnut street, where he had stopped on his way to work to obtain relief from severe chest and stomach pains. The body was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy was to be performed.

WILL DEDICATE NEW RECTORY

Dedication of the new rectory of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Franklin avenue and Pitt street, Wilkinsburg, was to be held at 5 p. m. today. Assisted by the rector, the Rev. Dr. William Porkess, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, Episcopal bishop of Pittsburgh, was to officiate.

The new rectory is the result of a gift by Arthur L. Humphrey in honor of his mother. Humphrey was to make the presentation speech, with Mrs. Humphrey officially opening the rectory, being the first to turn the key in the lock and enter the building.

Scalded With Water In 'Jungle' Brawl

Scalded when a bucket of hot water was poured over him during a fight with three other Negroes in a tramp colony near the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, Hays, Mack Mitchell, 34, a Negro, who gave his address as "city," today was in the South Side Hospital. West Homestead police later arrested Charles Barnes, 50, of Butler; Theodore Michael, 29, of 1231 Whitcomb street, and W. M. Gill, 39, of Uniontown, Negroes, and turned them over to Pittsburgh police in connection with the alleged assault.

Airplanes Forced Off Course By Ducks

BALTIMORE, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Ducks have driven the airplanes out of the sky—at least in the vicinity of one Baltimore airport. Because the drone of the motors of low flying planes interefered with the shooting at blinds on rivers north of the city a delegation of sportsmen visited the officials of an airway passenger line operating between New York and Washington to protest. Line officials instructed their pilots passing over the area to swing to the north or south or else climb to extreme altitudes.

Women Industrial Workers Increased

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—More women than ever before are now employed in British industries, a total of 3,474,170. This is an increase of 500,000 since 1923.

DIVORCED WIFE OF GOULD DIES

LYNCHBURG, Va., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Gould, divorced wife of Howard S. Gould, is dead in the Virginia Baptist Hospital here today after an illness of several months. She will be buried in Spring Hill Cemetery here tomorrow.

During the last 10 years she had lived at Blue Gap Farm, eight miles from here, and had interested herself in civic betterment of that rural section.

Her suit for a limited divorce from Howard Gould, son and heir to a sixth of the estate of Jay Gould, which was begun in 1907, and remained in the courts of New York for two years, kept her name and the most personal of her affairs before the public during that period.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

With the season for dinner parties at hand, recipes for unusual dishes that will cause guests to exclaim with delight are very appropriate. Here are two chestnut delights. They are high in food value, not only because of the nuts, cream, eggs and milk, but also because sugar, a highly concentrated energy food, is used as a sweetener.

CHESTNUT CROQUETTES—2 cups large Italian chestnuts, boiled, peeled and mashed, 4 tablespoons heavy cream, yolks of 3 eggs, 2 teaspoons sugar.

Beat egg yolks slightly. Add these and other ingredients to chestnuts. Shape like other croquettes. Dip in cracker crumbs, egg yolk and cracker crumbs again. Fry in deep fat. Drain on brown paper. Serve with poultry.

CHESTNUT PUREE—Either the large French chestnuts or the small native kinds can be used for this tempting soup.

1 quart chestnuts, 1 pint white stock, 1½ pints milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons sugar, salt and pepper.

Shell and scald the chestnuts. Heat the stock and milk and thicken with the butter and flour. Add seasonings. Boil the chestnuts until soft and put through a potato ricer. Add to soup. Heat well.

Roll cream cheese into 12 small balls. Roll each ball in coconut, which has been either toasted or tinted. Arrange in nests of crisp lettuce, allowing 3 balls to each serving. Garnish with mayonnaise. Serves 4.

TOMATOES STUFFED WITH MACARONI—1 package macaroni, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 hard cooked egg, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ package cheese cut in pieces, 6 tomatoes, 1½ cups hot milk, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ cup bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons parsley.

Boil the macaroni in salted water. Drain. Cut off the tops of tomatoes and remove the pulp. In a double boiler, melt the fat, add the flour and when well blended pour in the hot milk. Cook for 10 minutes, then add cheese, salt and paprika and stir until thoroughly blended. Mix half the sauce with 1½ cups of the cooked macaroni and fill the tomatoes with the mixture. Cover the tops with buttered crumbs, dot with butter and bake until the tomatoes are tender and the crumbs brown. Put the tomatoes in the center of a platter, surround with remaining macaroni and pour remaining sauce over it. Garnish with the egg slices and parsley.

CEREAL SURPRISE—3 cups cooked granular whole wheat cereal, 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup raisins, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, vanilla.

Stir raisins into cooked cereal before it has become cold and set. Place in baking pan, and add sugar, salt and cinnamon. Scald the milk and pour over mixture, stirring well. Beat eggs and add, also vanilla to taste. Bake in moderate oven until brown—about 45 minutes. Serves eight.

BOILED HAM WITH VEGETABLES—1 shank end smoked ham, 5 small potatoes, 1 small head of cabbage, cut in fifths, 5 small onions, 3 small turnips, cut in quarters, 3 medium sized carrots, cut in quarters lengthwise.

Put the ham in a kettle of hot water and simmer for 1 hour before adding the vegetables. At the end of the first hour's cooking add the turnips and when these have cooked 15 minutes add the potatoes and cabbage; cook 30 minutes longer; remove the vegetables carefully so as not to break them in pieces and drain them thoroughly. Serve on a hot platter with butter dotted over them. Arrange with the ham in the center of the platter.

HAM CROQUETTES WITH GREEN PEAS—Two cups boiled ham, 3 egg yolks, 2 teaspoon butter, 2 cups mashed potatoes, 2 teaspoon cream, a dash of cayenne.

Chop the ham and add to the mashed potatoes. Then add the cream and butter and the yolk of two eggs, beaten well. Beat all together until smooth, then add a dash of cayenne; mold the ham into pyramid shapes of about a ginger in length. Roll in the beaten egg that remains, then roll in dried crumbs and fry in deep fat at a temperature of 300 degrees for 1½ minutes. Serve hot with canned peas.

SCALLOPED HAM AND POTATOES—One thick slice ham, 4 cups sliced raw potatoes, 1½ cups thin white sauce, salt and pepper.

Cut a slice of ham ½ inch thick and flour lightly. Fry each side until it begins to brown, then put into a baking dish, cover with the white sauce and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for ½ an hour. Turn and bake another hour. Cut pared potatoes into medium thick slices, boil until almost tender and drain. Arrange in casserole, lay the slice of ham on top and set in the oven to bake for 20 minutes.

CHILI CON CARNE—Cook macaroni until tender and drain. Fry 1 pound hamburger steak in a skillet with a little butter until brown. Pour into a deep pan. Slice 5 onions and fry until brown. Add to the meat. Then add 1 large can of tomatoes, 1 can kidney beans, 1 green pepper, chopped, and cooked macaroni. Season to taste with salt, pepper and paprika. Simmer 30 minutes. If too thick, thin with water.

TURKEY PIE—To 2 cups thick, rich turkey gravy or sauce, add 1½ cups cubed turkey, ½ cup potato slices, par boiled, and ½ cup parboiled carrot slices. Heat and season and pour into a buttered baking dish lined with pie crust—cover with a pie crust topping, prick and bake in the oven until the crust is done.

FRUIT AND NUT GELATIN SALAD—Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in ¼ cup cold water for 5 minutes. Heat 1 cup pineapple juice and dissolve the gelatin in it. Add ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup orange juice and ¼ cup vinegar and stir thoroughly. Allow mixture to cool and when starting to congeal fold in 1 cup orange sections cut in small pieces, 1 cup pineapple, cut in small sections, and ¾ cup walnut meats, chopped. Pour into individual molds and chill. Serve with mayonnaise.

BAKED ROUND STEAK—Have the round steak cut thick. Sear until nicely browned in a heavy frying pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and put 3 tablespoons butter on top of the steak, together with 3 tomatoes, peeled and sliced, a green pepper chopped, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, and a tablespoon chopped parsley. Put in a moderate oven and bake until tender, about 1 hour. Potatoes may be cooked right in with the meat; corn pudding for the vegetable and baked apples with rich cream complete a very satisfactory oven dinner.

TURKEY MOUSSE—Soak gelatin, 1 tablespoon, in ¼ cup of cold water about 5 minutes. Beat yolks of 3 eggs slightly in the top of the double boiler. Add ¼ teaspoon salt and then stir thoroughly. Add ¼ teaspoon paprika, then 1 cup turkey stock. Cook in the double boiler and when the mixture begins to thicken remove from the fire. Add the soaked gelatin and stir. Allow to cool slightly, add the 1 cup of turkey meat diced and ½ cup finely chopped almonds. Allow the mixture to cool and stir many times while cooling. When it begins to thicken fold in 1 cup of cream whipped. Rinse in a large cold mold in cold water and fill with the mousse. Chill thoroughly for several hours, unmold onto lettuce or watercress, garnish with slices of tomato and stuffed olives.

RICHMOND FILLING—½ cup white cream cheese, ½ cup chopped dates, 2 tablespoons chopped candied ginger, 1-3 cup finely chopped celery, 3 tablespoons soft butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons cream.

Mix ingredients and spread on thinly cut slices of white bread. Cover with buttered slices of bread and toast. Serve warm. Filling is enough for 12 sandwiches. These are excellent to serve for Sunday tea.

RICE LOAF (using leftovers)—2 cups cooked rice, 1 cup diced cooked meat, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 2 tablespoons finely chopped celery, 1 cup leftover gravy, meat stock or milk, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, melted, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Mix ingredients and press into a buttered mold. Bake 30 minutes in moderately slow oven. Unmold carefully and serve, cut in slices.

APPLE PUDDING—2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons fat, 2-3 cup milk, 2 cups sliced apples, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons butter, 2-3 cup water.

Mix the apples and water. Cook slowly 5 minutes. Add the sugar, cinnamon, lemon juice and butter. Pour into shallow, buttered pan. Mix the flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in the fat and add the milk. When soft dough forms, pat it out and fit over apples. Make 4 holes in top and bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

CANNELON OF BEEF—Two pounds of beef cut from the round, grated rind ½ lemon, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon onion juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Chop the meat very fine, add remaining ingredients in the order given. Shape into a roll 6 inches long, place on rack in dripping pan and place slices of salt pork over the top. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven, basting every 5 minutes with ¼ cup butter melted in 1 cup boiling water. Serve with a brown sauce.

OLD-FASHIONED PUMPKIN PIE FILLING—Two cups mashed cooked pumpkin, 1 cup dark brown sugar, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ginger, 2 eggs, 2 cups milk, 1 tablespoon butter, melted.

Mix the pumpkin, sugars, spices and salt. Beat thoroughly. Combine rest of ingredients. Mix all ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Pour into deep unbaked shell. Bake 1 hour in slow oven. Inspect

Apples Have Medicinal and Nutritive Value

Usually this fruit can be eaten in any form but where it results in digestive disturbances when eaten raw, it is best to serve the apples cooked.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City. Elected Senator From New York.

According to statistics the most widely used fruit is our ancient fruit, the apple. This orchard fruit is of great importance to our health and welfare.

We are familiar with the slogan "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." But we are not sure why the apple is a valuable fruit. Today I want to tell you a few reasons why we should include the apple in our diet.

Apples act as a laxative. They aid in the prevention of what is called the "deficiency diseases." They contain small amounts of certain vitamins. Besides all this they are delightful in flavor.

An occasional person finds the raw apple too strong a laxative. If this is the case eat it stewed, or in the form of apple sauce.

FOR THE INVALID

If you are preparing food for an invalid, it is best to have the apples cooked. Baked apples may also be served. The addition of cream and sugar increases the nutritive value of the dish.

To encourage the children to eat more apples why not have them play games with apples. The reward of winning the game would be the eating of the finest apples. Do you remember the grand old game of "bobbing" for apples? It used to be a great favorite at Hallowe'en parties. Instead of playing it once a year, have the children play it often. The apple may be used, too, in a hide and seek game.

MANY WAYS TO SERVE

Deep apple dish pie is a delicious dessert and should be served as an occasional treat for the adult. In one form and another this wholesome food should be eaten by everybody.

There are many ways of serving apples. If you turn to any cook book you will get many suggestions.

The apple is a fruit that should be eaten by young and old. As a rule it can be eaten raw without any difficulty. But if there is any digestive disturbances it is best served cooked.

The apple has a medicinal as well as a nutritive value. It is in every way an important addition to the diet.

Pittsburghers Go On West Indies Trip

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The list of holiday vacationists who spent Christmas at sea included Leroy Hill, Stewart Nicholson and Miss Glaser, of Pittsburgh, who sailed for a cruise in the West Indies aboard the Anchor liner California.

The travelers will visit Nassau and stop three days in Havana, where they will celebrate New Year's Eve.

YULE RUM KILLS 10 IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Poison liquor killed 10 persons, including a woman, and sent eight others to hospitals in serious condition yesterday. Among those gravely ill is a 16-year-old boy.

Deadly liquor apparently flowed to all sections of the city. Ambulance calls came in rapid succession. The woman, Mrs. Lena Gorman, 55, and homeless, was found dead in a vacant lot. The boy, Thomas Tracy, of the Bronx, was found helpless in a downtown subway station. Mrs. Mary Brennan, 39, was found downtown suffering from acute alcoholism.

Some died in the Bronx, some in Brooklyn and some on Long Island. The Lower East Side as usual bore the brunt of the casualties. Five victims were unidentified.

Unofficially it was reported streams of poteen, grade gin and whisky flooded the city.

frequently and turn the pie to allow even baking. Cool. Spread with whipped cream and serve.

The pie shell should be from 1½ inches to 2 inches deep.

MOLDED BEET SALAD—½ tablespoonful of gelatine, 2 tablespoonfuls of cold water, ¾ cupful of boiling water, ½ tablespoonful of sugar, ½ teaspoonful of salt, ½ teaspoonful of mustard, 2 tablespoonfuls of vinegar, 2 tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, 2 cupfuls of cooked beets diced, ½ cupful of chopped celery.

Soak the gelatine in cold water. Dissolve in the boiling water. Add the sugar, seasonings, vinegar and onion. Allow the mixture to cool and begin to set, then add the beets and celery. Mold in individual dishes and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise and hard cooked egg white.

CRANBERRY TART—1½ cupfuls of cranberries, ½ cupful of water, ¾ cupful of sugar, pinch of salt.

Sort and wash the cranberries. Add the water and cook in a covered pan for about 10 minutes, or until the skins burst. Add the sugar and salt, allow to cool and pour into a pie plate lined with pastry. Arrange a lattice of strips of pastry across the top and bake in a moderate oven until brown. The cranberry mixture may be also baked in individual pastry cases with or without the lattice decoration.

BEEF JELLY—One-half teaspoon gelatin, ½ cup beef broth, 1 tablespoon boiling water, 1 tablespoon cold water, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Soften the gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water, add to the beef juice and season with salt and a little pepper. Strain into individual molds. Serve on the day it is prepared. In place of beef broth, beef cubes may be used with the same results.

NODDLE OMELET—½ package egg noodles, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, dash pepper.

Boil the noodles, brown in butter, pour with milk and seasonings. Cook slowly until browned and set. Fold as any omelet.

WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO UPSET

READING, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Death stalked the Shillington pike Christmas Eve, adding a tragic climax to a happy family party, and bringing a bleak holiday to the home of John F. Shappell, of this city.

Shappell's wife, Mrs. Jennie J. Shappell, 51, died at the Reading Hospital from injuries received when the automobile in which she and her husband and two friends were driving to their homes from a yule-holiday family gathering.

The accident was caused, according to the report of Dr. A. D. Funk, deputy coroner, by the blowing out of a front tire of the car, which caused the machine to turn over. Mrs. Shappell was pinioned beneath it.

A passing motorist took the injured woman to the hospital where she died of internal injuries about 10 minutes later. Shappell received minor cuts and bruises. Mr. and Mrs. Dengler, the friends, escaped injuries.

Man Slain, Alleged Razor Wielder Held

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 26.—Herman Cover, 45, a Spaniard, of Fredericktown, was fatally wounded in a quarrel in his boarding house. Officers arrested Tony Pezzli, 45, Italian, alleged to have attacked Cover with a razor in a fight that ended an alleged drinking party.

Louis Michell, 42, French, proprietor of the board house, and Lorraine Pierri, 41, Spanish, were also held. Pezzli is alleged to have also attacked Pierri, cutting off one of his fingers.

Washington County Nabs Liquor Loads

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 26.—Officers in Northern Washington County waged warfare on liquor runners traversing the William Penn highway with Christmas liquor supplies, and a dozen drivers and assistants were held in the county jail.

Constables Mike Robb and Joe Pollock checked the cars as they came through the district. The haul included large quantities of moonshine in five-gallon tins and several cases of alleged bootleg whisky.

Will Hear Reports In Redistricting

The Redistricting Commission, working on the formation of new election districts in Allegheny County, will hear reports January 5, at 2:30 p. m., on divisions to be established in Brentwood, Mansfield, West Homestead, Whitaker, Bridgeville and Mifflin Township. Reports of the investigating committee and exceptions will be filed at the hearing on the seventh floor of the City-County Building.

'Pen' Chaplain Plans School for Convicts

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 26.—Under the direction of the Rev. W. C. Harold, Protestant chaplain, a school for convicts has been organized at the State Penitentiary here, representing the first attempt ever made to educate prisoners beyond the elementary principles. For many years classes have been held for the illiterate.

The new school will be started January 1. Books and equipment have been supplied by the State Board of Control.

BEGINNING Monday, January 12th, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will publish in daily installments, "My Experiences in the World War," by General John J. Pershing, Commander-in-Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces. His account covers the entire period from his appointment by President Wilson in 1917 until the signing of the Armistice in 1918—an absorbing and revealing narrative giving actual transcripts of historic incidents and history-making conferences. Many hitherto unpublished documents are included.

Blocking's Banner Year. Finally Gets Its Due. Hockey Bans Ball Glove. Third Base Cub Worry. To Treat Bell's Arm. Settle Flyweight Title.

BIG GRID FACTOR OFTEN OVERLOOKED

IF THE FOOTBALL season of 1930 did one thing out of the ordinary it was to impress upon the public more forcibly than ever before the vitally important part that blocking plays in the winning of gridiron games. There was nothing new in the lesson, of course, for the same thing has been going on ever since the game developed into its present form. But a large percentage of the cash customers appeared to be "getting" it for the first time, becoming aware at last that blocking has a value that cannot be too highly estimated.

Marty Brill

They realize now why a player such as Marty Brill, of Notre Dame, for instance, was rated by a number of football's recognized authorities above many other backfield men who did a great deal more ball-carrying of a flashy order. They know now why Brill, though he did not tote the leather to any great extent until this year, was looked upon in 1929 as one of Notre Dame's most important cogs and one of the most valuable gridders in the country. It was because Brill had no superiors and few equals as a blocker, It was his blocking that made possible many a brilliant run by some other back.

IT WAS NOTRE DAME that brought out the value of blocking in 1930 more clearly than it had been brought out by any team in any previous season. That was the real secret of the South Benders' remarkable strength and success—superb blocking. There was no extraordinary deception about Notre Dame's plays in the main. They were put over largely because, like Brill, all the other players were skilled in the art of taking out opponents who might obstruct the path of the ball carrier.

In spite of all the stories of trick plays and deception that are told annually about any successful team, it's through the fundamentals that the average football game is won. And Knute Rockne's thoroughness in fundamentals, notably blocking, is one of the chief reasons why he wins. That applied particularly to the wonder eleven of 1930. It was perhaps the greatest blocking machine of all time. The great off-tackle runs of Marchy Schwartz and others, the going-home play that featured several games, were due to the skillful blocking of the mates who cleared the lane for them.

THE IMPORTANT PART that Brill played in all this explains why he has been given so high a rating. As one veteran points out, there was a time when a back could limit his work to carrying the ball, when he was judged largely by the runs he made, but the game has become more intricate.

Ernie Pinckert

With the involved offense now in use backs must be able also to block, tackle, forward pass, punt, place or drop kick, as well as run. Schwartz was a player of varied talents. He could carry the ball, kick and pass, but the item that made his outstanding talent—ball-carrying—count, was the blocking of Brill, just as Ernie Pinckert aided the runners for Southern California.

AND WHAT HAS come to be noticed on Notre Dame teams—that the man carrying the ball is not always the real hero of a successful play—is now being noticed also on other elevens. The man lugging the oval wasn't given all the credit by many fans this year as in other campaigns. Aside from the Schwartz-Brill case, such flashy ball carriers as Macaluso, of Colgate; Viviano, of Cornell; Booth, of Yale; Russell, of Northwestern; Dickens, of Georgia; Stecker, of Army, and Duffield, of Southern California, had to share the praises of the critics and fans with the deadly blocking brigade—Clark and Woodworth, of Northwestern; Hein, of Washington State; Ticknor, of Harvard; Dalrymple, of Tulane; Pinckert, of Southern California, and others. It takes the blockers to shake the ball carrier loose, and the team that lacks good blocking won't get very far. That's one of the big reasons why Notre Dame is great.

SOME STRANGE PENALTIES have been handed out in hockey games in Pittsburgh and elsewhere during the long years of the ice sport, but an interscholastic league in Brooklyn comes to the front with a brand new one. Eddie Anderson, goalkeeper for Jamaica school, was ruled off the ice during a game with Erasmus Hall on the unusual charge of illegal equipment because he was using a baseball glove.

Anderson, who plays third base for his school nine, has been using his baseball glove to aid him as a hockey goalie for two seasons and got away with it until the other night, when the Erasmus coach discovered it, complained to the referee and had the player ordered off for a minute and forced to discard that part of his equipment. Furthermore he has protested the game on the ground that the glove prevented possible Erasmus goals, and if the protest is sustained Jamaica may have to forfeit or replay every game it has won this season.

WITH THE PITCHING staff bolstered, third base has become the main worry of the Cub management in connection with the 1931 pennant race. Having failed in his efforts to buy Pinky Whitney from the Phillies, Rogers Hornsby has decided tentatively to use Lester Bell at the hot corner, but the condition of Bell's throwing arm presents a problem.

The ailing whip kept Lester out of commission during the greater part of last season, and unless it regains its old power it would be useless to figure on starting him as one of the regular infield quartet next spring.

Lester Bell

BUT HORNSBY HASN'T given up. After Gabby Hartnett's remarkable recovery following an absence of a whole year, Rogers won't believe that any throwing arm can become so bad that it can't be cured. So he is going to try a special course of treatment in the hope of bringing Bell around. Lester has been ordered to go to Los Angeles early in January and place himself in the hands of a noted bone and muscle manipulator who has treated many other ball players with success. Hornsby hopes that by the time the Cubs reach Catalina Island in February for spring training he will be able to tell whether or not Bell will be ready when the season opens. If the chances are not favorable, the third-base feature of the Cub outlook for 1931 is going to be decidedly up in the air.

A READER WRITES to ask for information as to whether Binghamton, N. Y., ever was represented by a baseball club in what is now named the International League, and, if so, how long it has been since that city dropped out. Binghamton was a member of the circuit when it was known as the Eastern League and won the pennant in 1892.

That membership continued until August 16, 1894, when the Binghamton club disbanded after playing 80 games and the franchise was transferred to Allentown. Troy had quit on July 26 of the same season, being replaced by Scranton. The other cities in the league that year were Providence, Erie, Wilkes-Barre, Syracuse, Buffalo and Springfield, Mass.

ONE OF THE absurd situations arising from a division of authority, or assumed authority, in the boxing game, is due to be straightened out tonight, when Midget Wolgast and Frankie Genaro meet for 15 rounds in New York with the world flyweight championship at stake on the outcome.

As matters stand at present, with New York insisting on being

COMOROSKY HAS MOST TRIPLES, SACRIFICES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

William H. (Bill) Terry, the Giants' de luxe firsthaseman, led the batters of the National League this year with a grand mark of .401. Official batting figures for the league, issued today, disclose that Memphis Bill was given quite a battle for the coveted honor, Babe Herman, the Brooklyn star, winning the runner-up honors with a season compilation of .393.

Bill Terry

Others who made the journey rough for the fine gateway tender and brilliant swatter, were Chuck Klein and Frank O'Doul, of the Phillies, and Fred Lindstrom, one of Terry's teammates, who finished in the order named.

A striking contrast, which seems to emphasize the livel ball, is noted in Terry's remarkable batting figure and the mark compiled by another Giant 15 years ago. In 1915 Larry Doyle led the senior major circuit with .320. Doyle was conceded to be a great hitter; perhaps not as effective as is Terry, still a star at the plate. But Doyle's mark was far below the figure reached by Terry. In those days new balls were not put in play with such frequency as is now observed, and the rockets apparently were shy of the "rabbit" features that are in evidence in the present era. Incidentally, no other Giant batter won the honor in the 15-year interim.

EQUALS O'DOUL'S MARK

Terry led the league in hits with 254, his total tying the record made by O'Doul last year. And while Bill is a distinctive slugger he was out in front with the most one-basers, his card showing 177.

Klein was an outstanding batter throughout the season. The powerful Quaker star topped the long-distance hitters by hitting for a total of 445 bases.

Chuck hung up two new records in his great season: he scored 158 runs to break the mark held by Rogers Hornsby, who tallied 156 times last year. Klein poled out 59 doubles for a new league mark, his feat eclipsing that of Ed Delehanty, who connected for 56 two-sackers back in 1899.

Hack Wilson, the Cubs' home-run king, established a new home-run record, an achievement which has been recorded many times. Wilson's 56 round-trippers was far in front of the 43 made by Klein last year.

COMMY A LEADER

The Pirates had a batting leader in Adam Comorsky. The Polish Flyer clicked off 23 triples to lead the league, and Commy was out in front in sacrifice hits with 33.

Hazen Cuyler copped the base-stealing honors for the third year in succession. The fleet Cub stole 37 bases.

The players have been classified into three groups, according to the number of games played.

Six players took part in all their clubs' games: Klein and Thevenow, of Philadelphia; Cuyler and English, of Chicago; Terry, of New York, and Douthit, of St. Louis. Seventy-one players hit for .300 or better, 11 more than in 1929.

The Giants, as a club, batted .319, for a new modern record. The former mark of .309, was made by Pittsburgh in 1928 and Philadelphia in 1929.

CHAMPS SCORE OFTEN

St. Louis led in scoring runs, with 1,004, and made the most two-base hits, 373, both totals being new high marks for the league. The previous record for runs scored was 982, set by Chicago in 1929, and for doubles, 316, made by Pittsburgh in 1925.

Philadelphia went to bat the most times, 5,667, gathered the most hits, 1,783, and allowed their opponents the most runs, 1,199, all new league records. St. Louis, in 1923, had set the at bat record with 5,526, and Pittsburgh held the record for base hits, with 1,698 in 1922. Philadelphia allowed the most opponents' runs previous to 1930 with a total of 1,032 made in 1929. Brooklyn held their opponents to the smallest total of runs scored, 738.

Chicago made the most total bases on hits, 2,684, and the most home runs, 171, both totals superseding the existing high marks. The former record for total bases was 2,559, and for home runs 153, both made by Philadelphia in 1929.

Pittsburgh collected the most three-base hits, 119, the most sacrifice hits, 196, and showed the way around the bases, with 76 stolen bases.

STRIBLING DECLINES MATCH

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 26.—(INS.)—Pa Stribling, father-manager of Young Stribling, today said he had refused an offer of the Madison Square Garden Corporation to match his son with Jack Sharkey in an indoor bout at the Garden in February or March. Stribling said he had an agreement with the Chicago Stadium for a bout.

KIT CARSON—Christopher (Kit) Carson, who occupies the position of the typical frontier hero and Indian fighter of the latter period of American pioneer history and whose hairbreadth escapes and personal prowess are the subject of innumerable stories, actually won a hand-to-claw battle with a mountain lion after losing his rifle. The story is told in detail in Buffalo Bill's "Story of the Wild West."

TOMORROW: AN ILLUSTRIOUS LADY OF THE SOUTH.

COAST BATTLE ON AIR

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—East meets West here tomorrow in the last of the great football classics.

Twenty-two of the greatest football players in the country, gathered from practically every section of the country, have been in training for the past week for the game.

It is the only game where the real All-Americas are brought together as teams. And they play for real charity, for the little crippled children who are made well and strong in the Shriners' Hospital here.

When such great stars as Hart, of Colgate; Baker, of Pitt; Malacusa, of All-America fame; Ted Beckett, of California; Siano, of Fordham; Kitzmiller, of Oregon; Selby, of Ohio State; Brockmeyer, of Minnesota; Jim Bausch, of Kansas; Bruder, of Northwestern, and a score of others romp on the field the Columbia networks will be tuned into the game.

The game is played in Kezar Stadium in San Francisco's famous Golden Gate Park. Previous to the game Army, Navy, Shrine patrols and bands, Army bands, R. O. T. C. battalions and bands hold sway.

Promptly at 2 o'clock, Pacific Coast time, the Columbia network swings into Golden Gate Park, near the Golden Gate, and from then on Ernie Smith will tell of every move on the field.

During half time the Hearst Radio Service has arranged to have Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, and governor-elect of California, greet the nation. Noted coaches gathered from various sections of the country will also talk, interpreting the plays of the famous players.

The Columbia Broadcasting System and the Hearst Radio Service invite you to listen.

DE PAUL NAMES LEADER

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Gerald (Red) Harrington, of Sioux City, Ia., will captain De Paul University's football team next season. He plays either quarterback or fullback.

Italian Captures Chilly Holiday Swim in Seine

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—In water only six degrees above freezing, 21 hardy swimmers today leaped off the south bank of the River Seine in front of Invalides Square, for the annual Christmas cup swimming race across the river.

Only 10 finished. Some were carried 600 to 900 yards down stream by a strong tide before they managed to land on the other side; others were taken out of the water nearly frozen.

The winner was Gambi, of Italy, with Cartonnet, France, second, and Malfait, of Belgium, third.

Quality rather than quantity features tonight's basketball schedule in the Greater Pittsburgh district. While many of the leagues are enjoying breathing spells due to the holidays, Pittsburgh's supporters of the popular winter indoor sport will not be without first-class attractions.

Ziggy Kahn

Featuring tonight's programme is the battle between Fintex, leader in the Allegheny County League, and Ziggy Kahn's smooth-working Irene Kaufmann Settlement House floor machine on the Center avenue court. The Settlement House passers have been pointing for this game all season and will be out to hand the Fintex passers their second reverse in non-league competition. The Y. M. H. A. turned the trick several weeks ago.

The J. J. Mieles will make an attempt to get back in the running for the Allegheny County League title by opposing Ellwood City on the Columbus Temple floor.

Fintex, leading the way in the County League race with six victories and one defeat, is not expecting a soft assignment at the I. K. S. The Fintex passers realize they are going up against a tough opponent in the Settlement quintet. The Settlement's best feat of the season to date was a victory over Crick Davies' Duquesne University varsity.

The big local holiday battle yesterday saw Y. M. H. A. bow in defeat before the Cleveland Penzoils 39-24, on the Oaklanders' floor. Y. M. H. A.'s Varsity B team nosed out Canton (O.) Y., 29-25, and the Trojans beat the Skylark Club, 34-6, in other city contests.

The Jeannette Felders romped off with a 37-17 win over the Griffin Oilers, of Glassport, at Jeannette, while the Westminster Collegians invaded the court of the Charleroi Merchants to win, 51-30.

Karcher, Pirate Rookie, is Shot During Brawl

EASTON, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—George Karcher, 23, Phillipsburg, N. J., who is slated to make the training trip with the Pittsburgh Pirates in spring, is a patient at the Easton Hospital for treatment for a gunshot wound of the right foot and leg.

The wounding of Karcher followed a bit of rough house play at the Mountain Springs Hotel Early Christmas morning, according to the story told police by the roadhouse manager. Karcher and four other young men entered the place and acted disorderly. Gus Gromwald, 19, an employe of the hotel, did the shooting. There have been no arrests so far.

SKIBOS VISIT YOUNGSTOWN TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

While Pitt marks time before its tough battle with the Orange of Syracuse University at the Stadium Pavilion tomorrow night, Carnegie Tech's passers pry off their lid tonight, with a game against the Youngstown Y. M. C. A. at Youngstown. The proteges of Coarh Buzz Hogan hope to get off on the right foot in this practice tilt as a forerunner to a fine all-round good season.

Coarh Hogan is not set on his starting lineup, and will not make a definite decision until game time, but the chances are that he will use Capt. George Nease and Red Fergus at the forwards, with Stents, the rangy sophomore, at center and little Jimmy Leonard and either Webster or Harry Seigal at the guards.

The Youngstowners gave the Plaid a hefty argument last year in the inaugural tussle and there is no reason to suppose that they will not repeat tonight.

ORANGE FIVE STRONG

Syracuse will take the floor tomorrow night with the same five men who defeated Pitt last season. Two of them, Capt. Ken Beagle and Everett Katz, won all-collegiate honors last year.

Katz was rated one of the best guards to come out of the East in recent years, and so far this year his reputation has not suffered. Beagle, the captain of this year's team, succeeding Lou Hayman, last year's leader, who is still with the club, was also mentioned on all of the all-star combinations picked last year. In the East, however, Hayman was reckoned the better man.

Besides these three men, Syracuse has two other stars, Elliot, a center, and Fogarty, a guard, being well-known court artists. It was Fogarty who was assigned to watch Hyatt last year, and he held the Pitt leader down.

DOC WANTS WIN

This Syracuse game is the one contest the Braddock physician wants to win. The action promises to be fast, as he has persuaded his men to feel the same way.

Doc Kowallis is due to ride the bench again Saturday night. His arm is still in bad shape, although there is no bone fracture. His place will be taken by either Milt Cohen or Tippy Kowallis.

PITT ENGINEERS COP

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 26.—The Pitt Engineers took an easy 70-39 victory over the Steubenville Ross Brothers here last night, in a fast floor battle. In the prelim the Engineers Reserves scored a 73-31 triumph over the Wheeling Collegians. The lineup:

Pitt Eng.—70.		Steubenville—39.
Potter	F	Charles
Hearn	F	Robert
Hlock	C	George
Rapp	G	Chester
Cuba	G	Ray

Substitutions—Engineers: Clark, Caldwell, Curtis, Fisher, Wilbur, Henry, Hithering-ton; Ross Brothers: Harry, Edward. Field goals—Potter 8, Hearn 4, Hlock 6, Rapp 4, Cuba 3, Clark 2, Curtis 3, Charles 2, Robert, George 5, Chester, Ray 2, Harry 2, Edward 4. Fouls—Pitt Engineers, 16 out of 15; Ross, 5 out of 8. Referee—Charlton, Bethany.

BELMONT STOPS BUD STEWART

Jimmy Belmont knocked out Buddy Stewart in one minute eight seconds of the first round of their scheduled 10-round main bout, carded as the feature setto of the relief benefit show in the Rialto Theater, Aliquippa, yesterday. Although the card was one of the finest offered Ohio Valley fans in many a day, only a small crowd turned out for the affair.

Mike Lynch, of Erie, defeated Joe Campbell, of Aliquippa, in the six-round semi-final. Lynch had an edge in experience on the home town lad.

The second bout also ended in the first round after one minute and 10 seconds, when Lee Perr, of Philadelphia, caught Jack O'Brien with a wild swing and dropped the local boy, who tried to rise but was halted. Perr was awarded a technical knockout.

East-West Game May Be Aerial Duel

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—With seasoned passers and receivers lining up with both the East and West, fans look forward to brilliant aerial attacks in the annual charity football game here tomorrow.

A half-dozen backs with either squad can throw the pigskin—Bruder, of Northwestern, and Hart, of Colgate, for the East, and Kitzmiller, of Oregon, and Bausch, of Kansas, are aces in this department.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—(INS.)—The Notre Dame all-stars today were favored to defeat a team of picked athletes from various colleges when the two teams clash in a charity game here tomorrow.

DUNDEE OUTGENERALS M'TIERNAN TO WIN

FOE TOO FAST, SMART FOR LOCAL MAN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J., erstwhile "kid brother" of, and a "ringer" in action for, Joe Dundee, the former welterweight champion, proved too ringwise for Buck McTiernan, promising young junior-middleweight, of Swissvale, in their 10-round main bout before a large holiday crowd at Motor Square Garden yesterday afternoon and handily carried off the unanimous decision of the judges and the referee at the finish.

Dundee knew too many tricks of the trade for the clever McTiernan and only at rare intervals was Buck able to flaunt his best stuff. Dundee continuously got the jump on his foe and beat him to the punch and executed many smart maneuvers in the way of head-slipping of punches in mid-ring and trapping Buck on the ropes and outfighting him in the clinches.

BUCK IS ERRATIC

The result was that McTiernan, who appeared so flashy in his most recent start up to yesterday, when he handed out a one-sided beating to Sergt. Sammy Baker, looked anything but impressive. Instead of being his usual calm, collected and steady self, he was unsteadiness personified and erratic over most of the route.

It was not a sensational fight, and Referee Al Grayber felt called upon several times to spur Dundee on to his best efforts. However, it was convincing enough of the fact that Dundee was McTiernan's master in ring science. He boxed and fought alternately and paced himself nicely. He is not a deadly hitter, but he has his brother Joe's straight right drive to the body that commands respect and hits freely with both fists and knows how to mix up his stuff to keep his opponent guessing.

DUNDEE TAKES LEAD

They fought on fairly even terms in the opening round and the next two went to Dundee. Here McTiernan began to catch himself and settle down to boxing and hitting cleanly and he took the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds by slight margins. Beginning with the seventh round, however, Dundee forged to the front again, to carry all of the last four sessions by varying margins. In the seventh and eighth, Buck did little fighting back in the clinches, while Dundee kept banging him with his right. McTiernan fought hard in the last two rounds, the best of the bout for action, but found Dundee just a bit ahead of him in each.

There were no knockdowns and at no time was either man in danger. Dundee took McTiernan's straight rights to the head and left hooks to the jaw and body without showing signs of distress, while his own rights lacked power except to the body. McTiernan slipped down and up near the end of the fifth round, while the bell at the finish of the seventh found him swaying into the ropes in a neutral corner with Dundee tripping over him.

Dundee weighed 155½ pounds and McTiernan 153 at 10 a. m.

TRIPPE RALLIES TO WIN

Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., 146, came from behind with a body attack that weakened Billy Holt, Negro, of Homewood, 145½, so much that he held and covered and ran and finished the eight-round semi-final in dire straits to lose the decision when the judges disagreed. Judge Frank Brown voted for Holt and Judge Jock Simco and Referee Red Robinson for Trippe. The decision was unpopular with the crowd, but was fair, although close.

Holt, boxing a beautiful counter fight, decisively outpunched his veteran opponent throughout the first four rounds and piled up a big edge before he made the mistake of slugging and being worsted in the fifth. He went back to boxing in the sixth, which he won, but wilted completely when Trippe put on his sensational finish, in which he chased and "bulled" Holt from rope to rope and weakened him with body punches until he had him doubled and on the verge of going out in both of the last two rounds. Considering the fact that Trippe took all Holt had in the early stages without flinching and then came on and both outgamed and outpunished him and had him near a knockout at the final bell, the decision could not have been other than it was, although Holt won five of the eight rounds.

Billy Bulley, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., 146, making his local debut, against Larry Kaufman, of Louisville and McKeesport, 141½, in the second bout of six rounds, won all of the way. He proved a fine two-fisted fighting machine and will be welcomed back.

Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, 121½, was entirely too rugged for Don Frazier, Negro, of the Hill, 127½, and won every round of the six-round opener.

The net gate receipts were $5,328, of which each of the main bout principals received 25 per cent.

RODGERS-DATTO NEXT

Four referees worked the card. Al Grayber handled the main bout, Red Robinson the semi-final, Joe Keally the second bout and Jack Henderson the first event. A. C. Couch and Norman Borland were the timers and Harry Klaas did the announcing. It was announced that Jackie Rodgers will box Johnny Datto in the main bout New Year's afternoon. This pair have been matched several times before, with the bout always failing to come off.

M'TIERNAN DUNDEE REFEREE AL GRAYBER

A bit of battling in the fourth round of the windup battle at Motor Square Garden yesterday afternoon in which Vince Dundee, of Newark, N. J., won over Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale.

Fight Results

At Motor Square Garden—Vince Dundee defeated Buck McTiernan, 10 rounds; Joe Trippe won referee's decision over Billy Holt, 8 rounds; Billy Bailey defeated Larry Kaufman, 6 rounds; Angelo Vergione defeated Don Frazier, 6 rounds.

CRAWLEY BOXES ANDRUCCI

Pittsburgh's second professional boxing show in two days is slated for tonight in the Moose Temple, downtown, where Promoter Apples Meyers is offering a main bout between Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, and Andy Andrucci, of the East End, lightweight rivals.

A lively battle is expected, since both principals are noted for the action they give in their bouts.

Phil Goldstein, Hill district lightweight, who has boxed Crawley four times, will appear in a new role as the latter's chief second.

A good preliminary card has been arranged. Al Becker, of Sheraden, boxes Billy Flanagan, Clearfield middleweight, in the semi-final; Marcus Noll, local Negro middleweight, and Frankie Frey, of New Castle, are in the second bout, and Joey Speigel, southpaw former national junior amateur lightweight champion, and Tommy Ward, of the South Side, box the first bout at 8:30.

Between Rounds

Tiger Joe West and K. O. Kelly box the main bout of a show at Franklin, Pa., New Year's afternoon. Larry Madge and Larry Kaufman are in the semi-final.

JACKETS AWAIT SYRACUSE

By CARL W. SHATTO.

The fighting Yellow Jackets, who have not suffered defeat on home ice since November 20, probably will add to their string of Duquesne Garden successes when they meet the Syracuse Stars here tomorrow night.

In their last start, last Tuesday night, the local puckmen held Windsor's high-scoring, second-place Bulldogs to a 4-4 deadlock, and this despite the fact that they were without the services of Gordy Fraser and Duke McCurry, defense aces, out for more than two weeks with a broken hand and broken ribs, respectively.

STARS RETURN

Well, both Fraser and McCurry will be back in the lineup tomorrow night, according to an announcement by President-Manager Roy D. Schooley today, and the fans who know these stalwarts know that the announcement bodes nothing but ill for the visitors.

Fraser will team with burly Art Berlett at the starting defense points, and Roger Smith and Leo Reise will provide relief. This is the first time that Schooley has had two sets of capable guards available since the season opened, and Goalie Cox will have stronger protection than ever before.

With four experienced defense men ready for service, Duke McCurry probably will confine his activities to the front lines. Duke ranked among the league's leading goal-getters when he was forced out with injuries, and he is almost certain to add to the Jackets' punch.

The locals have further cause for cheering in the showing of Eddie Ouellette in recent fights. Eddie is a battler who likes his hookey rough, and in "finding himself" he has given Schooley a valuable addition to his front line forces.

Mickey McGuire's fine work against Windsor indicates that he has completely recovered from his ankle injury, and Schooley is convinced that at last his stalwarts are "set to go." The Jackets are to play three more games at the Garden before taking to the road again, and the local ice chief is confident that these battles will mark the beginning of a long victory string.

QUAKERS IN FIGHT

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—After the Boston Bruins piled up an eight-goal lead on the scoreless Philadelphia Quakers in a National League hockey game here last night, the latter players dropped their sticks and engaged in a savage melee with their high-scoring rivals.

The battle started when Milks, Philly forward, struck George Owen, who had checked him near the Boston net. Eddie Shore, aggressive Bruin defense star, rushed to Owen's aid, but Allen Shields crossed his path and they swapped blows. Every player on the ice, with the exception of Petch Cude, the Quakers' goalie, then entered the fray, and peace was not restored until a dozen policemen were rushed onto the ice.

Referees Bill Shaver and Mickey Ion went into a long conference and imposed major penalties on Owen, Shore, Clapper, Milks, Coulson and Shields, the players most conspicuous in the most disorderly hockey scene ever staged in Boston.

The police detail came out again, just before time expired, when Jerry Lowery struck Marty Barry during a mid-ice scrimmage. Lowery, the officials decided, was at a fault, and he received a major penalty, a minor being imposed on Barry. Fines of $15 accompanied each major penalty.

MORGAN SOCCER CLUB SUFFERS FIRST DEFEAT

YESTERDAY'S SCORES.

Dunlevy	3—Morgan 1
Bridgeville	2—Ft. Pitt 1
Douglas	3—Urban Heights 1
Sto-Rox	4—Bridgeville 2
National Tube	4—Carbon Steel 1

By TOM BIRKS.

Splendid shooting on the part of young Urbanic provided one of the biggest upsets in local soccer, the Dunlevy team handing the great Morgan club its first defeat of the season, 3 goals to 1, to enter the semi-final round of the West Penn cup. About 5,000 fans watched the game, played at Dunlevy.

When a soccer player beats Bobby Boyle, the peer of all goalkeepers, three times in one game, and two of the shots from beyond the 20-yard radius, then he is hitting the ball hard. That is just what young Urbanic did.

BUFF DONELLI STOPPED

Morgan, by reason of its undefeated record, started an overwhelming favorite. Dunlevy is, and always has been, one of the greatest cup-fighting aggregations playing soccer, and Morgan never had a chance to win. This was probably due to the fact that Buff Donnelli was not in the picture. George Grandy and Lance Smith played the brother-act to perfection, and Buff never had a shot at goal.

The game was only 15 minutes old when the first goal was scored. Urbanic received the ball 20 yards out and flashed it into the corner of the net. Chappell and Villani played great defensive soccer for the Millers' Run boys. Another combined rush downhill by Dunlevy found Bobby Boyle beaten again, but Matthews fisted the ball out of the goal. Urbanic took the spot kick, and Boyle was beaten yet another time. That ended the scoring in the first half.

In the second, kicking downhill, fans figured Morgan would tie the score, but it failed. The game went along until 15 minutes from its end when Berchini and Villani got into an argument and Referee Evans banished them.

FRED DONNELLI TALLIES

With only three minutes to go, Fred Donnelli dashed down the field, beat both fullbacks and, shooting from five yards, easily got past Dolphi.

This setback did not hurt Dunlevy, for the center was taken and down to the other end of the field went the home forwards. Urbanic took aim, and fired the ball into the corner of the net for the third and final goal.

The other two cup tie games ended in ties. Bridgeville and the Pittsburgh Rovers finishing 1-1 at Bridgeville, and Clan Douglas tied Crafton Heights, 3-3, at Crafton. The two replays will take place on New Year's Day, with the Rovers at Leslie Park, and Douglas at Westinghouse High School field.

Heidelberg's eleven came through to rout Bridgmont, 5-2, and National Tube won from the Clairton Stars, 4-2, in other holiday battles.

The scheduled contest tomorrow between Pierpoint Motors and Mesta Machine has been postponed, leaving only the Celtic-Union Switch encounter on the league card.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 22.

In many basketball games some of the fans are a bit uncertain as to when a dribble starts and when it is completed.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The rules are very specific in the case of dribbles and point out that a player, having gained possession of the ball, rolls, bats, throws or bounces the ball and touches it again before it is touched by another player, has made a dribble. This starts at the instant the ball leaves the player's hands and ends at the instant the ball comes to rest in one or both hands simultaneously. This applies to juggled balls as well.

Long's Sport Comment

a law unto itself and the states enrolled in the National Boxing Association refusing to recognize that authority, both of the principals in tonight's bout are champions. New York holds Wolgast to be the leader of the flyweight pack whereas the N. B. A. recognizes Genaro as the title holder.

Midget Wolgast

SO THE RIVAL claimants are being brought together to clear up the muddle resulting from a ridiculous condition that makes it possible for a gloveman to be a champion in one state and just a fighter in a lot of others. The meeting was to have been staged early in the fall, but a severe injury to one of Wolgast's hands forced a postponement. The outcome tonight appears to hinge on the condition of the injured maulie. If the latter is sound again and is not hurt anew the chances will favor a victory for Wolgast. None of the flyweight crop could hope to beat Genaro with one hand, but if the Midget has both mitts in working order throughout he ought to hold a sufficient edge at the finish to capture the decision and the 112-pound title. Genaro is drawing near to his thirtieth milestone, has been battling for eight years as a professional, and in spite of his good defensive qualities and smart head may not be equal to the task of holding his own against the strength, stamina and aggressiveness of his younger opponent.

North Dakota Cops Grid Tilt on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—North Dakota University's football team was too much for the Los Angeles Firemen yesterday and the Flickertails won a 14-to-9 victory in one of the best games seen here this season.

The entire squad of Middle-westerners astonished 20,000 spectators by well-executed pass-and-drive plays, which had their heavier opponents at a loss the greater share of the afternoon.

IGO BEATS STEIN

MT. CARMEL, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP.)—Pat Igo, of Shenandoah, won a hair-line decision yesterday over Ruby Stein, of Brooklyn, in a hard-fought 10 round bout.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Decline | Local Market Quiet

STOCK MARKET PRICES CREEP DOWNWARD

Losses Mostly Small in Pivotal Shares. Few Other Issues Make New Lows

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—(AP.)—The post-holiday stock market was an anti-climatic and dreary affair today.

Prices crept lower under unusually light offerings. The losses in pivotal shares were mostly small, but a few issues broke into new low ground. The market was, indeed, an extreme contrast to the vigorous advance which followed the Christmas holiday a year ago.

Several of the merchandising issues were sold presumably on the theory that earnings from holiday trade would be disappointing, because of reduced profit margins.

A declining stock market in the last week of the year has been rare in stock market history. Selling to establish losses for income tax purposes has usually been completed by that time, and traders have been inclined to accumulate stocks in expectation of a January reinvestment demand. Furthermore, holding and investment companies have favored a firm market at the close of the year, to give a large market value to their holdings as reported in their December 31 statements.

Today's stock market appeared to suffer from neglect as much as anything. There was little in the business news to encourage speculation for the rise.

Anaconda was an active and firm feature of the early trading. Declaration of the regular dividend was encouraging, as was that statement which accompanied the announcement, showing that the company, as a unit, was one of the lowest cost producers in the industry. Cost per pound, after all charges, was placed at 3.63 cents.

Business reports reflected little but the year-end quiet normally apparent at this time.

Credit rates were in the main stationary, but call money, officially at 2 per cent, was firm, reflecting the year-end and banking demand for funds.

Columbia Gas May Enter Baltimore

It is reported in Baltimore that as a result of negotiations, which are understood to be in progress between the Columbia Gas and Electric and the Consolidated Gas Electric Light Power Company, of Baltimore, the Columbia's natural gas pipe line system may be brought into Baltimore. It is said that an agreement, if reached, would call for the construction of the Columbia pipe line to connect with the mains of the Consolidate Company.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Wheat and corn averaged lower early today, influenced by absence of aggressive buying of wheat and by favorable weather for the movement of corn. Argentine wheat clearances were reported larger than had been expected. Opening at ⅜ cent off to ⅜ cent up, wheat afterward underwent an all around sag. Corn started unchanged to ¼ cent down and subsequently showed a general setback.

NASH EARNINGS ABOVE EARLY ESTIMATE

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The annual report of Nash Motors Company probably will be published during automobile show week, the first week in January. As the first report by a leading independent company on the year's operations, and coming at a time when the automobile trade is gathered in New York, and automotive developments probably receive more local consideration than at any other time in the year, the report is likely to create a great deal of favorable sentiment.

In financial circles, estimates of the year's results covering the fiscal months ended November 30, last, in the absence of final figures, indicate a showing somewhat better than previously predicted.

INDUSTRY DEPRESSED

Conservative forecasts place the year's net at around $7,500,000 or around $2.75 a share on the 2,730,000 shares of stock. Such earnings would compare with net of $18,013,781, or $6.60 a share for the fiscal year ended November 30, 1929.

The decline in profits as compared with a year ago is not surprising in view of the severe retrenchment which has taken place in the motor industry this year and the abnormal conditions under which Nash has been compelled to operate. The company was out of production during the greater part of the summer months in preparation for new models, and this condition followed operations on an unusually low level during the first six months of the year.

SALES UNDER 1929

For the first nine months of the fiscal year, Nash's volume of business was down 55 per cent, and earnings declined 60 per cent, compared with the corresponding period of 1929. The full year probably will show sales of around 56,000 units, against 117,000 in 1929.

Business during the final quarter of the year continued to reflect depressed conditions in the industry. Sales were stimulated by the introduction of new models at lower prices in October, but were considerably under the showing a year ago.

United Gas to List Additional Shares

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Total investment of United Gas Improvement Company in subsidiaries and minority holdings in other companies increased $34,987,877 from December 31, last, to September 30, according to the company's application to the New York stock exchange to list 166,760 additional no-par common shares, approved by the governing committee. Investment in subsidiary companies increased from $219,408,201 to $245,345,725 during the period.

Vote to Dissolve Stout Air Lines

BUFFALO, Dec. 26.—Stockholders of Stout D. & C. Air Lines have voted to dissolve the company and liquidate the assets. A cash payment of about $3 a share will be made shortly. The remainder of the assets will be distributed to stockholders as soon as it is possible to conclude the company's affairs.

Wabash Railroad Loadings Decline

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 26.—For the week ended December 20, the Wabash R. R. loaded 14,346 revenue cars, against 15,898 in the previous week and 15,538, last year.

Eastern Railway Heads Urged to Cease Squabbling.

By B. C. FORBES

SO MUCH newspaper attention is being given negotiations for carrying out eastern railway mergers that other and larger phases of the railway situation are in danger of being overlooked.

Incidentally, very strong pressure is being exercised upon Eastern railway heads to stop squabbling, face realities, sink personal jealousies and do their part in contributing to the hastening of returning prosperity. An aroused public opinion is infinitely more powerful than any railway president. Therefore, despite the lack of any reported progress, the probability is that constructive action will soon displace the obstructive action of which the nation is distinctly tired.

Mr. Forbes

FROM L. A. DOWNS, president of the ably-managed, strategically located Illinois Central system, I have obtained, for readers of this column, this straight-from-the-shoulder analysis of America's vastly important railway problem and prospects:

"The interdependance of all lines of American business has been thoroughly demonstrated by the experiences of 1930. Most enterprises have suffered adversity together; that leads to the conviction that when times improve they will share together in the improvement.

"No one has that hope more firmly than the railway man as 1931 comes upon the horizon. Because of the manner in which they are welded into the fabric of all lines of business, the railroads are properly regarded as thermometers, rather than barometers, of business. They feel the chill when circulation in the arteries of commerce slows down. They should record the reviving warmth of new orders and increased demand. Certainly there can be no prosperity for those whom they serve.

"THE ADVERSE conditions encountered this year were not a new experience for the railroads. Not in many years have they earned what could be regarded as a fair return on the value of their property devoted to the public service. Between rate-whittling on one hand and declining or only moderately increasing volume of traffic on the other, the railroads have been hard pressed for years to make a satisfactory financial showing. This pressure was continued and intensified this year.

"Despite inadequate earnings in the past and throughout 1930, however, railway service has been maintained at high levels of efficiency, properties have been improved, and personnel has been stimulated to a high standard of operation.

"Railway capacity is vastly in excess of the demand. The railroads are ready for the business revival. They are remarkably well prepared to promote prosperity when it returns.

"CONTINUED INADEQUATE earnings have increased the necessity for early improvement in the financial results of railway operation. In one respect the outlook for better earnings has been improved as a result of the steps that were taken to meet the adverse conditions experienced in 1930. The pressure of declining revenues made it necessary to intensify the great efforts which already had been put forth to increase the economy and efficiency of railway operation. The results of this intensified effort will be apparent in improved earnings when business revives.

"Another good effect of the 1930 experience has been upon certain habits of business thought and expression. Facts have had to be faced, and frankness is no longer at a premium. It has come to be realized that the beginning of economic wisdom often lies in the trials of adversity and hardship. Certainly 1930 has been a hard taskmaster, and many lines of business will be making a new start.

"THIS ATTITUDE of facing the facts has been adopted by the leaders in the railway business, as in other fields. The executives of the Western railroads recently addressed to the Interstate Commerce Commission a frank and illuminating summary of the situation in which the railroads of that territory now find themselves, following this with a statement of what can be done to improve that situation.

"Later the Association of Railway Executives, representing the entire country, adopted a plan of campaign to defend the public interest in the railway enterprise not only against the various types of competition but also against the tendency of railway regulation itself to depress earnings by reducing rates and limiting the ability of the railroads to meet competition. These steps are distinct advances in general railway policy.

"TAKING BUSINESS as a whole, there is hope for 1931 as a result of the hardening and toughening process through which business has passed. Business has gone into training and is in fighting trim. Such preparations will certainly induce to an early business recovery and to a sane enjoyment of prosperity when once that is retrieved."

EACH OF US, remember, can hasten or retard the return of full-time employment and prosperity.

PRIVATE VIEWS OF FINANCIERS OPTIMISTIC

'Silent Men' of Wall Street Expect Marked Gain for Business in Coming Year

By Merryle S. Rukeyser.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Those windy and short-sighted pessimists who are assuming that the sun of prosperity will never reappear are running counter to the belief of the outstanding financiers of Wall street, whose private views I have sounded out.

Every experienced observer recognizes that the big men of the street hesitate to broadcast statements of their inner expectations regarding business. Many of them conform to tradition by issuing highly generalized first-of-the-year statements, which do little more than pay homage to the god of platitudes. In view of the critical status of the economic machine, I have been canvassing the viewpoint of the silent men of Wall Street—men whose names, if carried with their views, would electrify the country.

Mr. Rukeyser

GAIN SEEN NEXT YEAR

The most significant bit of information I acquired was that important banking sources which have long been bearish think that at the end of 1931 conditions are likely to be a good deal better than they are at the end of 1930.

Financiers who handled their own institutions with sagacity through the storm by avoiding false optimism, recognize the impracticality of attempting to set a date on business recovery, yet they are inclined to believe that we are now approximately at the worst of the depression, and that the next major move will be upward.

With the distinct understanding that he was not being interviewed, one money giant remarked to me:

"I am confident that the credit fabric is strong enough to stand any additional strain which a continuance of the depression may impose upon it."

REALITIES NOT FACED

A number of bank presidents south of Fulton street have stressed their belief that the depression has been lengthened by hesitancy to face realities, and accept present standards and price levels as accomplished facts. They also doubt whether any good has been attained by encouraging unreasonable hopes or by withholding from the public unfavorable factors.

They are confident in the ability of business leaders and the public to face facts, and then dig in, and slowly build up a new prosperity. Some financiers believe strongly that recovery is delayed by price valorization, whether attempted by governments or by trade combinations, such as the copper group. And when bankers get safely into their inner sanctums, far away from the ears of reporters, they question whether the forced maintenance of wage scales at which large groups of workers have been unable to find employment has done any good to labor or anybody else.

HISTORIAN'S VIEW

The broader human aspects of the worldwide business readjustment runs beyond the routine field of the banker or commercial executive. According, as part of a survey of the process of economic recovery, I consulted Hendrik Willem Van Loon, the distinguished historian, who said:

"The world will not recover for a long time to come and will never entirely recover until we realize that the entire world is one . . . All our problems are due to the fact that our minds have not yet caught up with our hands.

"The machine has made this whole world one but our minds (our politics and our economic system) continue to insist that we are not one, but an endless variety of little units living as we did before the machines ran a couple of million miles ahead of our mind, and the political and economic systems are left behind and we have a mess which generally speaking will continue until at least 90 per cent of all the people have been educated to this one outstanding verity. This world of ours is one as far as modern man is concerned."

This viewpoint will come as a distinct shock to the makers of the infamous Hawley-Smoot tariff, which constitutes a symbol of obsolete economic thinking.

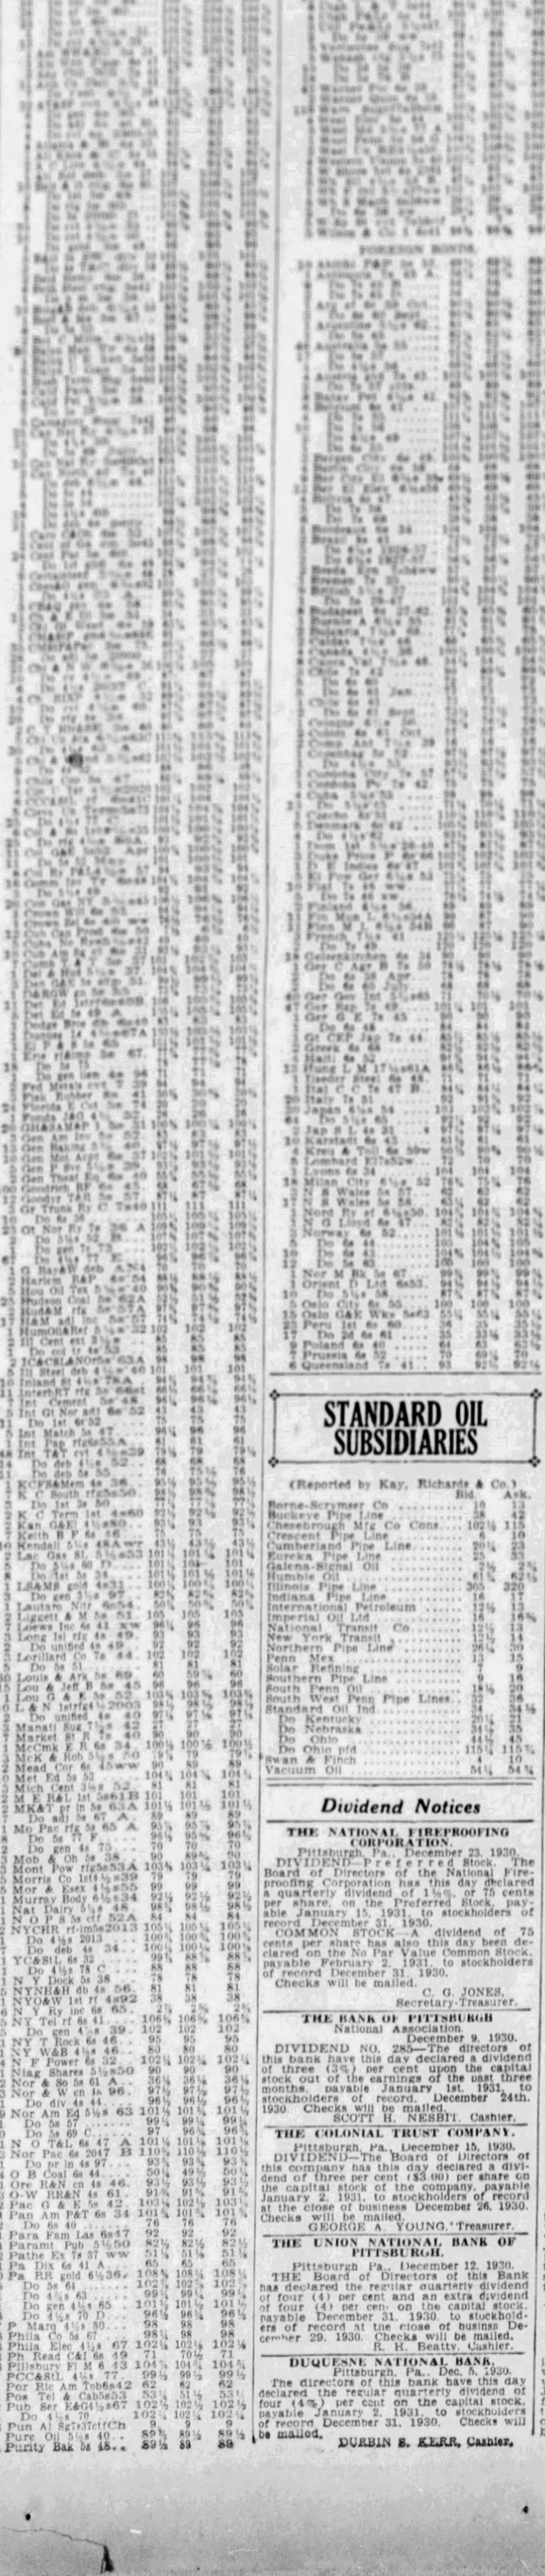
Report Big Loan Made to Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26.—An agreement has been reached between the Mexican Ministry of Finance and the National City Bank for a loan of $25,000,000 for the purpose of stabilizing Mexican silver currency, according to semi-official sources here.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Resumption of business after the holiday found the bond market suffering from apathy. Price movement was extremely narrow, reflecting the stalemate of trading, and the volume of business shrank to small proportions.



MACHINE TOOL TRADE QUIET

With machine tool business almost at a standstill over the holiday period, the attention of the trade is centered on 1931 prospects, which are found to be fairly encouraging, providing the recovery from the depression is not much longer delayed, according to Iron Age.

Machine tool trade commonly does not begin to develop substantial gains until the business upon which it depends for its orders have experienced a fair degree of improvement. If, as is predicted in many quarters, January should bring a measurable gain in important manufacturing lines, the machine tool industry may expect that its trend will be markedly upward by April at the latest. During the interim, a slow gain in orders is expected, beginning next month.

Electricity Output Continues to Gain

Production of electricity by the Electric Light and Power Industry of the United States continued its seasonal increase for the week ended December 20, the National Electric Light Association reports. The output, 1,756,588,000 kilowatt hours, was 5.4 per cent below the figure for the corresponding week last year, but was 3.2 per cent above the like period of 1928. With the shorter period of daylight, the third week in December normally registers the largest electric output for any week of the year and this year showed, as usual, an increase over the week before.

Gold Production Gains in Ontario

TORONTO, Dec. 26.—Gold production in Ontario during November totaled $3,063,865, a new high monthly record for the year and an increase of $22,433 over October. The increase was due largely to increased output at Porcupine camp and the resumption of output by Dome Mines.

For the first 11 months of 1930 gold output in the province totaled $32,318,621 against $30,341,894 in the corresponding 1929 period.

Pierce-Arrow Car Reduces Capital

ALBANY, Dec. 24.—Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company has filed with the Secretary of State, a certificate of reduction of shares from 507,375 consisting of 80,000 shares of preferred stock, $100 par, and 427,375 shares of common, no par value, to 499,475 shares of which 72,100 shares are preferred, $100 par, and 427,375 shares of common, no par value.

Stock Membership Sells for $200,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of two New York Stock Exchange seats at $200,000 each, a decrease of $10,000 from the last previous transaction.

Producers Propose Tin Export Curb

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The Tin Producers' Association has proposed a two-year tin export restriction, affecting principal producing centers of the world.

Lower Rates to Help Bond Market

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE System has adopted a policy of keeping the circulation of currency at a high level and of keeping interest rates at a low point. The experience of the past year has shown that cheap money does not create business activity, but it will make it much easier for commerce and industry to get into high gear quickly, once a recovery starts.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank on Tuesday reduced the rediscount rate to 2 per cent. This is the lowest on record. It makes money cheaper in this country than in any other part of the world.

One effect expected of this action is an advance in bond prices. The bond market, after showing signs of revival early in 1930, began to slip and has continued a slow downward trend during most of the year. The decline has reached such a point that many sound issues, particularly industrials, are selling at surprisingly low levels.

To Aid Financing

THE CUT IN THE rediscount rate is an invitation to banks to make greater use of Federal Reserve facilities. It will make it increasingly profitable for banks to borrow from the Federal Reserve. The commercial demand for bank credit is not heavy, so that this increase in available funds will naturally flow into the bond market.

A rising bond market will make new industrial financing possible. Many large corporations would spend money for improvements if they could arrange for the flotation of long-term bonds on a satisfactory basis. The bond market has not been particularly good for several years, but this did not bother industry while the bear market was on. It was an easy matter to get money by the sale of stock until the berak in stock prices.

To Strengthen Banks

HIGHER BOND PRICES will also greatly strengthen the banking situation. Many banks throughout the country have their boxes full of bonds which are selling for less than their original cost. The Federal Reserve action may put these banks in a position to liquidate their holdings of less desirable bonds without taking a loss.

The Federal Reserve System also understood to be considering other means of keeping a large amount of currency in circulation. The system's holdings of acceptances and government securities amount to $944,000,000. This is the greatest total in history.

To Hold Government Securities

HOLDINGS OF THIS class are at a seasonably high level to take care of the temporary need for Christmas money. Under normal conditions the Reserve banks would reduce currency in circulation by liquidating these securities. It is understood that during the early months of this year the Reserve banks will keep these holdings at a high in an effort to keep money in circulation.

Low rediscount rates here will also have a favorable effect on the foreign exchange markets. They may make it unnecessary to export gold from European countries to the United States. This would keep gold in parts of the world where it is most likely to be helpful to a general business revival.

A. T. T. Plans Change In Conversion Price

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—The conversion price at which stock will be issued in exchange for 10-year convertible 4½ per cent gold debenture bonds of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company will be changed January 1 to $175.46 from $166.88 per share, the company has announced.

Effective during the years 1931-32, the new price is subject to adjustment upon the issue from time to time of additional stock by the company.

Kitty Is Shown Welcome by Connie's Mother

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The day before her marriage to Jim Tracy, wealthy Connie Calvert learns through Duke Garson, underworld character, of the existence of a half-sister, Kitty, by her father's secret first marriage. Kitty, a produce of the slums, demands $100,000 for her silence. Connie, glad to have found her sister, offers to take her home. Kitty refuses. Connie is favorably impressed by Duke's magnetism. When Jim objects to her interest in Kitty, Connie breaks her engagement. She realizes Jim is mainly interested in her money and that she does not love him. Connie tells her mother about Kitty. Connie sees Kitty and learns of her laborious daily struggle for existence. Kitty goes home with Connie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII.

The physician told Connie that after another day in bed her mother would be well enough to be up and around. Connie took Kitty into the bedroom.

"Mother dear, this is Kitty . . ."

The form on the bed was wan, but the eyes were bright with intelligence. A small, pale hand was extended to Kitty, and there was a firm, gripping pressure.

"Connie has told me about you, child. We're glad to have you with us, and we want you to feel like one of the family."

These surroundings, more lavish than anything she had seen except in motion picture, gave Kitty an awkward feeling of embarrassment, but she maintained outwardly a determined calmness.

Likes Connie's Mother

"This is an experiment with all of us," she said. "If I don't fit in we'll all be uncomfortable, but it won't take an awfully long while to find out about that."

"You must try to feel perfectly at home," Mrs. Calvert said.

"I'll try—but there's another thing I want to mention," Kitty returned. "How are you going to explain me to all of your friends? Of course, I'm not a scandal—I'm just as legitimate as Connie—but what's the use of giving people a lot of inside information to gossip about? If they know I'm Connie's half-sister there'll be a lot of talk going on behind our backs. Why can't we simply say that I'm just a friend—or something like that?"

Connie and her mother objected simultaneously. It was not fair to Kitty, they pointed out, for her to take an assumed identity. Far better to admit the plain truth and ignore any resulting gossip, they insisted.

But Kitty was obdurate, and in the end she had her way. It was agreed that she be known by her own name, Kitty Calvert, and vaguely explained as a relative of Connie's father. This was indefinite, but it saved trouble.

They drove into Stamford and took an express train to New York, stopping before they boarded the train at a bank, where Connie cashed a check. The subject of shopping for Kitty's outfit totally engrossed both girls. Never before had Kitty been free to buy the fine, smart things she craved. Now there was no need to go bargain hunting in the cheap department stores. Guided by Connie, she roamed the shops on Fifth avenue and the adjacent side streets. Lingerie, shoes, dresses, dinner and evening gowns were hers for the mere selecting. Fabrics foamy and smooth, silk sheer as cobweb. The sympathetic concern of salespeople who scented a background of wealth. All of this was costing considerable money, but there was no heedless expenditure.

Kitty Enraptured

There was a sense of values in their upper reaches of shopping that Kitty was unfamiliar with; the art of handling money advantageously required experience that only time and opportunity would provide. It was well, now, at the beginning, to give Kitty a piloting hand; later, when a proper financial settlement had been worked out, she would have more independence. But all that would require the assistance of lawyers and bankers and investment men. Jim Tracy, probably, could look after Kitty's funds and see that they went into safe bonds. The money that was being spent today came out of Connie's personal account and she gave it up without reluctance.

"Hold me up, I'm groggy!" Kitty joked, as they paused on the curb for a taxi to take them to Grand Central. "I feel like Cinderella, or something."

Her eyes were shining, and Connie got a thrill out of her excitement. The girl, despite her hardness, had a naive enjoyment that was delightful. Connie hadn't supposed that anyone could be so easily enraptured. The difficult thing to remember was that Kitty had grown up in penury. Nevertheless, without vanity, Connie could not help enjoying her own power to bestow pleasure.

On the train going back to Stamford they settled down and began, really, to sense each other's personality.

Jim Visits

When dinner was served they were almost on terms of intimacy, except that the richness of the house and its furnishings seemed to depress Kitty. Mrs. Calvert did not join them and they dined alone at a mahogany table set with four silver candlesticks. To Kitty it seemed quite informal, but the stiff linen dinner napkins, the thin china and the delicious food with the array of silver was a strain. She was quite sure of her knives and forks. The deft butler in his white jacket overawed her.

This Connie dimly perceived, but she did not quite realize its seriousness to Kitty.

Dressed in a clever dinner gown of dark blue which they had brought along with them from the city, Kitty, eating carefully, was satisfactory to Connie's eyes; with a little more polish Kitty would not be at all obtrusive in whatever social life existed in the neighborhood.

Indeed, she would probably for a long time maintain a greater reserve than the usual cocktail drinking, jazz-dancing girls of her age. But this summer Connie planned to be rather less active socially than usual; her broken engagement with Jim Tracy, for one thing, imposed an obligation of discretion. Kitty's presence, fortunately, might be useful in that direction.

Outside, on the stone-flagged veranda, they sat in deep wicker chairs until the headlights of a car came up the drive, which announced the arrival of Jim Tracy.

"That's funny!" Kitty mused. "You break your engagement with this fellow, and he's right back on the job again. You mean to tell me actually there isn't a chance of you two making up?"

"Not a chance in the world," Connie declared. "We're absolutely through."

DAILY TRUE STORY — Favorite Nephew

"Of course, Uncle, but a grandfather's clock like that is worth big money these days."

"I never set no store by it. Now, this parlor set's got hand-carved grapes on it, five pieces, and parlor sets now scrimp down to three."

"Yes, uncle, that's so."

Old Jethro had two nephews, Jethro, so named by parents who thought old Jethro had heaps of money, and Hal Sanger, his sister's boy.

Everybody in Saugus knew that Jethro was the old man's favorite nephew. Young Jethro was a lawyer, plodding along after the manner of young lawyers in country towns. It pleased the old man to have a nephew who was a lawyer.

Hal Sanger owned a small garage and gas station. He was seen mostly in overalls and jumper, rather oily, but always genial. In fact, Hal was quite popular. He played a good game of pool, belonged to the bowling team and could moan jazzy and low through a saxophone.

His uncle did not approve of him to any noticeable extent, and Jethro saw to it that his uncle knew all about the "sporty" life Hal was leading.

The old man, Jethro decided, was getting a bit senile. Jethro had seen a clock in an antique shop on Madison avenue, when he was in New York, that was almost exactly like the one his uncle owned. And because his uncle owned one like it and he expected to inherit all of his uncle's belongings, he priced it.

The dealer would let him have it for twelve hundred.

This cheered Jethro greatly. The clock was worth more than his uncle's tumble-down little house, especially since there was a small encumbrance on it.

Jethro made it a habit to drop in and see his uncle every day or so. And he almost always made it his way to admire the clock. He hoped, in this manner, to make doubly sure that his uncle would leave him the clock.

Becomes Ill

"Hal ain't been in lately. Has he sold any of them second hand cars of his?" the old man asked.

"I don't know—I don't see him very often. He's no particular credit to me, or you either, uncle."

"Guess not—except that he works kind of steady."

"He plays plenty pool and bowling and going to dances, and I hear now that he's done off a room over his service station where some of the town loafers hang out to play poker."

"Do tell! Well, Hal never took after his mother, who was my only sister. He took after his father, who never amounted to shucks. Still he's my nevvy and I like to hear him talk now and then."

"'Fraid not."

Now and then Jethro would tell his uncle that he was pretty busy with his legal affairs, but mostly, on his visits he took occasion to hint that he was extremely fond of the old grandfather's clock, and he also never missed a chance to say something unkind about his cousin, Hal Sanger.

The old man came down with a severe cold that threatened pneumonia. Jethro did not tell Hal about it.

"P'raps he ain't heard about it."

"He knows, all right. He can't spare time from his pool and poker, I guess. I'm ashamed of him."

Hal promptly went to see his uncle.

"Doc said you'd been laid up, Unk—sorry to hear it. What you need now is something to build you up. I brought over a bottle of brandy I got hold of—a little with sugar and water will do you good."

Makes Will

"Brandy? How'd you get it? Are you bootleggin'?"

"No—too much competition. I found this under the seat of an old car I towed in to junk. Ralph Davis had just come through from Canada with it when he got smashed. The brandy is good."

"Guess it might help tone me up. I been expectin' of you before this, Hal."

"Just heard of it from the Doc."

Later Hal talked with young Jethro.

Young Jethro snorted and walked away.

Jethro went to see his uncle. He was a foxy chap, at that. Almost his first words were, "I guess Hal didn't know you were sick. I understood that he did know, but I find I was mistaken and I don't want to do him an injustice."

"That's the right speerit, Jethro, my boy. I'm proud of ye."

The old man didn't regain his strength. When Jethro visited him again, the old man seemed to know that he didn't have a very rosy prospect.

"Look here, Jethro, could you make out a will all legal if you was to be a beneficiary by it?"

"Oh, yes, so long as it was legally witnessed."

"You go ahead and jot down what I got to say in the will—fix it up with all that legal wordage that's so damn silly and doesn't mean anything. I ain't got much, but what I got I'm leavin' to you."

"Yes, Uncle Jethro, but you ought to leave Hal five dollars so he can't break the will—or a dollar is enough—one dollar. I'll fix it up and bring witnesses—"

"I ain't got any dollars to spare . . . but I've figgered out what to do. I can't exactly slight him, so while I give you my nice parlor set and everything else, I'm going to leave him the clock."

"The clock?"

"Yes, yes—'tain't much, but it will stop him from sayin' I didn't think of him—and stop him from fightin' my will."

"But, uncle, the clock's worth more than a dollar—it's worth fifty dollars, I guess——"

"Who's willin' this here will? Do as I say."

Jethro went back to his office in an ugly mood. He wanted that clock. He could use the twelve hundred he could get for it.

His uncle got worse, and Jethro had an idea—he would just shift things about in the will, giving himself the valuable clock and giving Hal the old parlor set. Then he'd talk it over with two witnesses.

He did that. And he read the will for the uncle and the two witnesses to hear and attest. But when he read it he didn't read it right—he read it hurriedly and pretended to read that the will gave Hal the clock. The witnesses couldn't remember the details.

The old man nodded and signed. The witnesses signed, and that was that, except that the old man died in a few weeks.

Jethro had been right—the witnesses never even asked to read the will and they couldn't remember which was which.

Sells Clock

When the will was read Hal grinned.

"That old parlor set solves a problem," he told Jethro. "I need that much more furniture up in my game room over the garage."

Jethro sent the clock to the city and was fortunate because he got exactly eleven hundred cash for it.

The beloved old parlor set was stored up in the room over Hal's garage until he got time to fix up the room for a sort of club for himself and cronies.

To this day Jethro believes that he put a clever trick over on his cousin Hal, but for the life of him he can't see how Hal could afford to rebuild his service station, buy a little bungalow and get married.

Pattern 1939
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.

Slenderizing your silhouette is easily accomplished if you will select models designed especially for you. For example, the frock sketched has a narrow collar ending in a point, and a skirt flare attached below the hips in a downward point; tucks at the waistline to do away with a belt—all features that give height and detract from width. The sleeve flares make the arms seem slim.

Pattern 1939 is stunning made of satin, canton crepe, georgette or sheer velvet. A solid color or a small, broken print would be lovely in black, brown, green, rust or navy.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

A Prosecutor in Prison

This is What He Thinks Now About Our Colleges of Crime

For 20 years Asa Keyes pleaded with juries to send defendants to prison. For nearly half that time he was district attorney of Los Angeles County and he was proud of his record of convictions.

Now Asa Keyes is in San Quentin Prison, California, a prisoner along with hundreds of the men he convicted, serving a sentence of from one to 10 years for conspiracy to bribe. Another man pleaded with a jury to send Keyes to prison; another man stood in the prosecutor's place and he stood in the dock where hundreds of other men had stood before him.

He went to San Quentin prison and in nine months there, among nearly 4,500 other prisoners, he has learned something he was not able to learn in all the years he served as district attorney. A few days ago he talked to 50 California police officers and this is what he said:

"I have been in this prison for nine months and the thing that grieves me more than anything else is the ever-increasing number of youths who are being sent into this institution. It is appalling to see the steady stream of men, hardly out of their 'teens, arriving in San Quentin. I have checked up on the records and I have learned that 1,304 men came into this institution in the last 10 months. I have studied individual cases and I know that hundreds of men in their early youth are coming into San Quentin who never should be sent here. They could have been given probation or could have had the charges against them reduced to misdemeanors. A county jail sentence or probation would have been just and proper for them, and if they had received this treatment it would have been vastly better for society and for the men themselves."

Asa Keyes, in prison, is thinking straight about one of the most serious of our social problems. When he was a prosecutor, he was thinking about his own record as a prosecutor. He saw one guilty man before him and he bent his energy and talent toward convicting that individual. He did not ask himself how he could salvage the "defendant" and make him useful to himself and to society. Instead Keyes sent young men to prison and thought he was rid of them. But now, in prison himself, he sees all these young men cooped up together, carrying a grudge, feeling themselves mistreated, learning about crime from older and more hardened men, who are technically "first offenders," but who are schooled in lawbreaking.

Keyes sees, now, that our prisons are colleges of crime. He sees that young men who did little thinking at all outside learn to think crookedly behind prison walls. Putting them with older men in prison is like putting children who are sick with measles in contact with smallpox patients. We do not send measles patients to pest houses, why should we put young law breakers in contact with older, hardened offenders? And why can we not run our prisons as intelligently as we run our hospitals?

Asa Keyes, with his eyes now opened, says we should not make felons of young men but should put them on probation or give them jail sentences or, in graver instances, place them in a larger institution built especially to house youthful offenders. He is entirely right.

And that's not all. We send men carelessly to prison. We are even more careless about our methods of restoring them to society. In fact, we have no such method. Every day men leave prison, some of them embittered, some of them feeling that they have "paid their debt to society" and can start afresh. The state gives its released prisoners $10, a suit of clothes and a ticket to the place where they were convicted. If they can't get a job, if their old-time friends turn their backs, they can at least look up the address of the friend of a friend they made in prison and the $10 will pay for a second-hand gun. The law is not interested in an ex-convict unless he commits another crime. And if he does break the law again, the state does not wonder why he did it or if he could have been saved from criminality. It sends him to Folsom for a post-graduate course in crime.

There's the picture and it is a terrible one. It will grow blacker and blacker until we mend our ways. We need plain common sense in our treatment of young law-breakers—probation and supervision, jail sentences or terms in a special institution, to save them from lives of crime. We need to run our prisons as scientific hospitals instead of as pest houses. And we must work out a method of restoring men to society and helping them to stay there.

Brightening Skies

Rail Orders Placed With Local Mills Are Bound to Improve the Industrial Situation.

The silver lining to the clouds is seen in the announcement that the New York Central has placed orders for 170,000 tons of rails, of which 11,360 are to be rolled in local mills.

Pittsburgh manufacturers are likely also to receive part of the $15,000,000 rail and track equipment order about to be placed by the Pennsylvania.

This new rail business will give employment to a large number of workmen, whose wages will quicken the stream of commerce.

Even more important than the money that the business will bring to Pittsburgh is the salutary effect that the contracts will have in stimulating demand in other steel customers who have been staying out of the market.

They have been staying out of the market because they thought there was some likelihood that prices might go down.

The action of the railroads, which were influenced, of course, solely by business considerations, suggests that now is a good time for other purchasers of steel to buy, too. And what applies to steel applies to many other commodities.

The railroads' course should inspire confidence.

Infallible Fingerprints

Some of the "enterprising" young bank robbers who have been operating in Pittsburgh lately used gloves while transacting their "business" in the bank.

They were wise. Memories often fail. Personal appearance may be changed. But the whorls in the finger tips are permanent in their arrangement.

The usefulness of fingerprints in the identification of criminals has just been proved in the case of a convict who escaped about two years ago from the Greene County jail, where he was serving a term for larceny.

He found himself in jail again recently, in Cleveland. He had changed his name and taken other steps to conceal his identity. But his fingerprints gave him away.

Bandits, gunmen, hijackers, confidence men and other business men of the criminal underworld might find it profitable to offer a large reward for the discovery of a method of altering finger markings.

Rushed to the Altar

Few men know, when they wake up from "love's young dream," just how they came to be married. Only the girl knows—and she won't tell!

* * *

The truth is that they have been RUSHED into it, while they were in a sentimental coma or a momentary delirium, or otherwise off their guard. Marriage is always a surprise to a man—like a blow in the dark or a telegram at midnight. It is always SO sudden!

This is because marriage was the last thing in the world that he was THINKING about!

A girl begins thinking about marriage as soon as she is old enough to set up a doll's house and "play lady." It is never a surprise to HER. But a man never thinks about marriage seriously until he finds himself buying coal and carpet sweepers and baby shoes. (Not even the ringing of the wedding bells wakes him up!) And then it is too LATE to think!

* * *

Or, if he thinks of marriage at all, it is only vaguely and academically, as something that may happen to the other fellow. It never occurs to him that marriage could possibly happen to HIM, before he is ready for it or before he wants to marry.

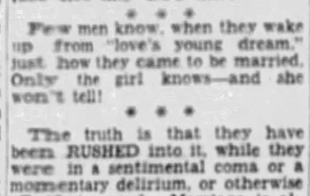
He visualizes himself as an eternal bachelor or a dashing lover, but never as a plodding husband.



That is why it is so easy for almost any woman with a little tact and a wedding-ring in view, to blindfold him and rush him to the altar, before he knows where he is going.

If the average man would think more about marriage, beforehand, he would not do so much heavy thinking, after the wedding. If a man would look around and see how many of his buddies have, one by one, slipped quietly out of the ranks of the wild single-footers, and into double-harness, he would be more wary and less cocksure of his immunity.

* * *

Because, marriage DOES happen to nearly all men, sooner or later—usually a lot sooner than they expected or intended. Why leave it to chance or fate or accident or the maneuvering of a young woman?

Marriage is not a gamble—for a woman. It is only men who gamble on it, and who leave it all to Lady Luck.

But to gamble on beating the engine to the crossing is a safe and sane thing, beside gambling on a life-partner.

GREATEST MENTAL TRIUMPH

By Archibald Henderson

One of the proudest boasts that man can make is that a certain achievement, whatever it may be, is the result of the triumph of mind over matter. A little, fast, highly-trained football team defeats an aggregation of heavy, sluggish giants—thus demonstrating, according to the supporters of the former, the victory of intelligence over brute force. David slays Goliath with a stone from a sling. The engineer creats a mighty bridge out of pieces of inert matter—bars, beams, bolts, rivets of steel. The architect erects a towering skyscraper by sitting down at a drafting board, making some designs and computing some stresses and strains. The sculptor sets to work upon a block of marble and carves from it the image which lies latent in his brain.

If we carry over this line of reasoning to the problem of the origin and existence of the universe, we are gripped by the arresting thought that this universe of ours represents, on a cosmic scale, the triumph of mind over matter. Scientists are gradually coming to accept the notion that nature is not infinite in extent; and that the amount of matter in the universe is only a tiny fraction of this vast, but finite space. The universe is finite, closed in its space dimensions. We, the denizens of this universe, can never get outside it; we always return upon ourselves.

In like manner, science is gradually demonstrating in a conclusive way that time is not infinitely extended into both past and future. As we follow the river of time backward, we are led unmistakably to its source. The geologists and the physicists have not agreed as to the age of the earth; but they have pretty well agreed that however hoary the world may be, that age is finite. Time is finite in its backward extension; there was a time before which the earth did not exist. By a similar argument, there must have been a time, however remote in the past, before which the present universe did not exist.

Throughout history, cranks and misguided geniuses, frauds and fakers, have been attempting to make machines which would go on forever. But no perpetual motion machine has ever been invented; and science sternly sets its face against the notion that such a machine has ever been, can be, or will ever be invented. For the scientists, the perpetual motion machine is forever an impossibility.

In consequence of this point of view, which has the soundest justification, it would be irrational for the scientist to believe that the universe is a perpetual motion machine. Now the second law of thermodynamics, which seems to be one of the most solidly based of all physical laws, says that all spontaneous processes that occur in nature involve an increase in entropy.

Entropy is a measure of randomness. Consequently entropy must ever increase until it has reached a final state, when it can increase no further. This is the process through which the physical universe is now passing. Unless we are prepared to reject the conclusions of thermodynamics, then the universe after certain countable aeons have passed, will reach the stage when further progress becomes impossible. That final state spells the death of the universe.

There was, then, a beginning for the universe; and there will be an end. The beginning connotes creation; and creation connotes a creator. Sir James Jeans suggests that the universe is a universe of thought. In that case, the creation of the universe must have been an act of thought. Our universe represents the triumph of mind over matter. But it represents something far more than that. Modern scientific discovery indicates that matter, space and time were all the creation of mind. And that the Deity or Eternal Mind, like the artist outside his creation, works outside of space and time.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

A stranger's letter—a scrap from somebody's life. Perhaps a bit from your own life:

Dear Elsie Robinson:

It's raining hard outside. A cold, driving, winter rain. The steady pattering on the tin roof and dead leaves is so soothing. It does something to me. Sitting here before the fire, I could cry or go to sleep—or do something big! I love to sit and dream here by this fire. I see strange things in the flames—wars and struggles—travel and work and adventures.

You are always talking about such things, Elsie. Saying we can have them if we want them. I want them. I want life. I'm willing to risk everything to live. I want to plunge in and fight and maybe get licked—but whatever happens, I want to live out in the swirling current. But how can I? What is life, anyway? What do you mean by "living?"

LUD. ZUPANCIC.

What is living?

There's one thing it ISN'T, Lud. It ISN'T "sitting in front of a warm fire, dreaming." Yet, strangely enough, that's what most of us call "living." Mad rebellions—exotic flights of fancy—reckless adventures—these we think are "life." But such fantasies end where they begin, in an easy chair. They end there, because there is in them none of the stuff of REAL LIVING.

Living is action. Actual action—not dreams about action.

Living is doing the NEXT THING — DOING THE NEXT THING WITH ALL THE FIRE AND FORCE THAT LIE IN YOU.

The next thing may be a very common thing. It's almost certain to be a very common thing—cleaning out the bureau drawers, going through that bunch of old papers, mending the kitchen door, letting down the hem on Susy's dress. A very common thing—and a tiresome, dull thing. And so we pass it up. We conclude that because it's tiresome and dull, it isn't life. Real life!

BUT THERE'S NOTHING DULLER OR MORE MONOTONOUS THAN REAL LIFE!

BEHIND EVERY GREAT FEAT LIE COUNTLESS COMMON CHORES, DONE OVER AND OVER AND OVER.

The doer yawned while he did them. Rebelled while he did them. Wondered if they were worth while . . . wondered if he'd ever get his "chance." BUT THOSE COMMON CHORES WERE BUILDING HIS CHANCE FOR HIM. THEY WERE THE SOIL IN WHICH HIS CHANCE GREW. They were, literally, like soil. They were simple—but infinitely complex. For they held within their plain texture, all the makings of great adventure. Into them that worker put all he had—all he had of DETERMINATION and DECISION and VIGOR and ENTHUSIASM. And so, because he DID things . . . did the NEXT COMMON THINGS . . . he came inevitably to the doing of the GREAT, UNCOMMON THING.

The worker did not know to what Great Thing he was coming. He had, possibly, very different dreams about what his Big Adventure should be. Yet no adventure would have suited him so well as that which came out of the soil of his common chores—for it was the inevitable harvest of his soul's sowing.

What's living? That's living, son. And for no two of us, will living ever be alike. For each man sows according to his own capacity and his own taste. And for some, living will lead to the jungles or the poles—and for others into a quiet garden. But for each of us, if we will live vigorously, and honestly, doing the thing that comes next, OUR GREAT ADVENTURE WAITS!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

If Love Should Die

If love should die, what could I keep
To save crushed heart and reeling brain
When mighty tides of anguish sweep
A world no more the same again?

Through unknown lands though I should rove,
Still, day by day and hour by hour
A thousand memories of love
Would quicken into perfect flower.

Dawn, dusk and golden noon would bring
Each one its bygone garlands back
And with each one a cruel sting
For future barren hours' lack.

If love should die, then would I dwell
Within the towers of the past
Where happy memories would dispel
All else save dreams that could not last.

And in that stronghold I would find,
Beyond the reach of sigh or tear,
Untouched and beautiful and kind,
Unchanged, the love I hold so dear!

When the Prince Played Tennis

How the world changes, how it improves, especially as regards women's costumes, is shown in this old picture printed in the London Graphic 47 years ago.

Edward Prince of Wales, father of King George, and grandfather of the young Prince, popular in this country, was then enjoying the twilight of his youth. He traveled about the Continent, met all the famous men, praised the famous cooks, paid compliments to the most intelligent and beautiful women.

"THE PRINCE PLAYS TENNIS AT BADEN"

"Baden-Baden this Summer has certainly enjoyed one of her gayest seasons for many a year. Amongst the crowds of visitors was the Prince of Wales, who appeared at nearly every entertainment during his fortnight's stay. Indeed the Prince's visit so highly delighted the Germans that general disappointment was felt at his horse, the Scot, being defeated in the Grand Steeplechase, even though the winner carried Teutonic colors. While the racing was, of course, the chief attraction, other kinds of sport were not forgotten. The new Lawn Tennis Club gave a popular fete, where the Prince played with Mrs. Harrison, Lord Charles Beresford and Mr. Wilson.

Politely the British artist made the Prince look younger than he really DID look. An Alpine hat, silk belt around the waist, indicate the Prince's desire to be a dashing "young" personality. You will notice that he is wearing shoes of black and white such as have now violently come back into fashion.

You will notice especially the lady, "Mrs. Harrison," perhaps still living, and you will say to your daughter, "You wear things that seem to me foolish. But at least you don't wear this kind of a corset. Your poor liver and other inward machinery are not squeezed out of place. I regret to see your knees exposed when they ought to be hidden, and wonder that you don't get pneumonia when you expose your neck in winter, reserving furs for summer wear. But on the whole I think you dress more sensibly than Mrs. Harrison."

This picture shows what we once were, and encourages us to think that some time we shall be really civilized.

Imagine playing tennis and trying to jump around the court with a corset and a waist like this.

Yet, sad to say, women are capable of going back to this very thing. Let fashion issue the decree, as has recently been done, bringing back the foolish long skirts, and women would squeeze their livers as cheerfully as they now tangle up their feet.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Who remembers when they held spoons over girls' ears in curling their hair? The 42d street sidewalk salesman who looks like Will Rogers. A touch-and-go to New York's winter. Wonder if Mary Boland talks that way off stage?

Jerome Beatty, a Lawrence, Kan., boy, who made good in the city. That whine from the subway—like the faraway howl of a timber wolf. Ladies who wear furs perkily on one shoulder. Wish George Ade would dash off another musical comedy. Marvin Maazel, hailed as another Paderewski.

Cops are suspicious of violin cases—they may hold machine guns. Never hear anyone say "By Golly!" any more. Every time I write favorably of a colored person, there come circulars from The League of White Predomination. The wise-cracking chorines who lunch at Dinty Moore's.

Broadway and its buzzing scoffers. And the cops new cry for "Beat it!"—"Scram!" What became of Roger Wolfe Kahn? The noon day crowd in the little cul de sac known as Shubert Alley. And the fresh-every-hour press agents flocking to Sardi's. Street bands seem to have quit.

Hary Hirshfield in a big green limousine—the dirty capitalist. And Kelcey Allen, called "the best loved and least read critic." Pretty girls supplant men in the box offices. But as long as there are theaters—there will be gyp speculators.

Never see a new shaving brush without a yen to buy. Sailing Baruch. The beautiful lady reputed queen of the drug ring—a sick oyster spawning the proverbial pearl. The once magnificent hotel where Anna Held took her milk bath—now third rate. McClelland Barclay, the artist.

Those banjo boys with the lively patter who carry on in night clubs. But so shy in daylight. Zip!—and a Broadway night bursts into zig-zag flame. As exciting as one of those breathless one word sentences of Fannie Hurst's. In spite of protests, this is all today.

A Broadway character of 15 years ago was a sleekly handsome fellow with jet black hair, a streak of white running through it cockatoo-like. He was a marvelous dancer, always squiring about a stage beauty of the moment. Then he vanished. In a hand laundry on Madison avenue recently I saw him—a clerk, broken and now entirely white haired. I recalled nights I used to see him around Broadway places. "My trouble," he said laconically and with a shrug.

Speaking of white hair, a rosy cheeked young girl—a secretarial type—with volet eyes and a figure fashion experts would call superb is often seen in the 42d street neighborhood. Dressed plainly in black her hair is snow white. And what an eyeful!

I locked myself in my coop today to be free of disturbances and catch up with work. In about an hour a smart alec dropped in and after pounding vainly on a door shouted: "You will have to get that woman out of there!" And the way he said it, you could tell he has been about!

I am told, however, the authority of house detectives in New York hotels has been greatly curtailed. They are not, in the best inns, permitted above the first floor. Their frequent blunders and lack of tact have cost huge sums in damage suits.

Barney Gallant was the last to hold aloft the Bohemian torch in Greenwich Village, but my spies tell me that even his night club has "gone uptown." The monocle has taken place of the poetical horm-rimmed cheater and costly ermine the Grecian robe and sandal.

There must be some name for it.

ISN'T IT SO?

Our pride is often increased by what we retrench from our other faults.

We easily pardon in our friends those faults which do not concern ourselves.
